

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of 1984, being of sound minds and bodies, do declare this to be our Last Will and Testament and do hereby bequeath these, our worldly goods, to the fortunate individuals so designated below.

BETSY BARRINEAU: To Mr. Gasque, Betsy leaves Tommy and Ray so that, for six more years he will have a Barrineau to pick on. To Ann Teal, Beth Taylor, and Abby Cathcart, a double cheeseburger, onion rings, and an orange drink to be split evenly among themselves and a free ride to Thornwell, redeemable during basketball season. To the rising seniors, Betsy leaves tips on whining in hopes that these tips will help them with the teachers as much as they did her.

ANN GOOD: To Tony Beckham, 20 pairs of parachute pants in hopes that they will slow him down when he drives his car. To Joel Crosby, the ability to cut school without getting caught, and to pass George Taylor's class. To Mr. Gasque and Mr. Robinson, a radar detector in hopes that they will not get stopped on the way to basketball games next year.

ROBIN WHITE: To Sharon Smith, a book entitled 150 Ways to Keep Off Restriction. To Leslie Jones and Stephen Clyburn, Robin leaves her car for use at their discretion. To Mr. George Taylor, the book 101 Ways to Teach Psychology Without Keeping the Class Bored. To Mrs. Nicholson and Coach Gasque, Robin leaves a 60 minute tape of continuous talking and laughing so that whenever they get bored and have no one to fuss at, they can turn on the tape.

MARY ANN CALDWELL: To Michelle Benson, Betsy and Jody, the ability to do without her in the sardine-packed carpool. To Coach Gasque and Coach Robinson, Mary Ann leaves Betsy and Jody and the ability to put up with them for two more years. To Cheryl and Mac, the ability to decide on somewhere to go on a Saturday night and not get caught in a hail storm on the way. To next year's Varsity Basketball Cheerleading Captain, the ability to have all the cheerleaders present for at least one game.

TRACY HAYGOOD: To Mrs. Ferguson, the hope that she will never have another student like Ritchie Monteith. To Camak Blair, the ability to make it through 9 more years of Richard Winn without having a nervous breakdown and to be on time every day without receiving as many tardies as she did.

BOBBY CASTLES: To Gertrude Wilkes, Bobby leaves the nickle on the floor. To Paul Holmes, Bobby leaves Page and her favorite words, "you got any money?"

LAURA BOST: To Mr. Gasque, one student who is willing to do anything he needs to have done. To Mr. Robinson and Miss Reid, one large tote bag to carry all their stats. To Allyson Sanders, Cindy Mazat, Peter Rambo, and Robert Moore, the hope that they will attend the Quiz Bowl next year and have as much fun as they did this year. To Mrs. Pope, an economics class full of registered voters.

DAVID HERNDON and RUSSELL WILKES: To Coach Gasque, their collection of hunting and fishing knowledge in hopes that one day he will profit from their vast outdoor experiences. To Eddie Mattox, the Senior football players leave the ability to handle the car smuggling ring without their leadership.

BECKY MATTOX: To Coach Robinson, a bottle of "Instant Hair" which can be used above the forehead or preferably above the upper lip. To Sharon Smith, a half pound of Corn Diggers and a map in hopes that she will some day find Union Academy within four hours. To Julie Weed, a year's supply of bubble gum so she can eat, not chew, but eat it while cruising town, and another set of hands so she can write Jeff as many letters as he writes her. To "Nat-Lie" Gardner, "I be's leavin' you in my will a yeah's supply of wata-melons and fro-sheen!"

GENE PRICE: To Mrs. Nicholson, two blocks of wood so that she will be able to drive the bus to Bob Jones next year. To Coach Robinson, a new joke book because the one he's using now is obviously as old as he is. To Coach Gasque, the ability to find another full-time slave and the ability to get to the ballgames on time after leaving 30 minutes late.

LIZ HARDEN: To Mac and Cheryl, the key to her house to check in and see if her parents are still alive, and one paper bag. To Jena Barnett, my angel of mercy, thank you for opening my eyes to Richard Winn and all it can offer. To Scott Barefield, a can of red spray paint and the hope that he will find a nickname for someone else.

