Moves Like Mine. Zach Bowens tries to convince Blake Little to dance with him showing off his "best moves." Prom night was a time for students to let loose and dust off their dancing shoes.

Make a Wish. In celebration of his 80th birthday, Dr. McCants blows out the candles on his birthday cake. The teachers surprised Dr. McCants with a surprise party on his special day.

This is It. The varsity Eagles football players bust through the run-through sign on the first game of the season. This game was a heart-wrenching game but a good start to the season.

So Long! During the music program, the fourth grade students wave to the audience. The students provided entertainment by playing the recorder, a new skill developed this school year.

At Richard Winn Academy, the school colors get in your blood. It is not disputable that "being blue and gold" is a way of life for RWA students of all ages. This widespread concept has different meanings to each individual student and teacher. To the graduating senior, the past six years of blue, gold, and khakis might define "being blue and gold." To the middle school softball player, "being blue and gold" might mean donning an Eagles jersey every game night. To the tiniest first grader, "being blue and gold" might be linked to carrying the class eagle mascot to each pep rally. To the teacher who has taught here long enough to say "I taught your parents!", the realization that he/she owns more blue and gold clothing than any other color might bring "being blue and gold" to light. Whatever the school colors mean to you, it is easy to see that at Richard Winn, we are like a family. Despite the many similarities among Richard Winn students, through these pages you'll see that each person here finds his/her own way to Ring Chasers. After receiving their medals and the title of State Champions, the Lady Eagles huddle up and celebrate. Winning the 'ship was a moment that each of the girls will never forget.

Taking Care of Business. Coach Capeland instructs his woodworking students throughout their task. Many odd jobs and projects were completed by this group throughout the year.

Divid the Ring. Drew Spires and Lilly Hawkins "slide down the middle" while dancing the Virginia Reel. The annual Square Dance was, like always, a hit with the lower school students.

Back Off. Kimmy Albert defends the ball from an opponent. This season, Kimmy was an important member of the team.

Who Goes There? Eager and prepared to display their Elizabethan Swordplay capabilities, Jacob Steele, Rob O'Connor, and Nic Stillwell brandish their "swords." As a part of studying Shakespeare, Ms. Trammell's ninth grade English class put on a Shakespearian festival.

Would a Belt Help? Mason Gibbo takes part in the "Dress Code Fashion Show" by trying out multiple pants in an array of colors. The students took part in the display at the beginning of the year in hopes to clear up any confusion on the dress code in place.

Dasher, on Dancer.. Grant Shaw, Georgia Price, Bennett Nicholson, and Ava Ferguson get in line with their fellow reindeer and Santa Claus for the Christmas music program.

Here Comes the Sun. As the sun breaks over the school roof, twins Kennedy and Reed Elliott walk into school on the first day. Brand new eighth graders, these girls were happy to start a new year.

A-Okay! Anna Grace Martin gives her teacher the "OK" during a lesson. Mrs. Atkerson, the second grade teacher, kept the interest of her students, like Anna Grace, by playing interactive games on the Smart Board.

A [story] to Be told

What was your favorite way to cool down during the summer break?

To stick myself in the freezer.
-McKenzie Wilson, 4th Grade

Riding horses in a pond and jumping off of them and climbing back on them.

-Creighton Ellison, 10th Grade

Summer. Two months of complete bliss. While Richard Winn students love the time spent at school and in class, the final bell on the last day is the most anticipated moment of the entire school year. Students venture all over to spend their vacation time. It is true that many students spend much time on the RWA campus due to sport practices. However, every second spent participating in adventurous and fun activities is saved in memory for those imminent and fast-approaching school days.

Don't Blink. Landon Caulder has fun tubing at the lake. Landon and his family spent many exciting afternoons at the lake.

1. Some of the volleyball players make team signs for the "Olympic Games" held during free time in their summer camp. 2. Jordan Parris, Alyssa Atkerson, Emily Brigman, Kaeleigh Dukes, Meagan Brigman, and Gracie Atkerson strike silly poses while at the beach. 3. Members of the class of 2013 reconnect with former classmates during the picnic in which Palmetto Girls' State met Palmetto Boys' State. 4. The varsity girls' basketball team joins teams from other schools during summer camp. 5. Sydney Boulware, Ainsley Martin, Taylor Spires, McKenzie Wilson, and Emma Castles goof-off and sport faux mustaches. 6. A few Richard Winn students enjoy a vacation at the Great Wolf Lodge with their Girl Scout Troop. 7. Rebecca Robertson, Sarah Grier Thompson, Carson Justice, and friend Taylor Roberts relax at a summer birthday party.

Back on Track. With schedule and handbook in hand, Vincent leads the pack down the Richard Winn halls. Open house has always been a great time for parents and students to meet new teachers.

Looking Back and Moving On. Anna Cooke and Vicky Durham step into Mrs. Wilder's classroom during Open House to glance at last year's yearbook and to discuss schedules. During Open House this year, students were able to pick up their yearbooks and, like always, get their schedules to see what classes they were assigned.

It only [gets] Better

Open house is the final reminder that it is almost time to retire shorts and flip-flops. It reminds students, parents, and teachers alike that it is time to drag uniform clothes out of the depths of closets and to prepare classrooms. Open House is a time to meet new teachers, catch up with friends that have been MIA all summer, and to prepare for the start of a new year.

Get Down to Business. Landon Caulder, the Caulder clan, and Caroline Poole visit their new second grade classroom. For the lower school students, Open House was a great opportunity to step into the class and get a sneak preview of the new school year.

Early-Bird Gets the Worm. Kyle Savage and his dad realize the importance of pre-ordering the 2013 yearbook. Many parents took advantage of the Early-Bird special pricing at the Corporation Meeting.

Last Strains of Freedom. Riley Simpson smiles big for the camera on her last few days of summer. She took Open House as chance to wear something other than uniform attire while walking the Richard Winn halls.

Here's a Sneak Peek. Marshall Gibbons and Joey Sanchez fill out papers for Ms. Cooper's fourth grade class. Ms. Cooper, a new addition to RWA, was eager to get her students on the learning track.

Brace Yourself. Samantha Wilkes and family take a look at all of the spirit wear items for sale. Parents kept the checkbooks open as they made their way through all the stations set up.

Back on [track]

Pound It. Senior Zelick Levy and Coach Berry greet each other on the first day of school. Zelick, along with the other seniors, happily used his new senior parking spot for the first time.

All Love. Roman Hawkins says his goodbyes and gives a hug before walking into the school. Roman was eager to start his first day of kindergarten.

After a summer of freedom, the first day of school is not always welcome. Some students, however, look forward to new opportunities, new friends, new teachers. August 16th brought with it the promise of a fresh start and the chance to begin again. Teachers and students alike grudgingly became accustomed to an earlier start to the day at 7:55 as opposed to the previous 8:15. Other differences, like seven periods in the day for Upper School students, were met with enthusiasm. The first day of school promised an exciting school year.

1. Nate Moore listens carefully to Mrs. Martin on the first day. 2. Calee Thigpen prepares for the next class while friend, Crystal Liu, waits for her. 3. Dr. Coleman opens the door for Ella Grace Harrison on her first day of first grade. 4. Alivia Martin practices her cutting skills on her first day of kindergarten. 5. Will Carvalho and Bradden Steele smile at each other during class. 6. Juniors Anna Cooke and Casey Self enjoy walking each other to class. 7. Mrs. Wilkins smiles as she walks through the upper school hallway.

8. Dietician, Mrs. Cheri Burroughs, excited to be back at school, prepares the lunch menu items. 9. Fifth grader Riley Simpson gives two thumbs up at the start of her day.

Focus in. The 8th grade students pay close attention during their English class. Ms. Ladd's students discovered quickly that they would have to work hard in her class.

All smiles. Junior Patrick Pope flashes the camera a smile on the first day of school. Patrick has always had a positive and uplifting attitude that he shares with his peers.

What did you do to prepare for your first day back at school?

Got a nice hair cut and took a hot shower while drinking a cup of protein!
-Joseph Goldin, 11th Grade

I listened and did the best to get every thing straight.
-Cameron Bass, 5th Grade

Knowledge Is Power. Senior Ron Price gratefully accepts an award from his teacher, Mrs. Padgett. Ron received this award for his hard work in chemistry.

Congratulations. Chrissy Caudill smiles as she is handed her Headmaster Award by Head of School Dr. Coleman. Chrissy, a freshmen, accepted this award for her hard work throughout her eighth grade year.

Please Rise. Sr. Beta treasurer Codie Revis, a senior, stands to lead the Pledge of Allegiance. Beta Club officers had leading roles in the evening's event.

Scholarly Student. Senior C.R. Caudill receives one of several Junior Scholar awards. It was a great honor for the Junior Scholar recipients to be recognized by various state colleges and universities.

At Richard Winn Academy, academics are of great importance. In fact, the school's motto is "Knowledge is Power!" At the beginning of each year, the PTO hosts an Academic Banquet in honor of the students who excelled academically during the previous school year. Students in seventh through eleventh grades previously accepted awards for their high achievement. This year's festivities were held at the White Oak Conference Center.

