SPIRIT WEEK

Blue and Gold Day

Beat 'Em Black and Blue Day

Eagle Spirit's on Fire!

This year brought on a whole new look for Spirit Week. Blue and Gold Day and Beat 'em Black and Blue Day were added into the mix. Both were casual jeans days. Not everyone was too excited about these new days. "I did not like the new days, because I really want to keep the old tradition alive," said D. J. Moser. Douglas Peake added "The old days were more fun and traditional." As the week continued, everyone was able to enjoy what days remained unchanged from last year. Some students, like Luke Davis, enjoyed going all-out on Camo Day; "I enjoyed being, as Coach Copeland calls it, a stupid little swamp monster." The annual bonfire was held on Wednesday night and included a date auction, which proved to be a big hit among the ladies. Sisters Candace and Anna Grey Walters were lucky enough to "win" alumnus Roe Coleman, after parent Sarah Gibson placed a winning bid of seventy dollars. The week came to a climactic end with a spirited Pep Rally where Miss Mills announced the Homecoming Court and Joseph Talbert was announced Homecoming King. The Senior class won the Spirit Stick after an interesting battle against the Junior class and the rally ended with a Guitar Hero Tournament that Morgan McDougald dominated.

1. Drew Maass and Myles Rowe show off their amazing dance moves.
2. The sixth grade screams their loudest at the Pep Rally.
3. Keegan Johnson adjusts Trow Hazen's hat for the auction.
