“ I like changing classes — you don't have to be cooped up in one room all day long. ”

— Michelle Quinn

The sixth grade class is an extraordinary group of students. Favorite athletes vary from basketball players to professional skaters — some of which include Michael Jordan, Chris Mullen, David Justice, and Kristi Yamaguchi. Many students picked these professional athletes because they inspire them to do their very best. What do sixth graders like best about being in middle school? Responses included: having more freedom in the halls and lunchroom, being more responsible, and experiencing challenges that are new and different from the previous year. Blair Feaster says that she likes changing classes the best because it makes the day seem shorter. Clearly, the sixth graders seem to be enjoying their first year in middle school.
