

Bee's [knees]

For a couple of jazzy hours in the fall, we celebrate the roaring twenties "Jay Gatsby Style" -with heavy hors d'oeuvres, flappers, music and dancing. After reading Fitzgerald's widely acclaimed novel, Mrs. Wilder's English III students are divided into committees that research certain aspects of the 1920's. The different committees were Entertainment, Catering, Guest, and Fashion.

1. Everyone taking part in the Gatsby Party joins together for a fun picture while dressed in their decade appropriate attire. 2. The fabulous four, Cassidy Branham, Emily Brigman, Jordan Parris, and Carson Justice, show off their moves while rocking their flapper dresses. 3. Emily Brigman and Hunter Gibbons have a great time laughing and dancing with their friends at the Gatsby Party.

Which part of the Gatsby Party did you enjoy the most?

I loved planning the party and getting everything organized and ready. One of my favorite parts was dancing to "Feeling Good" by Michael Buble with Cassidy, Emily, and Carson.

Service With A Smile. Hunter Gibbons and Conrad Sharpe happily serve the guests at the Gatsby Party. These two guys certainly looked spiffy wearing their bowties and hats.

Bon Appétit! Hannah Caughtman and Vicky Durham were ready to serve food to all of the Gatsby Party members. There were many delicious treats prepared for this event.

Help Yourself. Emily Brigman and Cassidy Branham observe the buffet line to see what appeals to them. The menu was strictly favorite foods of the 20's, all of which were scrumptious.
