

Huntin' for Answers. Lily and Lawson wait for Mrs. Atkerson to acknowledge them for the answer. The atmosphere within their classroom, even during homecoming week activities such as Camo Day, was respectful of all students' responses.

Listen Up. Mrs. Atkerson explains to her class their assignments and agenda for the day. After many years of teaching, Mrs. Atkerson clearly understands her students' enthusiasm and anxiety for what would be the order of business for the day- especially when there was a deviation from the students' normal routine..

School Day Blues. Morgan and Kitt have absorbed all that they can on the first day of second grade if their facial expressions are any indication. After an exciting and relaxing summer break, it was hard to get back into the routine of school.

Giving Thanks. Anna Grace performs a solo at the Thanksgiving Program. The class' creative costumes, thanks to many parents, added a special element to the program.

Walk for a Cure. Kitt, holding balloon in honor of leukemia, poses for a picture with the baseball team at the "Light the Walk." Kitt was one of many in honor of his friend Lily Baggett.

We Gather Together. The second grade class sings about the first Thanksgiving in their Thanksgiving program. The spectacular performance for parents, friends, and students reminded everyone of their many blessings.

Like Father, Like Son. Lawson points out his favorite parts of his biography to his dad. The class wrote rather intriguing autobiographies at the beginning of the year.

O' Christmas Tree. Lily works diligently on her Christmas tree story during Mrs. Atkerson's class. The class always perfected their work before they displayed it on the wall outside their room.

Getting Crafty. Morgan explains the next step in completing their project to a classmate. Second graders looked forward to art and creative times such as these.

Raise Your Voice. Anna Grace and Landon lead their class in the Arbor Day Ceremony. They also planted a tree in the garden near the science building.
