he varsity boys' basketball team played their hearts out this season. With only four seniors, they had something of a rebuilding year. Yet, despite the adversity, they came to play every night and gave it their all. They improved tremendously and stepped up to fill the positions left open by past players. Led by a new coach, Coach Joe Pitt, they were taught to work hard whether at practice or during games. They show great potential for the years to come. By working together and growing as a team, they became more experienced throughout the season.
