

Iron Hands?

Did the administration rule with an iron hand or a malleable heart? It depends on the individuals point of view but could it have been getting the job done with sympathy? Whatever the case, the jobs did get done and we had a wonderful bunch of administrators that made that happen.

With new addition, Assistant Principal M. Robinson, the result was both perfection and affection. Working under Principal, Mr. Deane Fowble and with Assistant Principals Mr. Calvin Smith, Mr. Willie Casey, and Mr. David Corley, Ms. Robinson adjusted very well. "Coach Fowble has a wonderful personality and he is one of the many people that I will remember after I leave this year. He got the job done and he had a big heart." comments Senior, Canisha Martin. Don't forget Mr. Robert Sharpe at the Career Center. He was constantly at both buildings and it amazes many how it was done. The administration simply were the pick of the crop.

With programs such as the mentor program keeping Mr. D. Fowble busy, there was also more important things going on that made his job a twenty four hour thing. Mr. D. Corely as well had his hands full "keeping the Teacher Cadets straight." And there was no warning as to when Ms. M. Robinson would pay the classrooms a visit. Mr. C. Smith took care of many of the disciplinary actions along with Mr. W. Casey.

Whatever they did, they did a great job with it. Many of the things they took care of were behind the scenes and we could not begin to understand the gravity of it all. But we do know that we have appreciated all of it and are looking forward to working with them next year.