Let the [journey] 13 begin

1. Samantha Blair enjoys a snack at the reception with her dad and step-mom. 2. Class president Sarah Coleman welcomes family, friends, and faculty at the beginning of the ceremony. 3. Austin Costenbader, Levi Davis, and Mason Gibbons proudly display their rings in a humorous pose. 4. As tradition requires, Alex Scott asks classmate Anna Cooke to turn his ring. 5. The Karolys smile broadly after Alexa accepts her ring. 6. Despite a slight mishap, Joseph is successfully given his ring box by his mom and step-dad. 7. Mrs. Padgett hands Sally Costenbader her older brother's ring for her to present him. 8. Sarah Grier Thompson gets one turn closer to the 46 suggested when Anna Grey Walters twists her ring. 9. Hampton Caughman hugs his mom after receiving his ring. 10. Zach Bowens admires Patrick Pope's ring. 11. Alex Scott, Lauren Faust, Josh Ellisor, and Vicky Durham stand for the Pledge of Allegiance during the opening of the ceremony. 12. Casey Self, Amanda Mitchell, Brian Steed, and Will Rosborough wait impatiently to be given the "OK" to open their boxes and see their rings for the first time. 13. Austin Knox lets his grandparents get a good look at his ring. 14. Carson Justice slips her way into a Branham family photo. 15. All ten of the junior girls flash their rings for the camera.

Getting a Richard Winn class ring is a big to-do. Every year, September rolls around and the junior class begins to get excited. Ordered in the spring of the previous school year, the arrival of class rings is a long awaited moment for every junior. This was the second year the ring ceremony was not held on school grounds. Instead, the ceremony was held on Tuesday, September 16th at the Bethel ARP Church behind the Town Clock in Winnsboro. With the help of class sponsors, Mrs. Missy Taylor and Mrs. Joanne Padgett, Dr. Clyde McCants, and Head of School Dr. Nancy Coleman, the evening was an event to be remembered. Many juniors felt as though the ring ceremony was "The Beginning of the End." With the ring comes the promise of senior year and graduation. Receiving their rings was just one more sign that the class of 2014 is already one step closer to graduation day.

Not afraid to 13e [outrageous]

Richard Winn Homecoming is arguably the busiest and most enjoyable week of the year. It gives students a break from wearing dress code and an opportunity to show individuality and be a tad outrageous. Festivities were in full swing! For the second year, lunch time games were held and a hall decorating contest ensued. Also, by tradition, cheerleaders sold spirit links to classes that later served as decorations for the football field. In preparation for the game against Carolina Academy, all students enthusiastically took part in the exciting and spirited week. A contest was held to design the annual Homecoming t-shirt, and the winner, junior Anna Cooke, creatively came up with "Angry Eagles" and the slogan "Bomb the Bobcats." Back by popular demand, a "black-out" dance followed the Homecoming game. This week will not soon be forgotten!

1. First grader Jack Brannon impersonates "Joe Dirt" - mullet and all. 2. The K-5 class gets excited about dressing up as their favorite characters. 3. On Decade Day the majority of the 9th grade wears retro attire. 4. Emily Brigman, Hannah Silvia, Jordan Paris, and Cassidy Branham cross centuries while Cassie Rae Cantrell and Jessie Stidham deck out in clothes from more recent times. 5. Kyle Speagle, a member of the 8th grade, is caught "chilling" in his hippie attire. 6. Lily Baggott, a member of the 1st grade, walks to lunch dressed as Princess Belle from Beauty and the Beast. 7. Mrs. Padgett holds up her peace signs while dressed as a hippie. 8. Three Juniors dress as "Flo" the Progressive woman, a supermodel from the future, and Catwoman on Tuesday. 9. Batman and Superman, also known as Conrad Sharpe and Hampton Caughman, sit down to watch the lunch game.

Loud and Proud. These fifth grade students are determined to be heard during the Homecoming Pep Rally festivities. Their facial expressions may have been more entertaining than their noise as they proudly and intently competed for the spirit stick.

What activity got you the most excited during Spirit Week?

The lunch games because I got to see all of my friends play and have a great time!
-Cassie McKeown, 7th Grade

Dodgeball!
-Logan Gibbons, 12th Grade

Keep Smurf. Eighth grader Todd Simpson leaps over Bryant Carvalho during lunch break. The two friends dressed as smurfs together for Character Day.

Just Look at It. Senior Sidney Edenfield points to his computer monitor to show off his computer skills. Even during the often chaotic Spirit Week, students still had to stay on task in the classroom.

Connected at the Hip. Riley Simpson and Meredyth Melton are quite a pair on Decade Day. Their retro outfits were well worth their thorough planning as they sparked much talk about their wardrobe selection.

Girl Power. Senior girls Pauline Craig and Codie Revis prove their strength during a game of Tug of War. Students participated in daily lunch games sponsored by Student Government during Homecoming Week.

1. Corey Davis and Jason Branham seem to be engaged in serious conversation as they walk through the halls on Spirit Day during Homecoming Week. 2. Jaycie Johnson and Megan Simpson "drop it like it's hot" portraying The Sundrop Girls for Character Day on Tuesday. 3. Alex "Snookie" Scott depends on the aid of his walking cane on Thursday, Fake an Injury Day. 4. These three pre-kindergarten students, Dylan Albert, Abby Lewis, and Grant Shaw, are "super" excited to show off their Spiderman and Turtle Girl outfits on Superhero/Character Day. 5. A large group of fourth graders assemble outside Mrs Woodle's classroom to take a group photo on Character Day. 6. Kennedy Elliott and Anna Connor are definitely more excited about being at the Homecoming pep rally on Friday versus being in their scheduled enrichment activity. 7. Teacher and sister pair, Mrs. Mobley with youngest sister Jordan Parris, dress as characters from the ever famous children's television show, Magic School Bus, for Character Day. 8. Juniors Anna Grey Walters and Mason Gibbons dress in original attire although senior Logan Gibbons sports an over the top original costume on Tuesday for Character Day. 9. Fourth grader Seth Williams swings from the monkey bars during recess on Camo Day, one of the most supported Spirit Week days.

Lend a Helping Hand. Fifth grader Brooke Pauley pushes her injured friend Nate Moore down the hallway while accompanied by sixth grader Jennifer Haney. Many students brought props for their Fake an Injury Day outfit.

Senior Spirit. The seniors get loud and show their school spirit at the Homecoming pep rally. They were more boisterous than everyone else and won the spirit stick.

Heisman Time Third graders J T and Colten Hatchell dress up as Carolina football players. They are two of the students who chose to dress as their favorite football stars for Character Day.

Peace Out. The sixth grade students throw up their peace signs in celebration of Decade Day. The girls' fashion reflected memorable 80's styles while the boys brought back the white tee shirts and rolled jeans as part of their retro attire.

Break a Leg. Sixth graders Jennifer Haney, Ryan Stillwell, Bryan O'Connor, Gracie Atkerson, Grier Hensley, Hannah Wilson, Hannah Smith, Caleigh Caldwell and Rahi Patel fake injuries on Thursday wearing casts, ace bandages, and/or using crutches. Fake an Injury Day was quite a comical day, with everyone hobbling around on unneeded crutches.

Dress Code Violation?

Homecoming Week gives students like Rebecca Robertson and Nancy Blair Gonzalez the opportunity to add flare to their already cheerful personalities. These girls went all out on Character Day.

Crowning Achievement. Alex Maass and Tori Douglas, Homecoming Queen 2011 and Sweetheart 2011, take the field during halftime to crown the new winners. Joining them were crown bearers Brinson Baker and Drew Spires, first graders and children of RWA Alumni.

Bow Down. The junior and senior football players bow down to the newly crowned Homecoming King Sidney Edenfield. After taking a victory walk around the gym expressing gratitude to his supporters, Sidney's teammates demonstrated their version of "hail to the king."

Joy Ride. Winners Carson Justice and Madison Spang give big smiles and waves to the crowd as they celebrate their new titles. The traditional lap around the field gave them the opportunity to be congratulated by all who attended the Homecoming game against The Carolina Academy.

A [walk] to remember

Every girl loves the opportunity to get "dolled up" and put on her best dress, which was evident by the twenty-one Richland County students who participated in the 2012 pageants. Divisions offered were Wee Miss, Little Miss, and Miss RWA. Sponsored by the class of 2014, the pageant this year was simple and elegant. Each contestant took her "walk to remember" in both casual and formal wear. Entertainment was provided by junior class members Mason Gibbons and Sarah Grier Thompson. Other entertaining acts came from Richland school students Anna Grace Martin, Brinson Baker, and J Talbert. With no on-stage question to stress over, each girl was able to present herself with ease and grace. Everyone in attendance enjoyed seeing these girls look stunning as they floated across the stage in an array of brightly colored dresses.

1. Emma Castles, with escort Jason Branham, watches the judges as she walks to her spot on stage. 2. Senior Blake Little is escorted by fourth grade student, Mason Adams. 3. Miss RWA Contestants (Anna Grey Walters, Cali Swearingen, Madison Spang, Hannah Sylvia, Codie Revis, Amanda Mitchell, Blake Little, Carson Justice, Vicky Durham, and Maddie Denton) make a second appearance on the stage in their formal attire.

4. Meagan Brigman is escorted by junior Zach Bowens during the casual wear portion. 5. Carson Justice pauses in front of the judges to give them a better look at her in her casual outfit. 6. Haley Glisson waves to the crowd as she shows off her casual wear. 7. Brinson Baker and Anna Grace Martin perform to "Rock Around the Clock" as part of an intermission for the pageant. 8. During an intermission, J Talbert breaks out his best dance moves and dances to a Michael Jackson song. 9. Vicky Durham takes a break while getting ready to flash a smile for the camera. 10. Mason Gibbons and Sarah Grier Thompson perform a duet while the judges compile scores.

Escorted by Your Man. Senior Codie is escorted by her nephew, [unclear] McCants, during the formal portion of the pageant. She dazzled the judges with her shimmering evening gown.

Suave in Silver. Emily O'Connor shines in her bright silver dress as she poses at the end of the runway. Her simple yet unique style scored high with the judges.

Pretty in Pink. Maddie Denton, a 7th grader, gives the judges a better look at her dress. She was the youngest participant in the oldest division of the pageant.