TROY BECKHAM: To Steve Reed, the ability to total the drivers ed car and injure the stud of the football team. To Tony, a million and one excuses to get out of class. To Mrs. Nicholson, a free season pass to the State Hospital.

WYLIE WRIGHT: To Sandi, Wylie leaves his most treasured (and most joked about) possession — "The Dart." To Coach Robinson, a conductor's wand so he can lead the class in singing "Happy Birthday." To Scott Barefield, Wylie and Russell leave with their congratulations to him on being the "School Stud." To Robert Stidham, Wylie and Bobby leave the ability to run one more hundred yard dash at midnight on the football field.

KEN PITMON: To George Taylor, a seasonal pass to Walden Pond so that he can get in touch with himself at any time. To Mrs. Nicholson, Ken leaves Kerry in hopes that the tenor section will be "Superior" next year. To Mrs. Boulware, the ability to keep her cool in a debate with Coach Gasque concerning who's property the stapler is.

ROBIN LEVER: To Tony Beckham, the ability to make it through school another year without getting into trouble, or at least, not getting caught.

ROB POPE: To Ed and Allan, an extra pair of thumbs in case theirs fall off thumbing a ride to school every morning. To Coach Gasque and the '84 football team, best wishes and support for a successful season.

To George Taylor, Robin Lever and Fran Miller leave the book 101 New Ways to Teach Journalism, film, a toll-free number to call Taylor Publishing Company, and a class willing to jump at every command.

FRAN MILLER: To Cheryl Stevenson, 1 pair of steel-toed hightop basketball shoes for future basketball practices. To next years' basketball team, lots of luck for the upcoming season. To Donna, Fran leaves the name "Milla" in hopes that she can continue the tradition.

BECKY DUBARD: To Melissa Weed and next year's Varsity Football Cheerleaders, a can of Country Time Powdered Lemonade, a can opener, and a free pass to the Elliot White Springs Memorial Hospital, good only twenty minutes before competition time. To Mr. Robinson, a flock of birds, whose company he so richly deserves, and a discussion on Theology at Wendy's. To Miss Reid, an L. L. Bean Catalog and the patience to deal with Mr. Robinson. To Betsy Caldwell, a little message, and to Rod Wilkes a mangled manual typewriter, a new yellow MacGregor shirt, and a new brown truck.

JANICE CARTER: To Tony Beckham, the ability to go to the Jr. Sr. with a date and get home early with his date. To Karen Collins, one more year of Biology and Tony Beckham. To Shannon Case, the ability to put up with Lori calling her "toothpick" and "twig." To Lori, the ability to cut down Randy every chance she gets. To Cristin, the ability to survive one more year with Coach Robinson and Coach Gasque. To Steve Reed, Janice leaves the ability to go to chorus two more years without Fran and herself.

PATSY PALMER: To Mr. Robinson, Patsy leaves a crown and a scepter so that he can reign with all the authority his heart desires. To Coach Porter, a blue light and a police badge so he can keep the roads safe from speeders. To Mr. Gasque, Patsy leaves an unbreakable fishing rod. To Mrs. DuBard, she leaves a box of Kleenex and a new video of Helen Keller. To Robert Stidham, a set of tickets to next years' shrimp boil. To Joey Smith, a pack of cigarettes at the Manhattan parking lot. To Mrs. Turner, Patsy and Ken leave a big smile.

DENA REEVES: To Coach Robinson, Dena leaves the worlds' largest sunlamp in order for him to obtain "The Myrtle Beach Look" even if it rains. To Robert Stidham, bottoms up on your "end of the world" — you never were sure which end was up. Thanks for all the memories and the great times. To Stephen Clyburn and Jason Wilson, a big hug and lots of love. To Jena Barnett, the advice to not judge new girls in plaid pants because sometimes there is a pleasant prep in them.

