

Jenna Burroughs

This Day

This day so special, awhile ago seemed so far away.
Birthday cakes and holidays, they camouflaged its way.
I often thought when This day came, I'd have it all planned out.
I closed my eyes for a little rest, just a short quick nap,
When I awoke you were grown, no more baby girl.
It's your time now and with This day, the dawn of your new world.

Our prayer for you to show God's love, in everything you do.
You've stood your ground, when it was not always a pleasant thing for you.
You never strayed in your beliefs in God; He always brought you through.
And I'm so proud to see This day, and all His plans for you.

Be proud, This day, is finally here, and tomorrow have no fear.
He'll guide you, as in times before, His love will lead you, dear.
So walk your walk, and battles win, you're special in His sight.
This day, as others, He'll be with you, and guide you with His light.

We love you,
Mom and Dad