Sparkling Smile. Ainsley Martin smiles brightly for the crowd as she takes her "walk to remember." Her classic black and white dress fit the theme perfectly.

What was the most exciting part of the pageant?

Finding out Clemson beat Boston College when I went to change for my formal!
-Anna Grey Walters, 11th grade

Wearing my golden dress.
-Ella Grace Harrison, 1st grade

Line and Posture. The Wee Miss Contestants pose to give the judges one last look.

Samantha Wilkes, Peyton Patrick, Emily O'Connor, Anna Grace Martin, Ella Grace Harrison, Haley Glisson, Meagan Brigman

Plaid Princess. Ainsley Martin, in a brown and pink plaid dress, looks simply stunning as she poses for the judges. She kept her smile bright throughout the entire competition.

Pretty in Pink. Peyton Patrick stands tall while posing at the end of the runway. Her bright pink dress matched her bright personality.

Lucky Number 7. Samantha Wilkes is escorted by Mason Gibbons. The irony was not lost that Mason, number seven on the football team, would escort Samantha, number seven in the pageant.

Smiles n' Curls. Fourth grader T. Spires adds some detail to her dress with her blue sash. This coincidence matched her pageant number.

ing and Profiling. Amanda shows off her hipster sense of the judges. During the formal portion of the evening, Amanda shows off her stylish blue, floor length gown.

Walking Tall. Vicky Durham and Marshall Gibbons take a stroll across the stage as Vicky shows off her evening gown. Vicky's height added to the beauty of both her casual and formal wear outfits.

Blue Beauty. Cali Swearingen, an 8th grader, takes her turn on the runway. She was also a contestant in the Rock Around Clock pageant earlier that day.

Graceful in Green. Eleventh grader Carson Justice gives the judges a better look at her dress. Carson showed her "girly" side as she is one who is often seen wearing gym shorts and a t-shirt.

Blast from the [past]

This was a spectacular year for the fifth grade Patriots' Day event. There were many fun-filled activities planned throughout the entire day. With help from teachers and outside speakers all the students learned mainly about South Carolina's history during the Revolutionary War era. Clad in time appropriate clothing, fifth grade girls took etiquette and "homemaking" classes while the boys learned how to hunt and do things of the "manly" sort. The class went to Cornwallis House in the evening to listen to guest speakers and enjoy a lovely reception. A great immersion was enjoyed by the students as they learned, behaved, and talked as though they lived during the 1700's.

What was the most interesting thing you learned from Patriots' Day?

How they lived back then and how they walked.
-Alice Ann Montgomery

To me the most interesting thing I learned was how to march and make candles.
-Scotty Timms

Have You Heard? While visiting the food table, Ally Robinson and Meredith Melton discuss a very important topic. The Patriots' Day event was filled with enough excitement to be talked about for days.

Time Travel. The fifth grade class escorted by sentry, Mrs. Matthews, takes a walk through Historic Winnsboro. This activity allowed the students to get an exciting glimpse of what Winnsboro was like during the Revolutionary War times.

Prim and Proper. Mrs. Wilder parades down the hall with other Patriots' Day participants. Although she teaches Upper School English, Mrs. Wilder greatly enjoyed partaking in the day's events and volunteered her time for the second year.

Concentration. Riley Simpson works hard on her worksheets about Patriots' Day. Contrary to belief, Patriots' Day was not a day concentrated on learning for the students, but a day full of enthusiasm about our country's history.

1. Brooke Pauley allows someone else to take the floor after she answers a question. 2. Cameron Bass takes a break on his worksheets during class to thoughtfully ponder all that he has learned throughout the day's activities. 3. Alice Ann Montgomery, Jimmy McKeown, and Brandon Miller stop for a picture after raising the flag on Patriots' Day. 4. Scotty Timms contemplates what to choose next while walking through the buffet line. 5. Meredyth Melton stands at attention with her classmates the morning of Patriots' Day. 6. Tim Lord shares a thrilling story of Revolution War times with the fifth grade class. 7. Mrs. Howell leads the fifth graders in a patriotic song in honor of Patriots' Day. 8. The fifth grade class makes their way to the Cornwallis House in Winnsboro for the Patriots' Day banquet. 9. Miller Stuck leads the way for his classmates at the buffet. 10. Hudson Wade and Cameron Bass intently listen to the guest speaker for the Patriots' Day program. 11. Brooke Pauley, Riley Simpson, Ally Robinson, and Meredyth Melton pose for a quick picture after the class picture is taken.

Right Arm 'Round. Ella Grace Harrison, Wesley Bellomy, Peyton Patrick, and Drew Spires take part in the Virginia Reel. Mrs. Nicholson has always taught RWA students how to square dance from an early age.

Easy as Pie. Coach Atkerson and Ms. Owens "enjoy" a pie facial as a part of a fundraiser for the junior class sponsored Fall Festival. For over a week, students voted on the teacher they wanted to see get "pie-d" the most.

Spin Like Thunder. Square Dance partners, John Russell, Meredyth Pope, Mason Gibbons, and Kaitlyn Thoma, form a tight circle of four. This move, called by Mrs. Nicholson "spin like thunder," resulted in many laughs and a few dizzy dancers.

Promenade Around the Town. Eight graders Alyssa Atkerson and Tor Johnson promenade around the circle. Students of all ages have gained appreciation of square dancing throughout the years.

1. Bennett Nicholson takes a ride on his dad's shoulders. 2. Wyatt Raley and Juliet Pineda duck low to go under a bridge in the Virginia Reel. 3. Hudson Wade attempts to toss a ring around the pumpkin in the game directed by Austin Knox and Alex Scott. 4. Jr. class president, Sarah Coleman, is given instructions on who to "pie" by Mrs. Lisa Davis. 5. Peyton Patrick, Brinson Baker, Kitt Nicholson, and Brantley Caulder hold hands eagerly awaiting Mrs. Nicholson's next call. 6. Emma Castles, Drew Spires, Autumn Keys, and William Spang circle to the left. 7. Anna Grey Walters and Josh Ellisor squeeze through a tight tunnel during the Virginia Reel. 8. Meredith Pope and Marshall Gibbons circle round as partners. 9. The "Head Couple," Ella Grace Harrison and Zach Bowens, divide the ring. 10. Brantley Caulder and Maggie Hughes "dig for the oyster" under Landon Caulder and Anna Grace Martin's outstretched arms. 11. The kindergartners circle up as they go "Loop-de-Loop." 12. Samantha Blair prepares to paint a picture on Marshall Gibbons' face. 13. All the dancers participate in The Snake. 14. Drew Spires plays the game inspired by the phrase "like trying to find a needle in a haystack."

Boot Scootin' [boogie]

When it comes to square dancing, Richard Winn students know all the right moves. Through the years, students have learned all they know with the help of caller Mrs. Ellen Johnson. The annual Square Dance, sponsored by the junior class, is an event for all ages and enjoyed by students, teachers, and family alike. This year there was a country store and many carnival-style games to entertain those who felt they had "two left feet." Two teachers getting "pie-d" in the face was another popular attraction and helped to raise funds for the juniors.

Bee's [knees]

For a couple of jazzy hours in the fall, we celebrate the roaring twenties "Jay Gatsby Style" -with heavy hors d'oeuvres, flappers, music and dancing. After reading Fitzgerald's widely acclaimed novel, Mrs. Wilder's English III students are divided into committees that research certain aspects of the 1920's. The different committees were Entertainment, Catering, Guest, and Fashion.

Which part of the Gatsby Party did you enjoy the most?

I loved planning the party and getting everything organized and ready. One of my favorite parts was dancing to "Feeling Good" by Michael Buble with Cassidy, Emily, and Carson.

-Jordan Parris, 10th

Experiencing a 1920's book come to life for a few hours.

-Hannah Silvia, 10th

Help Yourself. Emily Brigman and Cassidy Branham observe the buffet line to see what appeals to them. The menu was strictly favorite foods of the 20's, all of which were scrumptious.

Service With A Smile. Hunter Gibbons and Conrad Sharpe happily serve the guests at the Gatsby Party. These two guys certainly looked spiffy wearing their bowties and hats.

Bon Appétit! Hannah Caughtman and Vicky Durham ready to serve food to all of the Gatsby Party members. There were many delicious treats prepared for this event.

Order Up. The Early Bird Cafe menu displays prices and available items for purchase. Before school, many students loved to start their day off with a visit to the cafe.

Change Please! Alyssa Atkerson pays Alexa Karoly for her iced coffee. The iced coffees were popular menu items that students enjoyed daily.

The Breakfast Club. Hunter Hartley, Parker Amick, and Grace Wilder gather together for their morning breakfast and conversations. The Early Bird Cafe gave students a place to relax in the morning before the school day ahead.

Bright and Early. Looking cheerful in spite of the early hour, Ainsley Martin smiles for the camera while waiting on her breakfast. The Martin girls were often in the cafe helping out their mom while she worked.

Early 13th [Cafe]

You can enjoy your fresh-made breakfast under an arbor, amid the chatter of lively conversations, and consumed by the aroma of rich gourmet coffee blends. You may even hear the strumming of a guitar or local favorites pouring from a small speaker. Yes, you have found yourself in the midst of the Early Bird Café. This idea was brought about for students desiring to work and earn some money to apply towards their EF Tours trip. This addition has been a positive service for both students and faculty at RWA. If you haven't been by, we certainly encourage you to! Bon appétit!

1. Many students enjoy their iced coffees, and sweet mornings treats in the Early Bird Cafe before having to go to class. 2. Patrick Pope fixes a drink for one of the customers. 3. Grace Wilder is excited for her early morning smoothie that is prepared for her by Sarah Grier Thompson. 4. Jason Branham, Sarah Grier Thompson, and Alexa Karoly make an early morning toast before having to start their day.

