

" To be nobody but yourself in a world which is doing its best, night and day, to make you everybody else means to fight the hardest battle which any human being can fight; and never stop fighting."

e.e. cummings

Along with the theme of The Human Element, this yearbook embodies the theme of always being true to who you are. So, students and faculty, look deep and search for what Richard Winn has been teaching you all along;

by your self element
