

Taking a Swing at It

Teamwork was the most important element this year for the 2010 varsity baseball team. The key to their success focused on improving fundamental skills with a lot of hard work, both in the cage and on the field. This team truly relied and depended on each other, as well as on their coaching staff, for support and guidance throughout the season. The nucleus of the team was built around the four senior starters who, with their veteran leadership, solid pitching, and game experience, helped the team advance to the post season playoffs.

Talented eighth graders Austin Knox and Patrick Pope were moved up to varsity where they both earned starting positions for the season.

Senior cousins Buck and G. Coleman were selected to play in the SCISA North/South All Star game in the post season. G. will also have the opportunity to further his love for baseball at the next level as a member of The Citadel Bulldog baseball team next fall.

Overall, the team's hard work and determination led to their first winning season since the State Championship season in '07.

9. During the opponent's pitching change, Coach Ben Porter and Buck Coleman discuss some game strategy. 10. Drew Maass hustles to snag a grounder and make a play. 11. Sophomore Nic Mills assists with keeping the stats during a home game. 12. Austin Knox sets up a good target for the next pitch. 13. Sophomore McNair Coleman swings hard to get a hit. 14. Buck Coleman strikes out the batter with his "sick" fast ball. 15. Austin Knox throws down to second as the runner attempts to steal. 16. Drew Maass stays focused on the next pitch during his Senior Night game.