[Merry] and 13 Bright

The kindergarten through third grades had a spectacular Christmas program this year. They had many visitors including Mary and Joseph, Santa Claus, and even some martians from outer space. Though the main theme of the program was explaining the traditions of Christmas, there were several new traditional songs that added to the intrigue. Mrs. "Nic" Nicholson, as always, diligently worked with the students for weeks prior to the event to teach them these holiday songs. It was a delight to watch the children and listen to their voices as they entertained a packed audience of family and friends.

1. Lawson Wade plays the part of Rudolph in the Christmas program. 2. Santa Claus makes a surprise visit to the kindergartners and their audience during the program. 3. Rob Wilson portrays "The Grinch" while telling the story of Whoville. 4. Dressed up as Santa's reindeer, Alivia Martin, Ava Ferguson, Rees Castles, and Ava Grace Fowler sing joyful songs of the season. 5. B Baker, as Frosty the Snowman, leads a train of first grade students through the audience. 6. Jack Johnson puts on his Rudolph mask with the rest of Santa's reindeer. 7. Several of the first and second graders re-enact the nativity scene of the First Christmas. 8. Bennett Nicholson and William Spencer, much to Mrs. Nic's surprise, strike a silly pose for the crowd while singing. 9. J Swearingen and Samantha Wilkes, acting as newscasters, report what is happening in the world of Richard Winn. 10. The kindergarten classes eagerly await the start of their annual Christmas program under the eye of their parents and family members.

What is your favorite Christmas song and why?

'All I Want For Christmas is My Two Front Teeth' because I lost my two front teeth.
Megan Brigman, 1st grade

'Little Drummer Boy' because my grandfather likes it, too.
Rob Wilson, 2nd grade

Joyful Voices. The second and third grade classes sing the songs of the season during their Christmas program. The program also contained many fun filled student reenactments.

Heavenly Hosts. Jaiden Pauley and Hailey Autry appear as angels for the reenactment of the first Christmas. The program consisted of many fun and unique costumes as well as familiar holiday tunes.

Nine Little Reindeer. Nine of the kindergartners sing a song about all of Santa's reindeer. There was a great variety of Christmas songs in the program.

Drummer Boy. Mitchell Gibbons adds a musical flare to the first through third grade program by playing the drum. His addition truly topped off the entire program.

Lesson of Giving. Anna Grace gives Mrs. Nicholson a special gift from the classes. Mrs. Nicholson has been providing the school with wonderful music for many years.

Bound for [adventure]

Richard Winn students excel in and out of the classroom. Students at RWA have countless opportunities to go on small adventures and learn from new experiences. These fun-filled trips are enjoyed by students of all ages. During this school year, students went on trips across the state and beyond.

Something's Fishy.. Rees Castles, Taylor Spires, Ainsley Martin, and Emma Castles hold their noses and pose "underwater" in the aquarium at the Riverbanks Zoo. The fourth grade enjoyed a sunny field trip to the zoo on a warm spring day.

Field Trips

Back in Time. While on a trip to the New South Museum in Charlotte, Codi Revis and Vicky Durham sit down to play checkers in one of the interactive exhibits. The majority of the upper school enjoyed a trip back in the history of the south on this field trip.

Solemn Thanks. Ryan Stillwell quietly observes the Vietnam War memorial and pays respect to those who gave their lives. Visiting this memorial was a humbling experience for the students.

Relaxin' in the Hay. During a hayride around the farm, Kit Nichols lounges in the shade of his hayloft. The first and second grades enjoyed an educational visit to the Matthews' farm.

1. Sophomores Matt Taylor, Hunter Gibbons, Conrad Sharpe, and Logan Robinson, joined by Junior Zach Bowens, enjoy a quiet afternoon on the river while on a Biology II field trip. 2. Brinson Baker and Lily Baggott, along with a few four-legged friends, buddy up for a picture. 3. Brooke Pauley bravely holds up a stingray from the "touch pool" at Ripley's Aquarium in Myrtle Beach. 4. Attempting menacing scowls, Anna Grey Walters and Lauren Faust put on their best impression of a medieval "tough guy" and pose with one of the festival workers. 5. These girls lounge and relax while awaiting the beginning of their show at Medieval Times on a field trip to Myrtle Beach. 6. The kindergarten class, following tradition, decorates cookies while at the work shop of Mrs. Martin, a class mom and faculty member.

Beach Bums. Despite the cold weather and overcast skies, Anna Grey Walters, Emily Bringham, Marion Walker, and Jaycie make the most of their time on the beach. The student government officers and representatives enjoyed a beach trip for the yearly SGA convention.

Look What I Found! Peyton Gilbert poses with the South Carolina pillar in the WWII memorial. Despite the cold temperatures, the students who went on this field trip still greatly enjoyed learning about our nation's history in Washington, D.C.

Under the Green Glow. Ally Robinson and Grier Hensley wear their Medieval Times hats with pride. While sitting under the glow of the color that represents the "knight" they will cheer for throughout the show, these girls waited patiently for the festivities to begin.

Ye Old Goof Ball. At the Renaissance Fair, Joseph Goldin dramatically chows down on a turkey leg while Anna Cooke looks on in disapproval. Entering the Renaissance period at the fair is an event the sophomore, juniors, and seniors looked forward to with great anticipation.

Never, Ever Getting Back Together. Good friends Maggie Hughes and Morgan Raley awe the crowd with their rendition of Taylor Swift's song, "We Are Never Ever Getting Back Together." This duo was the opening act of the talent show.

Bust a Move. B Baker and J Talbert show off their choreographed dance moves to Flo Rida's "Sometimes I Get a Good Feeling." The crowd eagerly awaited J's performance, with newcomer B, after he trilled the crowd with his Michael Jackson dance moves last year.

Cup It Up. Maddie Denton, Addie Bostrom, and Lauren Elder do a cup synchronization and sing the song "You're Gonna Miss Me." This was the first act of its kind to be preformed in a RWA talent show.

Little Things. Eighth graders Mitchell Gibbons and Grace Wilder entertained audience with their singing to Mitchell and Grace sang the song, "Little Things" by the band One Direction.

Who Will Be the W Factor?

The Talent Show has become a highly anticipated student event, and this year the co-sponsoring organizations, yearbook staff and student government, did not disappoint participants or the audience. The theme of the talent show was "The W Factor" and juniors Alex Scott and Anna Grey Walters served as co-hosts. Serving as impersonating judges were Corey Davis as Simon Cowell, Carson Justice as Britney Spears, Austin Costenbader as L.A. Reed, and Pauline Craig as Demi Lovato.

What were your feelings before going on stage?

What am I getting myself into?
-Reid Johnson, 12th Grade

Hoping I would do great. It was a surprise when I lost my tooth.
-Brinson Baker, 1st Grade

1. Anna Grace Martin and Brinson Baker perform their dance routine while Wyatt Raley and Berry Bonds sing "What Makes You Beautiful". 2. Mason Gibbons supplies accompaniment for his younger brother, Mitchell, by showing off his guitar skills. 3. Concentrating thoroughly on playing, Taylor Ingle wows the audience with his guitar. 4. Mitchell Gibbons graces the audience with his impressive singing voice for the second year in the talent show. 5. The "judges", Corey Davis, Austin Costenbader, Pauline Craig, and Carson Justice, portray TV judges Simon Cowell, LA Reid, Demi Lavato, and Britney Spears. 6. Junior Sarah Grier Thompson features her soft voice at the second school event this school year. 7. At the end of his performance, host Anna Grey Walters discusses with Josh Ellisor how he feels about his drum playing. 8. As probably the most surprising act of the night, Paul Pendergrass raps his own lyrics to a song. 9. The Gibbons brothers concentrate hard on playing their well-practiced piano duet. 10. The keyboarders of Mrs. Howell's class play one of the songs the group, self-titled Skyhooks, performed. 11. Austin Costenbader sings the song "Have You Ever Seen The Rain" as the lead vocalist for the group, Skyhooks. 12. Two of Mrs. Howell's students, Levi Davis and Pauline Craig, play their guitars with skill. 13. While acting as TV hosts Mario Lopez and Khloe Kardashian, the hosts of the evening's affair, Alex Scott and Anna Grey Walters, inform the audience about the next act.

Turkey Tycoon. Lawson Wade kills his first turkey on opening day and poses with pride. Lawson's excitement was not easily contained.

Chocolate Heaven. Megan and Riley Simpson both enjoy their time together at the Hershey's chocolate factory. These two sisters always go on the most exotic vacations.

Prize Catch. Autumn Keys holds up her prize perch to show off for the camera. Autumn grinned from ear to ear with pride in her accomplishment.

Lovely Ladies. Carson, Justine, Rebecca Robertson, and Sarah Thompson all smile for a quick picture near the rocks. This was their first time going to the mountains together.

Prehistoric Pals. Ella Grace Harrison and her cousin Meriwether enjoy fun at the zoo. Many students like Ella Grace enjoyed fun outings with all of their family and friends.

Spring Break is definitely a week much anticipated all school year. Once the weather starts warming up (in the case of this year starts getting colder), teachers and students alike begin to count down the days separating them from those few seconds of freedom. Whether students went to the beach, the mountains, or just stayed at home, one thing was certain: good times were had with great friends. Although the weather during this Spring Break was less than ideal, students and teachers made the most of their time away from school. Spring Break is a small taste of the upcoming summer, and as soon as students and teachers walk back through the classroom doors, the upcoming summer vacation is the only thing on their minds.

