

Fantastic Season Results From Hard Work, Determination, and Practice

At the outset of the season, Lady Eagle coach, Beth Reid, was excited and optimistic that this would be "the year." Her expectation became reality as she saw her team take twenty regular season games and win the Conference 3-AA tournament.

This team success was the result of hard work that began with conditioning drills even before our new gym was finished. These fourteen girls set their goals high and practiced long and hard to build a strong team. Coach Reid emphasized teamwork and cooperation which paid big dividends. The Lady Eagles were close-knit on and off the court and played unselfishly passing the ball well to get the best shot. The team recorded an unprecedented number of assists.

Because the Lady Eagles so dominated their opponents, Coach Reid was able to substitute freely giving all team members plenty of playing time. With nine experienced players returning to next year's team, next year may be "the year," too!
