*On the hills of dear old Fairfield
Proudly stands our school;
All hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Conquer and prevail.*

*Loyal students ever loving
Honor and obey,
All hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Mount Zion, all hail!*

*"And the Lord will create upon every dwelling place of Mount Zion, and upon her assemblies, a cloud and smoke by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night."—

Mount Zion Institute

Foreword

Located in the historic town of old Winnsboro, overlooking the beautiful, rolling hills of Fairfield County, stands our Alma Mater. Directly descended from Mount Zion Academy, a school of higher education, founded in 1777, Mount Zion Institute preserves the spirit of cooperation and fellowship which it has fortunately inherited. Steeped in tradition and historic background, Mount Zion is a symbol of the better institutions of learning.

In this, our first issue of TUSITALA, may we help in some small way to continue the spirit of good will and fellowship that has for so long characterized our institution. To "The Spirit of Mount Zion," we owe our first annual. May this spirit live forever!

Winnsboro, South Carolina

To The Spirit of Mount Zion

*"So shall the Lord of hosts come down to fight for Mount Zion, and for the hill thereof."

To those men of the distant past in Charleston and Winnsboro, who, seeing the need of unity and education in His Majesty's colony of South Carolina, formed the Mount Zion Society and founded Mount Zion Institute; to their successors, who, in prosperity and in adversity, in war and in peace, in the bright sunshine of glorious victory and in the dark shadow of utter defeat, have kept "the light on the hill" aflame for these one hundred and sixty-eight years; and to the radiant spirit that inspired and guided them, and in the fullness of time, has made Mount Zion stately and beautiful; we, with abiding gratitude and admiration, dedicate this volume.

Mount Zion Institute

The History of Mount Zion

The Mount Zion Society was formed at Charlestown on January 29, 1777, and on February 13 following was incorporated for the purpose of "founding, endowing and supporting a public school in the district of Camden." Thus, Mount Zion Institute was conceived, and thus for the first time, perhaps, Low Country and Up Country in South Carolina engaged in a common scheme for the general welfare. This purpose of unity in the colony is nowhere expressly stated in the Articles of Incorporation, but it is strongly implied in the personnel of The Board of Directors of thirteen members: seven of these were from the up country, and six from the city of Charlestown. The first President of the Society was John Winn of Winnsboro, the wardens, General Strother and Captain Robert Ellison. The relation of education to religion appears by implication in the preamble to The Constitution: "Arise! Shine! For thy light is come and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee." "To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called the trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord that he might be glorified."

This identity of Christianity with education is shown, too, by the close relationship that existed between Mount Zion Society and Sion Presbyterian church in Winnsboro. Those early men of vision saw very clearly what many modern educators have forgotten—education without religion is vanity. Thus, in the very beginning they inculcated the spirit that has always animated Mount Zion throughout her long and honorable history.

Before the Society built a school in Winnsboro, perhaps as early as 1767, a certain William Humphrey held classes in a small building located, probably, near where the post office now stands. It is likely, however, that Humphreys became the employee of the Society. At any rate, instruction went regularly on until the British army under Lord Cornwallis occupied Winnsboro in 1780. This event disrupted classes, but in 1783 the Society met, reorganized, and continued its work. In 1784 Rev. Thomas Harris McCants was placed in charge of the institution. He was an able man, and with the assistance of W. S. Yongne, W. M. Davy, and William Humphreys, he enlarged and improved the school. In 1785 the General Assembly of South Carolina granted, on the same day, charters to three colleges, one of which was "Mount Zion College at Winnsboro." Mount Zion never, perhaps, functioned under this charter, but the people of Winnsboro still call Mount Zion "The College."

From the re-opening of the school after the departure of Lord Cornwallis until 1834 nothing noteworthy happened. Able teachers during the period enlarged and improved the school, quietly and inconspicuously. Among them was a Mr. Fitz, "a northern man, but a fine teacher and scholar," Mr. Robert Munforce, and a Mr. Stafford of North Carolina. Among the trustees of this period were such familiar names as John McMaster, David Aiken, John Buchanan, P. E. Pearson, Caleb Clark, and William Moore. It was during this period, too, in 1824, that the Society began to hold its meetings in Winnsboro. Until this year it had met in Charleston.

