

"Education is the movement from darkness to light."

-Allan Bloom

CASHIN IN

Lawson Wade plays around with the toy cash register before his first day of K-4 begins. With the many toys and games available, the little ones always shake their first day jitters for a year filled with learning and fun.

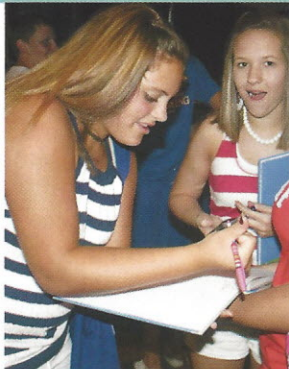

BUBBLING OVER THE BRIM

Mason Adams enthusiastically watches the Mad Science scientist produce his concoction before the Corporation Meeting. The Mad Science program offered the lower school students great opportunities to get involved with the science that surrounds them.

SENIOR SPIRIT

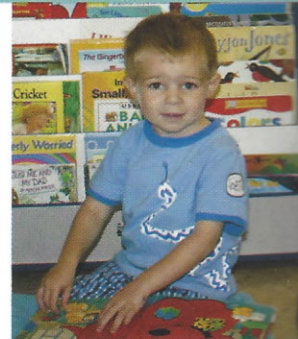

The senior girls get loud for their team during the Winnsboro Rotary lamboree. These girls were excited that it was finally time for them to step up and stand out amongst the crowd with their fabulous shirts.

Anna Grey Walters happily signs her friends yearbook in the gym during the signing party the day before school.

Mason Branham paints the upper school walls with a fresh coat on one of the work days.

Kitt Nicholson gives a little grin while playing in his classroom before his K-4 school year begins.
