

Future Business Leaders of America

The FBLA stands for Future Business Leaders of America. Among the many requirements to be in the club are to sign up for various computer and business classes at the Fairfield County Career Center (FCCC). As some may know, these classes are intended for learning as much about computers as possible. The FCCC received 64 brand new Compaq computers including 24 zip disk, and a great deal of software. These programs, including Timed Writings, are all provided to help students improve their typing and other computer skills. FBLA students also help out businesses once a week starting in the second semester. FBLA has sponsored a food drive for Christmas. In January State, district, and national competitions will start. This year's officers for FBLA are: Mrs. Blackwelder as the advisor; Maurice Belton as president; Derrick Belton as vice president; Latecia Chappelle as the reporter; and Lawanda Turner as secretary.

Gwyenette Lemon

Above: Computer technology is becoming more vital to the leaders in the workplace. Students of the Future Business Leaders of America Club regularly work on the computers, gaining new skills.

Above: The 1999-2000 Future Business Leaders of America Club