

Rion Fetner grins because he knows the school day will be over soon.

The Senior class — The Best

Because the Senior class has 29 people in it, the activities vary. While some enjoy competing in sports others strive for excellence in the classroom. This year, four classmates on the Academic Bowl Team competed against four other schools and placed third. Not only do we excel in the classroom (over one-third of the class is in Beta Club), but also we excel in sports. The girls basketball team, state champions for two years, and the football team being state runner-up proves our excellence. Also, the tennis team has shown much improvement this year. With all of these activities, it is obvious that this Senior class is the best.

by: Heather Driggers and Jacquie Case

Heath Cope, Randy Wilkes, and George King are impressed with the big turnout at the bonfire the night before their last game.

Looking very nervous, Mary Paul Bonds gives her speech in Student Council elections.

Several years ago, Ann Marie Burley and Rion Fetner displayed their catch of the day.

Heath Cope and Terol Hegler take away from their studies to talk to fellow students in the hall.