

Making a Splash

Freshman Matt Taylor throws water on Ryan Stillwell during one of the many field day games. Matt, as well as a few other upperclassmen, participated in the day's activities by running a few of the games and sometimes even adding a creative twist of their own.

Georgia Kate Russell participates in a game in which she had to carry a plastic container in a bowl of water back to her team's bucket.

A group of first grade boys share a towel during one of the breaks throughout the day.

The second graders show off their dexterity in this game where the goal is to pick up as many marbles as possible while using only their toes.

Megan Brigman and Brinson Baker remain completely focused on their game despite the chaos of field day around them.

