

PROPHESY

Being born in the scientific age, it enables me to look into the future and foresee my classmates at their work.

BUDDY BARBEE, a weather-beaten sailor, home on one of his well deserved leaves full of exciting tales of his adventure in the South Seas.

GEORGE WILKES as a Senator in Washington arguing for a bill to be passed which would increase wages and lower the hours of labor.

ALLEN GRAHAM, a prosperous farmer in the little metropolis of Strother, trying out all the most modern farming machinery.

WILLIAM RAMEY remained a bachelor and is now operating a garage in Feasterville.

GRACE BLAIR, teaching physical education in the University of Chicago where her husband is a professor of Chemistry.

ALLENE GRAHAM, looking very tidy in her white uniform as head nurse of Duke Hospital.

MARY JO LADD, a business executive, is widely known for speed and efficiency. For her pastime she sings over WKMOV on special occasions.

ANNIE LAURA LINDLER, happily married and living in a quaint little cottage overlooking Broad River.

ANNIE PEARLE CROMER, a newspaper reporter who not only brings in important news but also edits "Advice To The Lovelorn" column.

DENNIS FLORENCE is a banker in New York who watches closely the stock market.

GEORGE YONGUE, now an architect is erecting a skyscraper twice the height of the Empire State Building.

Finally I see myself as the private secretary of a famous producer in Hollywood.

ANN MILLER, Prophet
