

A Spirit Lift

Go Griffs! We made it through another week. All week long students were getting ready to scream out for another pep rally. This year our varsity football team has turned its program around, thanks to our new head football coach, Buddy Pough. Our great season gave the student body a lot more to shout about.

Some football players said that the pep rallies helped their performance on the field. Marcus Coleman, varsity football player, commented, "The first pep rally was exciting. It really was helpful in lifting our school spirit and it got the football team hyped."

Another student said the pep rallies were a time to show our school pride. "I thought the pep rally was fun, and it showed the school how much spirit we had for our football team," stated Julie Branham. Other students mentioned how the pep rallies gave their spirit a boost also.

While there were many students showing black and gold, there were also some students who used the time for a relief from the books. Ashley Mack said, "The first pep rally was great. It really helped us get a load off, especially around report card time."

Dancing With Class

During the introduction of the football players, Demetrius Davis supports the Senior class with a few dance steps.

Everybody Get Up

The Sophomores get up to show their school spirit and compete for the spirit stick during the pep rally.

"Stand Up, Clap Your Hands"

The cheerleaders show the school how to have spirit during the pep rally.
