

Life truly is a stage, and we all play roles in a world much larger than ourselves. While it is true that we all have our own entrances and exits, what we all-too-often fail to realize is that many of our exits are not endings at all, but a beginning to something new, to a different show entirely. So for those of you who are making your exit from Richard Winn, please remember that while we'll miss you, you'll be moving on to new experiences with the love and support of your RWA family. After all...

Many thanks for your love, loyalty, and dedication through the years...