Strip. Many friends pile into a golf cart at the beach and enjoy the ride together. Even though they were cramped uncomfortably, their smiles remained.

Gobble Gobble! Patrick Pope and his brother Bryson smile big, proud of the two turkeys they killed. Getting two on the opening day was exciting for them.

Beach Buds. Grace Wilder, Annie Laurie Mattox, and their friend Kaleb McKee soak up the sun at the beach together. This is one of the many pictures taken on their trip.

Coleman Clan. Marion Walker Coleman and her brother McNair enjoy spending time together on Easter Sunday. You will always find the Coleman bunch smiling!

Doubling the [memories]

A [storybook] ¹³ beginning

Dressed to the Nines Both the senior class of 2013 (left) and the junior class of 2014 (right) pose for group pictures before heading to eat dinner and later arrive at prom. This was the first year that an old tradition was broken and a new one begun by taking pictures at the Windemere Country Club instead of Mrs. Haslett's house.

1. Practicing caution, Anna Grey Walters laughingly attempts to pin the boutonniere on her boyfriend, sophomore Conrad Sharpe. 2. Austin Costenbader and his date, Annie Laurie Mattox, take refuge inside the country club to take pictures out of the rain. 3. Mason Gibbons is followed by a gaggle of girls, all hoping to stay dry under his umbrella. 4. Emily Locklair, RW graduate, and her boyfriend, senior Corey Davis, walk hand in hand down the side walk. 5. These four prom-goers avoid the rain and take their pictures inside the room where the prom will be held. 6. Sarah Coleman and her date, Ben, are all smiles despite the torrential downpour they endured to get inside. 7. During a short break in the rainfall, Ron Price, Codie Revis, and their Chester County dates manage a few picturesque shots in front of the lake.

8. Sophomores Hunter Gibbons, Emily Brigman, Matt Taylor, and Jordan Parris get to enjoy an extra prom together because they were invited to go to prom by upperclassmen. 9. Being a gentleman, Zach Bowens holds an umbrella for his date, Blake Little, so she can carefully walk up the slippery steps.

1. Blake Little and Codie Revis share a moment and "serenade" each other while a childhood favorite, a song by the 90's band, N'Syn, plays. 2. After walking past the velvet ropes, Levi Davis strikes a signature pose for the "paparazi" before entering the room in which prom would be held. 3. Josh Ellis and his girlfriend, Brieanna, take a break off of the dance floor and share a few quiet moments at the table. 4. While dressing up in silly photobooth props, Will Rosborough and Brian Steed shake hands and wait to take pictures with their dates. 5. Alex "Snookie" Scott diligently selects his choices for Prom King, Prom Queen, and the Cutest Couple on the prom ballot. 6. The boys in attendance at prom circle up and dance to the fast-paced and humorous song "Sexy and I Know It" per request of the DJ, Dougy Pauley. 7. Amanda Mitchell, her date, and Brittany Yongue, good friends during school hours, get to enjoy bonding time outside of a school setting and show off their best dance moves in the process.

*Prom Queen and King
Revis and Logan Gibbons*

Despite the rain and drab weather, Prom 2013 was an enchanting night. Sponsored by the junior class of 2014, the prom was held off campus at the Windemer Country Club in Blythewood for the first time. Although a few traditions were left in the past, new traditions were incorporated and enjoyed by all in attendance. The hollywood theme and scenic view of the country club's lake made the occasion special. Prom was a fun time for seniors, juniors, underclassmen, teachers, faculty, and outside dates to enjoy themselves in a formal setting.

*Cutest Couple
Sidney Edenfield and Madison Spang*

Pretty Fly For a White Guy. These senior boys soak up their spotlight and dance to their requested song.

Lean On Me. Zelick Levy and Hannah Silvia make a cute couple as they dance to one of the night's slow songs.

Jump Around. Walking out for her "Senior Walk," Pauline Craig hops down the red carpet and high fives the underclassmen waiting.

Having a Breather. While sitting out for a few songs, Casey Self and her date flash a smile for the camera. It was hard to ignore the camera's flash going off, but most students (clearly) didn't mind.

Slide to Left.. Joseph Goldin, Lauren Faust, and other prom-goers dance along to the popular "Cupid Shuffle." Most of the students let loose and enjoyed their time on the dance floor.

Caught Up In this Moment. Senior C.R. Caudill and his date look lovingly into each other's eyes while a slow song plays. The dance floor was completely packed during these intimate moments.

Ay, Macarana. Jason Branham, Carson Justice, and Logan Gibbons shake their hips in time to the catchy tune of the Macarana. The dance floor was packed all night, and line dances definitely got students on their feet.

We Are the Champions. After an intense round of tug-of-war, these fourth and fifth grade students celebrate their combined victory. Multiple rounds of this game were played, and each student got pumped up at the chance to prove whether or not his/her class was the strongest.

13 bursting with [energy]

Secrets. Jodi Bigham
secret in the ear of classmate Kate Price while waiting their Tag-of-War. The Tug-of-War between classes was a fun-filled day of games.

Victory Is Sweet. After winning the egg toss, Mrs. Matthews is congratulated by Serenity Shirle, one of her first grade students. The students loved being able to cheer on their teachers in competition against other teachers.

The Big Squeeze. Nate Moore, encouraged by fifth grade teammates, hustles to get back to the beginning of the line with his sponge. Field Day participants competed within their classes at the different game stations where many of the stations featured water-related games.

Helping..Leg? Matt Taylor, one of the upper school volunteers, practically carries second grader Rob Wilson to the finish line. In the case of a three-legged race, having an older companion was definitely a bonus.

Caroline Poole and Kitt Nicholson frantically compete in the three-legged race, hoping to cross the finish line before their opponents.

Leaping over a hurdle, third grader Jake Smith shows he has "ups."

Alivia Martin and Roman Hawkins race to take part in the Giraffe Carry relay.

Wyatt Raley and William Spang pull with all of their might in hopes that their side of the rope will be victorious.

Taylor Spires, a little more than soaked, races with a sponge on her head while being dosed by water hoses.

These kindergarten students team up against the other half of their class in a round of tug-of-war.

As the last link in the chain, Dru Spires carefully passes water from his cup to Miller Stuck's cup.

Towards the end of the school year, students (and teachers) begin to feel the effects of "spring fever" and long for summer. Field Day is an excellent way for Lower School students to burn some extra energy. This is a day that is much anticipated and impatiently waited for all year - especially throughout the last nine weeks. As customary, games this year included many water-related activities, which is always a treat on a nice hot day like they experienced this year. Thanks go to Ms. Karen Stevens for coordinating the safari-themed games, stations, and equipment, to upper school volunteer helpers, and to the RWA PTO for sponsoring this event. Repeatedly a BIG HIT, Field Day gave both the students and teachers a chance to relax and unwind and celebrate the beginning of summer break.

Music to Our Ears! The fourth graders play their pre-recorders. Under Mrs. Howell's direction, they worked hard all school year and learned numerous songs.

Sing Out Strong! Travis Bonds, Brinson Baker, Lily Baggott, and Peyton Patrick have a brief stand-out moment in their class musical. The first graders sang songs about the months of the year.

Surprise Surprise! Samantha Wilkes, on behalf of the third grade class, presents Mrs. Nicholson with a thank you in the form of flowers. Mrs. "Nic" worked diligently with the lower school students and, as always, prepared wonderful music programs.

All Smiles. While leaving the stage, Alivia Martin and Charlie Bonds smile at their classmates. Although the students enjoyed performing for their parents, finishing the program was almost the best part.

Beyond the [spotlight]

Each school year, lower school students spend weeks, and at times, months preparing to perform intricate, fun, and exciting music programs for their friends and families. Under the guidance of Mrs. "Nic" Nicholson, students in grades K through 3 not only learned impressive songs, but they also mastered choreography to many of the contagious tunes. Likewise, props, costumes, and memorized monologues made these programs most memorable. Joining Mrs. "Nic" this year in the production business was music teacher Mrs. Howell, who led the fourth through seventh grades in music education. Most notable, the fourth grade learned how to play the pre-recorder and really "wowed" the audience by performing an entire program solely on their own with their new-found musical abilities. Mrs. Howell also directed an after school Eagle Chorus, and the group ended their year with a performance of favorite Broadway hits.

1. Rob Wilson, dressed as a turkey for the second grade Thanksgiving program, sings a solo describing Thanksgiving traditions. 2. Mikaela Miller sings loud and proud during the third grade program. 3. During their South Carolina history program, third grade boys hold up number cards depicting the year 1776, the year our nation fought for and gained its independence from England. 4. Eli Moore, Ella Grace Harrison, and Drew Spire sing and dance to "Skinny-Marinky-Dinky-Dink." 5. While performing in the kindergarten program, these pre-school students are challenged to stand still throughout the entire performance.

[Expanding] Boundaries

Giving students new opportunities to learn material beyond the books, teachers and administration got together and came up with the idea of daily enrichment classes. Bumping the beginning of the school day earlier, making each class just a little bit shorter, and cutting a few minutes off of lunch and break, there was a seventh period created in which enrichment classes would be held. Classes offered were diverse and offered things such as wood work, building club, art, Latin dance, archery, and robotics. There was truly a class that met the interests of every student.

1. Sophomores Ashley Surrat and Whitney Able look through old yearbooks together during study hall.
2. The seventh graders are serious about their flag football during sporting games enrichment class.
3. Mrs. Owens shows Perry Anne Robinson the techniques of drawing in art class and helps her with her drawing.
4. Seventh grader Caleb Truesdale presents his creation, a wheeled machine, in robotics class.
5. During the final pep rally of the school year, the Latin dance class displays their moves and weeks of hard work.
6. Zia Bowens is busy pumping some iron to stay in shape in weight lifting class.
7. While caught up in a serious game, Mrs. Padgett teaches Maddie Denton and Crystal Liu the right ways to win a chess match during chess club.

