

VENTURING THROUGH VIRGINIA

IS THE DOCTOR IN?

Several sixth graders examine surgical tools used during the Revolutionary War. The Yorktown stop allowed the students to observe the life of colonists during the Revolutionary Period.

ANCHORS AWAY!

Daniel Porter and Martin Caulder perch atop the giant anchor outside the Museum of the Confederacy museum. This was the first of many educational stops of their busy Virginia itinerary.

GIRL POWER!

Sixth grade girls gather around to pose for their first picture after the long train ride. These exhausted girls were glad to take a brief break from their touring schedule.
