

ACT II

As balmy afternoons chilled into frigid early sunsets, students settled into a routine of homework, after-school jobs, and extra-curricular activities. Friday night football games gave way to Christmas countdowns and class parties. In true holiday spirit, students participated in charitable events such as Operation Christmas Child and the Angel Tree project. As is tradition, the lower school performed their annual Christmas program. After the initial shock of drastic change, students realized through the presence of tradition and the closeness that the holidays bring, that they were...
