

There are some things that you never forget — that one teacher who took a genuine interest in you, the winning touchdown in the state football championship, or maybe that “A” that you finally earned after hours of beating miscellaneous facts into your head. Whether it be simple, such as a smile or an encouraging word, or if it is a spectacular once-in-a-lifetime event, certain things leave their impressions upon us. Our theme for the 1993 Aerie is, quite appropriately, “Lasting Impressions.” Our staff chose this theme mainly because of the many influences that we experience in elementary as well as throughout high school. Truly, our entire lives are shaped by the people, ideas, and events of our early years. As we get older, we find that we are not only formable clay shaped by those around us, but that we, in turn, shape the lives of those around us as well.