Moving to the Beat! Cassidy Branham and Whitney Able show off their own dancing skills. The girls in the Latin Dance class worked hard to perfect this dance.

Level Up! Brian Steed and Zelick Levy work hard to finish a project. The wood working class constructed many useful things around the school this year.

If at First You Don't Succeed... Noah Ward helps Lily Baggott learn how to tie shoe laces. A unique detail about Richard Winn, many upper school students got the opportunity to work with lower school students and build relationships, something that doesn't happen at bigger schools.

Ready, Aim, Fire! Sophia Jessica McCullar aims for the target in archery. Archery is a much anticipated class this year and is very popular with the students.

Steady! David Walling, Taylor Ingle, and Mac McDonald work on a project assigned by Coach Copeland. Wood working class was a way to get students involved in helping modify and enhance the school.

Design Team! Juniors Samantha Blair, Sarah Grier Thompson, and Lauren Faust diligently paint mailboxes for each teacher to put outside his/her classroom. Woodworking class obviously wasn't just for the boys!

Getting Messy. Kyle Speagle and Hunter Tate help second grader Caroline Poole better understand static electricity. During tutoring sessions, upper classmen were able to teach lower school students in fun and interesting ways.

Think, Think, Think... Hunter Tate thinks about what to make during robotics. Hunter and other students enjoyed creating working robots.

Ta Dah! The Latin dance girls end on a positive note. They showcased their new dance moves on stage in front of the entire upper school.

Shaking a Leg...or Two! Senior Reid Johnson demonstrates his funky dance moves while taking part in the Aerie Valentine's Dance fundraiser. The younger students enjoyed having the older yearbook students in attendance to get the party started.

Cupid's Helper. Aerie staffer Pauline Craig sorts the Candy Gram lollipops for delivery. The popular week-long yearbook fundraiser involved assembly line production and lots of teamwork.

Top Leaders of the Pack. Student Government earns SCISA AA SGA of the Year at the annual Spring Convention. SGA also received special recognition for their Warm Up a Pup project.

Giving Back. Ably guided by Mrs. Lore Gibbons, Junior and Senior Beta Clubs sponsor service projects throughout the year, including an annual food drive, Angel Tree gifts at Christmas, and Pennies for Patients. These honorable organizations worked hard to help send a "ray of sunshine" into the lives of those less fortunate as well as offered tutoring services for the elementary students during the enrichment period each day. Say Cheese! Samantha Wilkes and Autumn Keys, waiting patiently for the program to begin, smile for the camera. They were clearly excited about the upcoming awards and the ending of their third grade year.

The Moment We Have All Been Waiting For. Dr. Coleman, in her most genuine tone, welcomes the audience and praises all of the students and teachers for their hard work. Dr. Coleman shares her gratitude with all for so many academic accomplishments.

Standing Tall and Proud! The first grade lines up in recognition of their achievements and proudly accept the applauses for their achievements. This group of first graders had a successful year under the leadership of Mrs. Joye Schwartz, Ms. Danielle Owens, and Mrs. Kerry Matthews.

Let's Go! Lily Hawkins and Hughes await the announcement award recipients. These two graders were eager to "get the road."

1. Ainsley Martin, Emma Castles, and Taylor Spires lean in close to take a picture while proudly displaying their academic achievement medals. 2. After more than 30 years of her teaching career, Mrs. Grant awaits her final present fifth grade students with well-deserved awards and recognitions. 3. The facial expressions of these sixth graders sum up their idea of a lengthy award ceremony. However, the students were more attentive when it was their turn to be recognized. 4. Fourth graders Austin Robinson and Rayne Williams stand in recognition of an award.

Total Concentration. Preparing to make a free throw, junior Joseph Goldin focuses on the hoop as he dribbles the ball. Joseph, a veteran player, was dedicated to practices and willing to work whenever the gym was open.

Ay, Batter Batter.. Middle player Bryant Carvalho waits for the pitch to hurl the ball to the plate. The middle boys "got their feet wet" and practiced the fundamentals of the game.

Smiles on Hips, Smiles on Lips. During the last game of the season, Anna Grey Walters, Blake [unclear], and Sarah Coleman smile for the crowd and wait for the beginning notes of the fight song. The cheerleaders performed dances on the sidelines throughout the game all season.

Ready or Not.. Junior Zach Bowens prepares to plow into a Bobcat offensive player during the Homecoming game. Although this game did not have an ideal ending, the Eagles managed some good plays and gave their all throughout the night.

Huddle Up. Between plays, the varsity Lady Eagles bunch together to discuss strategies for the rest of the game. The volleyball players developed close relationships throughout the season.

Although the middle school girls' volleyball team began the season with only three returning players, the ten rookie players learned quickly and worked hard on the fundamentals of the game. Their win-loss record is no reflection of the improvements made as the season progressed. Former coach Martha Ladd returned to the volleyball court as their leader and guided them in learning the basics of the game, seeing that all 13 players got some playing time each match.

1. The girls get in a huddle before their match and encourage each other to play hard all throughout the game. 2. Caleigh Caldwell, Grier Hensley, and Rahi Patel get set on the back row, ready to receive and pass the ball to the setter. 3. Kennedy Elliott, Alyssa Atkerson, and Grace Wilder are full of excitement right before they play in their match against Laurens Academy.

Saving Grace. Grace Wilder sets up her serve against Spartanburg Day to get an ace. Grace was a vital server during this season and a spirit leader both on and off the court.

Got Spirit? The Lady Eagles get pumped up with high spirits before their match against Laurens Academy at home. These volley girls were always united as a team and played their hearts out every game.

Ready, SET. Lydia Wilder focuses on making a good pass to her front row setter teammate. Lydia was the only seventh grader on the squad and worked hard to perfect all areas of the game as a rookie player.

Perfect Pass. Caleigh Caldwell makes a great pass to the setter in the match against Cambridge Academy. Caleigh, in her first year playing volleyball, shows great potential for the future of the team.

Tuned In. Will Carvalho, fast with his legs, runs the ball down the field. Though Will was a rookie, his skills were immediately advanced for someone his age.

Let's Get Serious. Coach Paul Brigman tells players, Bryan O'Connor and Parker Amick the next play. The Eagles, under Coach Brigman's leadership, finished the season with a 4-2 record.

Tuned In. Some of the boys tune in to hear some important talk from Coach Dean on the sidelines. Their practice time was well spent in getting prepared for game situations and paid off.

Take It to the House. Mitchell Gibbons, number seven, moves the ball towards the end zone. Mitchell, as the quarterback and kicker, had many TD runs and long kicks.

The middle school football team showed wonderful improvement all throughout the season. Each and every player played a different role, and many stepped up, successfully, taking on the role of a leader on and off the field. The coaches were always there to encourage and teach the fundamentals and make any necessary adjustments during games.

1. Bryant Carvalho, number six, is determined, and dodges the defense of King Academy. 2. Before their game against Northside, the boys huddle and decide on the game plan. 3. Our Eagles are down and ready to play some defense while staying on their toes.

1. A few of the Lady Eagle reserves stand on the sidelines while the starting play is called out before the game. 2. Freshman Rebecca Robertson passes the ball. Playing the position of libero, Marion Coleman gets in position to pass the ball. 4. Carson Justice, a veteran junior, passes the ball. Freshman Jaycie Johnson gets ready to make a play on the ball. 6. Carson Branham, a sophomore, passes the ball to the team's setter. 7. Freshman Annie Mattox follows through as she serves the ball. 8. Jordan Parris watches closely as the ball comes through with her back swing to make contact on the serve.

Save It. Alexa Karoly saves the ball in a game against Laurens Academy. Alexa, a junior, moved up from the undefeated 2011 JV team to play her first year on varsity.

Can You Dig It? Alyssa Atkerson dives for the save. Alyssa, an eighth grader, proved to be a vital player after moving up to the varsity squad mid-season.

Let It Ride. Emily Brigman, a 10th grader, tosses the ball and sets up to put the ball in play. Emily, one of the team's middle hitters, served many impressive aces this season.

Set Her Up. Junior Sarah Grier Thompson sets up for a teammate for the serve. Sarah Grier was one of the experienced varsity leaders on the team.

This year was a rebuilding year for the varsity volleyball Eagles, having lost nine seniors from the previous year's squad. The juniors had to step up and be the leaders because there were no seniors and very few returning players with game experience. The Lady Eagles also had a new coach. Assistant head coach, Callie Ladd, was tapped to succeed Coach Patrick upon her coaching retirement. Coach Ladd brought her love, experience, and knowledge of the game to the program after having played for RWA herself as a standout during her middle and high school years.

Down and Ready. Sophomore Cassie Rae Cantrell gets ready to receive the serve. Her hard work over the summer really paid off as she greatly improved and added depth to the team.

Servin' It Up Jordan Parris serves the ball against Laurens Academy. Jordan returned for her second year to the varsity squad and was able to secure a starting position as a sophomore.

I Got It. Starting setter, Sarah Grier Thompson, bump sets the ball. Her ability to chase down balls all over the court helped her earn All-Region honors.

Spike It. Carson Justice spikes the ball. Despite suffering an ankle injury late in the season, her strong volleyball skills contributed to her being named All-Region.

