

Patriot's Day

This past year, the fifth, sixth, seventh graders had a special treat. On Patriot's Day, they spent the day as a true American colonist. They dressed in traditional, colonial garb and paraded around the school. Their classes for the day were replaced by lessons on skills that would have been second nature in the 1700's. The girls learned fan and handkerchief etiquette, while the boys learned about colonial life. Overall, it was a very realistic and fun learning experience for all who were involved.

Patriot's Day Parade!!!
The fifth, sixth, and seventh graders, along with Coach Inman, Coach Haltiwanger, and Mrs. Wilder, smile after marching around the high school for Patriot's Day.

Bryan, Ryan, Bradden, and Noah look over their lines before speaking for the Patriot Day program.

Dr. Coleman and Mrs. McMeekin dressed up and enjoyed watching the festivities.

Ra'ni, Hannah, Emy, Grier, and Jennifer learn how to knit.

Coach Inman teaches some of the fifth grade boys about colonial life.
