

A YEAR AT M. Z. I.

The year of 1957 started off in a fine joyous manner when old students returned and the young eighth graders were initiated. Below are two examples of eighth grade pulchritude.

When the first hint of autumn was felt and Jack Frost began his annual frolics, and sweaters and skirts replaced fluffy summer dresses, we knew football season was about to begin. Nights of laughter and fun followed, as we clutched hot bags of popcorn and cheered Richard on to make one more touchdown.