James W. Hudson came to Mount Zion in 1834. He was a dominant character and a great teacher. Students came to Mount Zion from all over the Southern States. Hudson made Mount Zion famous. "It became the ambition of favored young men to avail themselves of the Superior Advantage of Mount Zion." Among Hudson's assistants were William Bratton, Thomas McCants, D. Wyatt Aiken, George H. McMaster, James H. Rion, and Wood Davidson. Hudson is buried under a monument erected to his memory just in front of the present graded school building.

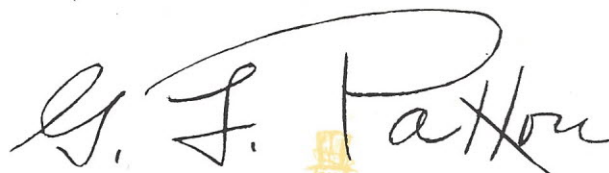

During the period of the war between the states Mount Zion never closed its doors. In the latter part of the war the buildings were used as a military hospital, and at the last were occupied by Federal troops. Meeting disaster with unflinching courage, the trustees continued the school, the classes meeting in the Baptist Church, Thespian Hall, anywhere where a roof to cover the pupils could be found.

In 1867 there came the crowning blow. Fire destroyed the building completely. The Society, still reeling from the shock of war and in the midst of the terrible reconstruction era, suffered a loss of thirty thousand dollars. But the spirit instilled by the founders was indomitable. In 1873 a smaller building was erected and the school continued. In 1878 Mount Zion was changed from an academy to a public graded school, still connected, however, with Mount Zion Society. This was undoubtedly the first public school in the state outside of Charleston. Professor R. Means Davis, great gentleman and beloved teacher, was the guiding spirit in this innovation.

About 1880, an attempt was made to revive the collegiate features of the school. A joint meeting of the Society and the citizens was held. The town issued its bonds for some seven thousand dollars, giving the proceeds to Mount Zion. Funds were raised in other ways and the session of 1881 was opened "in a large and well arranged brick building, furnished with improved seats, chemical laboratory, etc." W. H. Witherow became Superintendent, and for sixteen years under his leadership the school grew in usefulness. From Witherow's time until the present, the school has been a public graded and high school under the laws of the State of South Carolina.

In 1922, the building, which was so "large and well arranged" in 1881, was torn away and the present grammar school building was erected. This structure was used by both graded and high schools until 1936, when a new high school building was erected.

The "light on the hill," as Dr. Jas. H. Carlisle called Mount Zion, still shines. We hope that the spirit of the founders still animates us, who use the tools they forged. Honor, reverence, courage, loyalty, sound learning, courtesy, and consideration for others—these are the things Mount Zion has stood for. The fads and frills and foolish fancies of education of these latter days are not a part of her spirit and her tradition. Let us hope that she will hold fast to her ideals: changing her methods, but not her purposes, slowly and sanely as the years go by.

The Meaning of Mount Zion

What is the meaning of Mount Zion—its spirit? What picture does the name bring to mind?

It means a background of God-fearing, brave, intelligent men and women, who believe in education for knowledge and for righteousness.

It means a noble struggle by a state-wide Society, to bring all the people of South Carolina together—to unify sections and sects.

It means a brave adventure, during the hardships and terrors of the Revolution, to provide for the people the education that independence would demand.

It means generations of unswerving loyalty to the principle of seeking first the things of mind and soul, of subordinating all things, even parental partiality, to the highest good of their children.

It means one of the greatest preparatory schools of its day, sending to the colleges future leaders for the whole state.

In its later function—humbler but nobler—of teaching “all the children of all the people,” it has meant, in town and county, a folk of remarkably high intelligence and character—a character shaped by the fear of God applied to the common affairs of life.