Why do you play volleyball?
 "I play because it's a wonderful sport, and being a part of such a wonderful team makes it that much better."
 -Sarah Grier Thompson, 11th Grade

"I play because being active keeps me in shape, and I like the feeling I get when I make a good pass, hit, block, or set."
 -Annie Laurie Mattox, 9th Grade

The Richard Winn football team came away with a new outlook on the program after the conclusion of the 2012 season. After a majority of their summer was spent practicing and training for the upcoming Friday nights, these young men found themselves staying in contention to win most of the games they played. Having to adjust to a new style of play, eight-man football, it took the Eagles a few games to get comfortable with all the new changes. The Eagles also faced constant injuries to key players but managed to still put up a fight every game. After a season full of learning experiences, the returning players will be eager to get back out on Ruff Field and prove themselves once more.

Criss-Cross. Matt Taylor cuts back across field to avoid being tackled. Matt had plenty of runs this year for a lot of yardage, with a few even resulting in touchdowns.

Final Stand. All five senior players were elected team captains before kickoff of their final game as Richard Winn Eagles.

Standing Guard. Junior Alex Scott plants his foot to block a Clarendon Hall defender. Alex was a key lineman when it came to guarding our quarterback.

Catch Him If You Can. Webb Yongue advances the ball down the field against Carolina Academy. Webb always managed to find open field to gain positive yardage for the team every chance he had.

What was the best part about being able to play eight-man football this year?

The best part about playing eight-man this year was that almost every game we played was close in score and exciting.

-Reid Johnson, 12th Grade

The pace of play was continuously moving and everything was more up-tempo than last year's eleven man football games.

-Corey Davis, 12th Grade

Richard Winn and Clarendon Hall members get down and set prior to snap. 2. John Coleman wraps up a Clarendon Hall receiver to stop him short and get the ball back. 3. Austin Knox joins his teammates in the middle of the field before opening kickoff. 5. Reid Johnson takes the handoff and heads toward the hole to pick up a first down. 6. Reid Johnson stretches out to secure a pass thrown by Austin Knox. 7. Sidney Edenfield cuts behind the line toward open field. John Coleman and Zach Bowers lead the defense to stop the opponents offense from gaining yards.

Steppin' Up. Webb Yongue steps in to assist on the tackle of a Clarendon Hall ball runner. Webb, even though a just freshman, proved that he could make plays when the team needed him.

Wide Open. With nothing but open field ahead of him, senior Reid Johnson finds his way into the endzone. Reid was always a "go-to" receiver for the Eagles.

Ready To Fire. Junior QB Austin Knox drops back to pass down field to Logan Gibbons. Austin had many clutch throws throughout the season along with great running attempts.

Pass Out. Mason Gibbons is ready to kick the ball off to start the game. Mason's punting skills paid off during other opportunities.

With new uniforms and multiple new faces, the Varsity Eagle cheerleaders received a face-lift over the summer. Because there were only eight girls donning blue or gold bows on Fridays, the squad was definitely small this season. However, spirit and enthusiasm were never lacking. The Eagle cheerleaders, for the second year in a row, supported Breast Cancer Awareness by sporting pink bows and poms during the month of October. A cause that hit closer to home, Team Lily, was also supported by the Eagle cheerleaders again this season. Every game brought the girls closer together. This was definitely a squad passionate about their football players! Although some games ended on a low note, every cheerleader retained a smile and positive attitude. New cheers and dances coupled with innovative stunts were acquired at the Universal Cheerleading Association (UCA) summer camp. Four cheerleaders were chosen as UCA All American cheerleaders and three girls were invited to perform in the 86th annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. One thing was certain, the squad as a whole put their hearts into this season. The words of the squad's favorite chant "Richard Winn Varsity, we're number one" rang true for this group of cheerleaders.

Give It Your All. Captain Blake Little leads a chant to support the football team. All of the cheerleaders put their whole hearts into each cheer.

Take It to the Top. Bases Anna Grey Walters and Blake Little press into an extension. This group worked hard all season and accomplished many difficult stunts.

What was the most exciting part of the season?

Getting to cheer for the football players and performing at halftime.

-Meg Cathcart, 9th Grade

As this was my last season, it was emotional and exciting. Being able to cheer on our boys to well-deserved victories and bonding as a team are two moments that stand out.

-Blake Little, 12th Grade

Basketball is a sport that teaches you how to work as a team along with experiencing the benefits of hard work. B-team included forth, fifth, sixth graders and was organized and coached by Coach Jason Haltiwanger. The B-teams played their games between varsity girls and boys' half times, after school, and on Saturday mornings. The B-team program is not just about winning and losing, but it gives the players a feel of what it is like to be on a team while learning the fundamental skills of the game.

Holding on Tight. Aryan Patel holds the ball tight as Emy Russell and Tyler Tanner try to steal it from him. From experience, the players learned to look for open teammates while on offense and to play aggressively on defense.

[Starting] from the Bottom

Help! Tyler Tanner tries to find an open teammate as he is closely guarded by Jennifer Haney. The players quickly learned to rely upon teammates when they got stranded in situations like this.

Break Away. Dru Caldwell runs and dribbles to make a clear opening to drive past Tyler Tanner. Dru was one of his team's offensive threats.

On the Run. Emma Castles tries to get past Kaitlyn Thoma so she can score a point for her team. Kaitlyn kept a close eye and followed Emma while making sure she did not make it past her.

Going for the Shot. Brandi makes sure he has a clear shot at the basket. Teammate Hannah comes over to block out the shot trying to sneak in on him.

After losing four out of their five starters from last year, the middle school girls had a successful rebuilding year. With no eighth graders, the team began the season with very little experience. Having to battle every game, these young girls learned a lot of skills that will help them in years to come. Next year these ladies will be bigger, faster, stronger, more experienced, and surely a team to be reckoned with.

Reaching Out. Appearing to be reaching after the ball, Hannah Smith puts up the rock from the free throw line after being fouled. Hannah was one of the rookie players on the team.

Outta My Way! After soaring down the court, Gracie Atkerson begins to make her move towards the basket around a pesky Spartanburg Day defender. Gracie's athleticism kept her on the court for most of the game.

Huddle Up. Coach Haltiwanger takes advantage of a quick time out and calls his team in to discuss new strategies. His team was always quick to make an adjustment in order to outsmart their opponent.

Watchful Eyes. Albert makes a quick adjustment on which gap to go through in order to make it to the basket. Kimmy's ball handling was vital to the team's success.

Spread Your Wings. Cooper Swearingen "spreads his wings" to block the inbound pass. His hands and feet made him a defensive threat to opponents.

Striking Distance. In position to strike, Todd Johnson prepares to take a wide open three. This was Todd's rookie year on the squad.

Finish High. Ethan McManus finishes his free throw attempt beautifully as he looks for it to go in. Ethan moved up to from the B-Team program to play on the ms team this season.

Make It Rain. Jai Sanders shoots his free throw, focusing only on the goal and extra point. Jai hustled and improved throughout every game.

Preparing for something 13 better

Although their season did not go according to plan, the middle school boys learned valuable techniques and strategies of the game. Varsity boys coach, Joe Pitt, lead this team along the way, helping them realize what it will take to play for his varsity squad in years to come. This young group of Eagles faced tough opponents every game they played and showed flashes of brilliance here and there. Even though it was a tough year for this up and coming team, their skills will grow rapidly in years to come.

The ultimate sports goal... The AA State Championship... was captured by Coach Haltiwanger and the ten member team. The Lady Eagles certainly had one successful season, along with achieving various awards earned by individual players. Their final record of 29-1 proved their worthiness of earning this title. Their players' work ethic throughout the summer and during the off season shone through as definite motivation to push all the way through to the end and achieve the top award. Coach Haltiwanger and Assistant Retta Taylor have certainly built a solid foundation with this program, and are fortunate to have all of these talented female athletes returning for next year.

AA STATE CHAMPIONS

A shot a13ove [the rest]

Pass It On. Bailey Taylor, an eighth grader, passes the ball to one of her teammates as a strategic move for the team. In spite of her youth, Bailey is definitely a key player for the team.

Hot Shot. Emily Brigman shoots the ball effortlessly in her game against Oakbrook Prep. Emily was always ready and prepared herself for the next shot.

Brace Yourself. Jaycie Johnson, a freshman, boxes out her opponent, and is ready to receive the rock. Jaycie's natural athletic abilities helped her earn post-season honors.

Lighting Up The Court. Marion Walker Coleman races down the court in hopes of scoring points for the Lady Eagles. Marion was always willing to fight for the ball.

What did you do, as an individual or as a team, to prepare for the State Championship game?

As an individual, I accepted the role of being the leader and staying strong in winning the prize, not only in basketball, but in Christ. We are still on the mission of winning the prize with our Savior.

-Carson Justice, 11th

To get ready for our State Championship game, I had to take it all in and take deep breaths. I listened to music to get me focused, and I prayed with my teammates over and over again.

-Marion Walker Coleman, 9th

Starting the season out with a win, the varsity boys fought hard to keep their record as neat as possible. Under the direction of Head Coach Joe Pitt, the Eagles played nearly each and every game on the schedule against high-caliber opponents. Even though victories were tough to come by, Coach Pitt's squad learned valuable fundamentals to competing against the best of the best. Every season the Eagles gain new members to their varsity team. This year, with the addition of four young men, the Eagles found it very relieving to be able to rely on younger members of the team whenever the veterans needed a break. It's shaping up to be the building blocks for another Eagle dynasty.

13 beginning to [balance]

Up and In. Junior Joseph Goldin eyes the rim and goes through the motions of shooting from the charity stripe. Joseph came off the bench to give the team 100% effort each time.

For the Trifecta! Senior Logan Gibbons pulls up from the top of the arc, trying to drain a 3-point shot while being heavily defended. Logan's skills and athleticism will be hard to replace.

Wave It Goodbye. Leading scorer Cameron Cooper sets up from the baseline corner for one of his classic 3-point attempts. As a shooting guard, Cameron made his mark on the court as one of the region's top 3-point shooters.

