

Spirit Week 1999

September 27 through October 1, 1999 was Spirit Week for Fairfield Central High School. Spirit Week is the week of the Homecoming game. During this time, students displayed their spirit by dressing for the occasion, and some even went to the extent of decorating their faces. Monday was Tacky Day for the school. Students showed how tacky they could be by wearing their clothes inside out, clashing socks, shoes, and other apparel. Some wore their hair in very shabby ways and often received laughs strolling through the halls between classes. On Tuesday, students dressed in camouflage and wore hats. More students participated in this day than any other day of the week. Wednesday was School Color Day. Students showed their zeal by dressing in school colors, colored their hair, and some even painted their faces. Thursday was the most interesting day. It was labeled as Generation Day. This was when Freshmen dressed as babies, Sophomores dressed as toddlers, Juniors dressed as business people, Seniors dressed as senior citizens, and the teachers dressed as they were dead. Some teachers showed their creativity, "cheating death," by dressing as angels. Friday was the last chance that students had before the Homecoming game to show their zeal. This day was classified as Class Color Day. The classes competed against each other and showed how much spirit their class had. Freshmen wore black, Sophomores wore red, Juniors wore white t-shirts and blue jeans, and Seniors wore blue. Spirit week was a time of fun, laughter, and the opportunity for students to show their zeal.