It means numbers of worthy and efficient young people, out of all proportion to the size of the town, filling positions throughout South Carolina—and “making good.” It is related that Dr. James H. Carlisle was asked, “What made Winnsboro and Fairfield men notable?” He replied, “That light on the hill,” meaning Mount Zion.

The Mount Zion of today means the powerful instrument that this same strong stock is employing to fit its children, not for the times of their forbears, but for tasks confronting them in the days soon to come.

And what of the future? As in the past it has striven to meet the needs of the age in which its pupils were to live, so the Mount Zion of tomorrow must, with equal breadth of mind, dare to face the inconceivably wonderful changes thrust on us by the approaching years, and fit our youth to “be bigger than anything that can happen to them.”

Mount Zion is historic, but not old. Let us will that she shall be a vigorously developing youth, having the prowess to meet new onslaughts with weapons ever freshly forged.

And so, finally, Mount Zion means HOPE.

Patterson Wardlaw.

Class History

The class of '41! Seniors at last . . . at the end of our high school days. Four years gone . . . flown really . . . and now we sit in retrospect and call back those years. . . .

Freshmen . . . and we really were! . . . trying to act as if schedules, heavy books and long assignments were our daily dozen . . . so proud to be the first class in the new building . . . yet overawed, bewildered . . . the Latin Club . . . its "terrors" of initiation . . . our first lessons in sportsmanship . . . lustily singing "On the hills . . ."

"Sophistomores" . . . quite sure of ourselves these days . . . making the "rats" of Latin Club say "ma'am" and "sir" . . . going in for Athletics (with a capital A) . . . being "examples" all over the place to the incoming Freshmen . . . high and mighty . . . carrying high the torch.

Juniors . . . businesslike . . . money-making schemes to finance the Junior-Senior . . . proud of having so many members in the Beta Club . . . outstanding athletes . . . our stage debut in "Oh Susanne" . . . the climax: Junior-Senior . . . banquet and dance . . . best ever!

Seniors . . . dignified, ambitious, dreamy-eyed . . . An Annual . . . to further the "Spirit of Mount Zion" . . . work, fun, more work . . . stage struck again: "Girl-Shy" . . . time out for Beta Club Convention in Columbia . . . our own Junior-Senior . . . then the culmination of all our efforts . . . Tusitala . . . the record of our joys and tribulations . . . the emblem of our feeling toward Mount Zion. The spirit that has guided us for four years will surely lead us on.

The Junior year is perhaps the busiest of the four years in high school, most of the activities being centered around the traditional and all-important Junior-Senior banquet and dance. Proceeds from all Junior activities go to make the occasion something that will be remembered. Several dances and the Junior Class play are among the most important activities of the class.

French Club

Organized last year, the French Club of Mount Zion is still in the experimental stages. Instead of having regular monthly meetings, it was agreed that the club would sponsor and bring before the school such things as French motion pictures, plays and good French literature. Part of this plan has been realized and the members this year are interested in continuing these objectives. Membership is confined to Seniors.

Glee Club

Mt. Zion Glee Club

The Mount Zion Glee Club has as its purpose the installing of an appreciation for good music, not only in those students of particular musical ability, but also in the student body as a whole. This organization is open to any girl in the high school who is interested in music. During the year several programs are presented.

Band

The Mount Zion Band was organized in 1935 by Mr. J. A. Allen, who did the pioneering under great difficulties. Mr. Allen left Mount Zion in the summer of 1940 to join the army. Mr. R. L. Jenkins of Union is now director. The band, composed of both grammar and high school pupils, furnishes music for athletic events and assemblies.

Camera Club

The Camera Club is the youngest of the campus clubs. It was organized in 1939 for the purpose of exploring a whole new world of camera fun. As a result, the members delight in making pictures which give a lasting pleasure to them and to their friends. Along with the fun they learn much of photography which is both an art and a science.
