

Virginia Field Trip

Back in the Day

A group of Richard Winn sixth and seventh graders took a few days in the fall to venture up to Williamsburg, Virginia. There they learned about the life and times of colonial America.

Mrs. Missy, though acting as a chaperone, enjoyed learning about colonial America as much as the students.

Richard Winn's 6th and 7th graders thoroughly inspect the hollowed-out log canoe.

The students await their turn to enter a Native American wigwag.