PENNY RENWICK: To future statisticians, Laura and Penny leave a well-sharpened pencil, a calculator with Duracell batteries, earplugs, a rule book, a dime to call the stats in, a good sense of humor, maximum strength Tylenol, and above all, Patience. To Annie McLeod, the next RWA Sports Information Director, Penny leaves the ability to put up with the football players' lies about how many tackles they had, a brain that will calculate offensive and defensive stats in one minute, the ability to organize an athletic banquet in one day, and any information necessary to answer any question at any time of day.

ELISA HARE: To Ross, the ability to project the letters E A G L E S unmistakably, anywhere, anytime, and the ability to arrive promptly at every school function. To Whitesides, Elisa leaves the ability to be a model "chestnut" and get from Chester to Winnsboro in ten minutes or less. To Julia Bradford, the ability to keep the Chester boys straight, and to Joanna Johnson, a set of drumsticks in hopes that she puts them to good use.

RUSSELL WILKES: To Rod, Russell leaves one darling, precious little nuisance named Randy.

PERRY ANNE PATRICK: To Paul, the ability to maintain life and sanity while Rob drives to school. To Rob, one maid working 24 hours a day to clean up after Paul. To Marion and Brett, the ability to obtain 18 absences at the Vocational School and to be late every day and never get a tardy. To Robert Stidham, a free trip to Erskine and the ability to get home on time.

To the Chester people, Dena and Elisa leave a tank of gas, a spare tire, 25 tardies for each person per year, and a book entitled 101 Excuses Why You Were Late.

To Frances Ann Hendrix, Scott leaves all his love and the keys to her car.

To Karen Collins, Valencia leaves her ability to get to school at 8:35 and somehow get to class without a tardy slip.

To Jennifer Weed, Valencia leaves the ability to teach Julie to put the top on the toothpaste.

To Julie Weed, Valencia leaves a book of diets that allows you to eat Road Runner hamburgers and cake. and last but not least:

Robin White and Valencia Dinkins leave to Julie Weed a book of 150 Ways to Keep a Navy Man Satisfied.

To Frances Ann, Jiggs leaves the number to the psychiatric ward in Columbia so that she can discuss all her "Porter Problems" while I'm gone.

To Robert Moore, Jiggs leaves the ability to have a chinese dinner at Imperial Gardens without falling face-first in the salad and the power to save his money while under the influence of a diluted drink.

To Joanna, Jiggs leaves his Algebra II book with all the answers under the desk.

To Mrs. Turner, Jiggs leaves . . . alone!

To "ten gallon," Jiggs leaves a sack full of practice jerseys so that he won't have to go to the wash at camp.

To Brooks, Jiggs leaves the ability to make it through another year of Mrs. Turner.

To Robert Moore, Tina and Jiggs leave the ability to make it to the restroom while doing the "turkey walk."

To Wittowski, Jiggs leaves Coach Gasque and a senior year of RWA football.

To Mac Johnson, Russell leaves the ability to remember the snapcount, play, and blocking assignment for all the other linemen.

To Rod, Russell leaves Randy.

To George Taylor, Wylie, Bobby, Eric, and Russell leave a new Master lock for his gate in hopes he will keep out any "prowlers."

To Gina, Tina and Ellen leave a free pass to the "flicks."

To Robert Moore, Tina and Ellen leave a can of paint for the walls at Imperial Gardens and a class of accounting so that in the future he will be able to account for his money.

To Julie Weed, Tina and Ellen leave the ability to pull off the "super-sneak" with a jelly-filled doughnut.

To Julie, Ellen leaves a full tank of gas to cruise Main Street on the night of a full moon.

To Jim Douglas, Tina leaves her hot-rod.

To Jim, Ellen leaves the ability to survive five long, hard years and all her love.

To Brent Kelly, Tina leaves all her love and "Java" to sleep with when she's gone.

To Mr. Robinson, Tina leaves a case of golf balls so that he can play instead of searching the course for lost balls.

To the on-coming seniors, Tina and Ellen leave their ability to have a senior-cut day with more than four people.

To Mr. Taylor, Tina and Ellen leave with a smile on their faces and happiness in their hearts.

To Brad Sanders, Tina leaves a case of Icy Hot!!!

To Joanna Johnson, Tina and Ellen leave an interview with WIS-10.
