

As the 1997-1998 school year comes to a close, we pause to reflect upon the changes made not only at our school this year, but all around our community, state, and nation. As time passes, so must we change with the times. Despite these changes there are some things that will never change ... the daily homework assignments, the concern for the students' education and well-being expressed by loving, caring parents, teachers, and administrators, the dedication of the numerous and faithful volunteers, the desire and work toward being the best school in the state academically and athletically.
