

TOASTING ALLEGIANCE. Reid Patrick, Justin Wilson, Josh Walters, and Wendy Gwynn raise their right arms up in allegiance as they sing the final verse of the Alma Mater. These grads, like the many who have graduated before them, hold a special place in their hearts for RWA.

TWINS TO REMEMBER ... Joe and Russ Brown watch and listen with intensity as the ceremony proceeds. Not only did these twin brothers make an impact on their classmates and school, but the class of 2000 memorialized the deceased Boulware twins with flowers placed in two empty seats.

FRIENDS FOREVER. Blair Wright, Reid Patrick, Coleman Startsman, Hall Sprott, and Wendy Gwynn share a group hug before the Baccalaureate service. Many happy moments have been filed away in each of these girl's memory banks.

A STUTTING STOKES. Board Chairman Mike Mills congratulates RWA graduate Kyle Stokes as he hands him his diploma and offers him a handshake. Kyle, like all the other grads, was happy to turn toward the camera on stage to capture this special moment for posterity.

TWO OF A KIND. Crazyness sets in as Mike Leitner and Kris Klaus laugh and smile to express their happiness of the approaching graduation ceremony. These two were voted as the Most Original students in the Class of 2000.

LOOKING BACK ... Class Salutatorian Wendy Gwynn reminisces of the school days with her classmates through all of the awesome memories of their years together. Many of her comments brought laughter from the audience as she shared some of their various experiences.
