

Administration

Although the school lost two administrators last year, Fairfield Central High bounced back by replacing them with administrators who are new to the school but not to Fairfield County. With help from the administration, our school performs like a well-oiled machine. The lunch lines move with ease, the hallways clear before the tardy bell rings, and everyone is dressed according to the dress code. The administration has made Fairfield Central a safer place by installing cameras and providing the students with a great learning environment.

Every Monday, teachers and administrators meet to review school policies and address concerns of the school. The administrators sit in classes reviewing the teachers performance and check for identification on the students. The administrators work with the club sponsors to decide meeting times and budgets and approve the organization's fundraisers and extracurricular activities.

M. Dove, R. Ulch

Right: Mr. Corley is reviewing the student's records to select some people for the SAT Team.

Below: Mr. Wicker, the assistant principle, checks the new hall pass to make sure Donte Harrison is not skipping his 7th period class.

