Rambo Travels To Nassau With Teen Missions

Jonathan Rambo was one of four thousand young people who participated in the Teen Missions Program in the summer of '85. Teen Missions is a program which provides teenagers an opportunity to travel and to experience a missionary's life.

Jonathan was sent to Nassau where he helped construct a building to be used for offices and storage for the only Bible Camp on the island. When he was allowed free time, he caught up on washing his clothes and then headed for the beach where he enjoyed swimming and spearing fish in the sparkling clear water.

To sponsor his six-week trip, Jonathan had to raise his own money. Church groups and individuals who heard him speak about his project contributed to help him meet his $1500 goal.

In reflecting on his experiences, Jonathan commented, "I now appreciate what I have more than I did before, but I would go back again if I had enough money."

Jonathan Rambo and Sandi Wright don their hiking boots and make ready for their Teen Missions Project.
