

Students and teachers alike try to cram as much fun and relaxation into the three short vacation months, but when the school bells ring again, there's no question that there's ...

Life Between Summers!

From pre-season practices and camps to final report cards and graduation, the school year is a busy nine months. Not only do the students and faculty get involved in the many extra-curricular activities offered, but they do so with devotion, loyalty, enthusiasm, and emotion.

BUSY BODIES. Sophomore cheerleader Sally Hinnant and teammate Rachelle Bedenbaugh, a junior, are busy preparing a sign for the football team's next game. These girls, along with the rest of the varsity squad, worked hard each week during after-school hours to get ready for Friday's pep rallies and games.

OH HEAVENLY DAYS! Sixth grader Josh Allen plays the lead role in the play "The Littlest Angel", performed by the Drama Club. This activity gave students who are musically and theatrically inclined a chance to "show off" their talents in front of a large crowd at the annual Christmas program.
