

We try to be good neighbors to all our neighbors.

Whatever kind of work we're doing, like maintaining power lines or installing new ones, we go out of our way to preserve animal habitats and other aspects of our delicate ecosystem.

In the central part of the state, for example, we've set up nesting areas that have helped to more than double the state's population of Canada Geese. And along the coast, nesting platforms have been built for the ospreys who seem to like roosting on transmission poles.

After all, we believe very strongly in providing creature comforts, without discomforting the creatures.
