

Foreign Language

Foreign Language is a very important part of the high school experience. By studying foreign languages, students learn about different languages, different countries and different cultures. The foreign language courses taught at Fairfield Central offer students a window to the world.

Through foreign language courses, students not only learn how to speak Spanish or French, but they also learn about life in the countries where these languages are spoken. Students can expect to learn of food, music and customs from many different countries throughout the world. Students in foreign language classes frequently listen to popular music from the different countries they are studying. Often, students see, first hand, the many differences between life in the United States and throughout the rest of the world.

Foreign language students learn inside the classroom, but often they participate in foreign language studies outside of the classroom. Many of these students participate in either the Spanish or French clubs, which are designed to bring awareness to different customs and cultures.

Dominique Ashford

Right: Martha Dove and Willie Qualls work in the library on research for a report in Spanish. Senora McCool grades papers as they work.

