

Fall

Back again. Fall is the time when we return from the unrestrained freedom that is summer to the structure found in school. Through this transition, we come to find out that coming back to school does not mark the end of the world. As we walk through the halls, we find familiar friends as well as new faces. Despite the toil of homework and assignments, we are filled with anticipation, excitement of the year to come... Friday night football games, Miss RWA, Homecoming festivities, a Square Dance... Yes, Fall brings the imposing school year, the stress and strain of tests, essays, exams... but with it comes the opportunity to branch out, live it up, and make memories that will last us a lifetime. Just getting it done...

Our way.
