

9.

10.

11.

12.

Show 'Em What You Got!

The 2009 varsity cheerleading squad put a lot of effort this year into coming up with new chants, cheers, and dances to step up their spunk and be one of the first cheerleading squads from Richard Winn to go to a cheer competition. While not only having cheer practices for the Friday night football games, they also had to practice for the competition that was held on November 7 at Heathwood Hall. The girls stepped up this year on being the most bubbly, spirited squad RW had ever seen. From pep rallies to

Friday night football games, everything was good practice to work on their spunk and prepare for competition. When it came time for the competition, all of the girls had high expectations after many months of hard work. Though the squad did not place high in their first competition, they look at it as a learning experience to grow from. It was a first for many, and hopefully there will be more future RWA squads to go to competition because of this team's example and effort.

9. Codie Revis, Anna Grey Walters, and Vicky Durham get loud and proud during the RWA vs. Carolina game. 10. The squad ends their halftime performance with an ideal pyramid. 11. Anna Grey Walters cheers on her Eagles while watching the game intently. 12. Coach Blair Little, Sarah Coleman, and Brooke Smith smile for the camera while waiting for their turn in the competition. 13. Codie Revis screams loudly for the Eagles during the RWA vs. Laurens game. 14. The cheerleaders flash the crowd big grins during the RWA vs. Williamsburg games halftime show. 15. During a pep rally routine, Sarah Grier and Codie Revis show off their skills while performing in the pep rally. 16. Kayla Walling, Brooke Smith, and Sarah Coleman cheer loudly on the sidelines during the RWA vs. Northwood game.

B
balance

13.

14.

15.

16.