Heads Up. Junior Jason Brant looks to his left to dish off the ball before he is guarded by a defender. Jason proved to be an asset to the team this year, running the point as the point guard.

What were your pregame rituals and why?

My pre-game rituals were to go to McDonalds, then go to Reid's house and take a nap. After that I would come to the school and go into the locker room and pray. -Patrick Pope, 11th grade

I would listen to music, pray, and hope that no one got injured. -Mitchell Gibbons, 8th grade

Logan Gibbons stares down the basket given an unguarded attempt. 2. Patrick Hensley plants his feet before firing the ball. 3. Reid Johnson lunges for the basket in hopes to score for his team. 4. John Coleman pulls up from the corner. 5. Logan Gibbons waits for a rebound if needed. 6. After walking the ball down the court, the Whitmire Wolverines hit a block one they were matched up with on the Eagles' defense. 7. After a tough battle inside the paint, Reid Johnson pulls up for a shot. 8. Corey Davis takes after receiving a pass in the key. 9. Rob O'Connor finds himself under the goal before he starts his drive.

Open. Patrick Pope has the ball in the corner with a wide open look, he takes a shot for three points. He was one of RW's main weapons, especially outside the 3-point line.

Step into the Light. Mitchell Gibbons leads the team out of the locker room before a home game. As the youngest rookie on the varsity team, Mitchell often came off the bench to knock down 3-point attempts.

Good Timing. Stopping short of the paint, Cameron Cooper releases a floater towards the basket before the defender could swat at it. Cameron went on to earn All Region post-season honors.

Consistency. Logan Gibbons lines up a shot at the charity stripe. All season long he had great consistency in knocking down free throws.

The Middle School team touted a winning season this year with a record of 3-1. The young Lady Eagles took two from Greenwood Christian at Greenwood and beat them once at home. The Eagles suffered their sole loss to Robert E. Lee Academy. With this softball season behind them, the team is making plans for a summer of practice in anticipation of another stellar season next year.

2. Sixth grader, Grier Hensley, gets ready to crush the pitch.
3. Kimmy Albert fields the ball and throws to first for the out.

Swing Batter, Batter! Calee Thigpen positions herself in the batter's box looking for a solid hit. Calee really contributed to her team offensively and defensively.

Strike Two! Cali Swearingen delivers a pitch to a Greenwood Christian player. Cali shared the mound with other middle school pitchers Calee Thigpen, Sally Costenbader, and Lydia Wilder.

Comin' Down. Sixth grader Jennifer Haney throws out a runner stealing second base. Jennifer was one of the youngest players on the team this year, but she still made a positive impact.

My Bag! Lydia Wilder fields a ground ball at short stop on second for the out. Lydia was a versatile player, being able to play short stop, second, and Ready and Ready. Gunnar Hensley prepared to field a ground ball. His quick hands, slender build, and reaching ability made him a great fit for the first base position.

Strike Three. Ethan McManus delivers a pitch to a Cardinal Newman hitter. As one of the youngest members on the team, this was Ethan's first year of JV baseball.

Batter Up. Mitchell Gibbons anticipates the pitch from a Fairfield Central player. Mitchell contributed to his team's success throughout the season in many different ways.

Concentration. John Coleman focuses on delivering a good pitch. John's athleticism, speed, and versatility made him a valuable commodity as he played on the JV team and also on the varsity team whenever needed.

The JV Eagles got to experience a good season this year. After some rough spots early in the season, they started to play together as a team and had a lot of success. The JV Eagles were coached by Justin Coleman and Bruce Baker. Both of these coaches were new to the program this year, but not new to RW baseball as they both played for RWA in their earlier years.

1. Anna Grey Walters keeps a close eye on the base runner while receiving the pitch. 2. Cassidy Branham checks to see if she made it to the out field as she heads to first base. 3. The Lady Eagles congratulate the Calhoun team on a hard fought game. 4. Anna and Cassidy discuss game strategy between the 6th and 7th innings of a playoff game. 5. Laker gets into her power position before the pitch. 6. Junior Sarah Coleman makes contact for a base hit. 7. Kennedy Elms is ready to field under the ball at third base. 8. Jordan Parris makes the play on Calhoun batter's hit to the middle of the field, a Cavalier out.

Eye of an Eagle! Eighth grader Anna Connor follows the foul fly ball to get the put out. Although young for a varsity level starting position, Anna worked hard and earned a starting spot at the first base position.

Eagles on 3. Before every inning the Lady Eagles gather inside of the pitcher's circle. This was a ritual for the infielders to unify them and give them time for a mini-pep talk.

She Throws Like a Girl! Bailey Taylor, an eighth grader, winds up to hurl another pitch across home plate. As the team's ace pitcher and fast pitch veteran, she was a leader on the team throughout the entire season.

Base Hit. Annie Mattox earns a single hit off Fairfield Central. A new player to RWA, this was her first hit playing softball for the Lady Eagles.

The RWA varsity softball team proved itself to be a formidable opponent with a record of 9 wins and 3 losses. Hard work and positive attitudes led the way to a victorious season. The Lady Eagles were led by juniors Sarah Coleman and Anna Grey Walters as the team's veteran players. With the majority of the team members so young, it's likely their game experiences and skills will continue to sharpen and improve in the coming seasons.

Down. Meagan Simpson gets home while scoring a run. She is known for her speed on the bases.

Crushed It. Bailey Taylor smacks a ball to left field. She batted in the number three position in the line up as she was one of the most consistent hitters for the Lady Eagles.

Put It Down. Alyssa Atkerson lays down a bunt in an away game at Fairfield Central. Her blazing speed was definitely an asset when given the bunt sign by her coaches.

Got It. Outfielder Abby Brannon snags the fly ball to get the out. A ninth grader, this was Abby's first season playing at the varsity level.

How do you celebrate a win ?

"Dance it out in the locker room with the girls. Then go home and sleep."

- Anna Grey Walters

"Congratulate my teammates on our win!"

- Sarah Coleman

The varsity baseball team worked very hard throughout the season to sharpen skills and literally step up to the plate for a successful season. While they added several larger schools to their schedule this year, they remained competitive. Although they still fell below the .500 win-loss record as the season closed, the team played very well and battled through many games until the very end. Overall they had a rewarding season, making the first round of playoffs and showing signs of better things to come in future years. According to Head Coach Al Berry, "The players represented RWA very well and demonstrated a lot of class throughout all contests."

Reviewing the Stats. Coach Billy Ladd and Head Coach Al Berry discuss the information in the stats book. Coach Ladd has assisted with the baseball program for more than ten years.

Strike 'Em Out. Lefty Blake Pauley gets set to deliver a strike. A sophomore, Blake got playing time at first base in addition to time on the mound during his second season at the varsity level.

Full Speed Ahead. Austin Knox takes off running after putting the ball in play against Catawba. During this game Austin pitched instead of being in his normal spot behind the plate.

Reflexes. John Coleman on a wild pitch that passes outside in an away game at Colum John's athleticism and versatility him a valuable commodity at and in the outfield at both the varsity levels.

What runs through your mind every time you go up to bat?

"I hope I can find this ball over the fence when I'm done."

- Hampton Caughman

"I visualize where the ball will go when I hit it."

- Patrick Pope

1. Infielder Sidney Edenfield makes the throw back routine as second baseman Corey Davis looks on.

2. Reid Johnson rounds third in the game against Westminster Catawba.

3. Pitcher Patrick Pope reaches back to deliver a strike while teammate Matt Taylor gets prepared for action.

4. Zach Bowens gets focused while he's on the mound.

5. Hampton Caughman heads to the dugout after scoring a run.

6. Austin Knox attempts to strike out his opponent during the playoffs at Calhoun.

7. Senior buddies Reid Johnson, Sidney Edenfield, and Corey Davis stand around while waiting for the inning to begin.

8. Jason Branham watches for a sign from pitcher Austin Knox before throwing his next pitch.

Speed Demon. Matt Taylor flies down the base path to home plate during the Eagles' victory at Columbia HS. His quick feet allowed him many options to steal during the season.

Safe! Cameron Cooper gets down 'n dirty while scoring on a passed ball against Greenwood Christian. A newcomer to RWA, Cameron earned a starting position in the infield and strengthened the Eagle defense.

Listen Up. Coach Justin Coleman gives senior Ron Price the usual reminders of actions to take after getting on first base. Ron pinch ran in numerous games in addition to playing in right field.

9. Up. Elijah Tucker is set as he prepares to hit against Greenwood Christian. During the season he played designated hitter and batted in several homeruns for the Eagles.

[Finding] their way Back

With another season in the books, the Eagle golf team had their most successful season since the 2010. With a new player, Conrad Sharpe, to add to the team, the four golfers beat at least one team every match they played in. Even though the Eagles barely missed qualifying for state, they still came away with many positive things to reflect on going into next year's season. Taylor Ingle once again qualified for individual play at the state tournament and finished up his RWA golf career in a tie for second place.

1. Wyatt and Conrad take a moment to compare their scores with one another after play has been completed. All scores must be added correctly and attested for after every round for them to count. 2. Conrad Sharpe watches his ball intently after chipping it towards the hole in hopes of making an unconventional birdie. Conrad proved to be skillful all throughout the year with his short game. 3. Focusing on the ball, Logan Robinson, a sophomore, begins his back swing with a driver on the first tee.

Fully Loaded. Wyatt Adams takes the club back to the top of his swing trying to generate great power to advance the ball down the fairway. Wyatt's physical strength helped on those intimidatingly long holes.

Follow Through. Logan Robinson follows-through with the club head pointing at the target after a short chip shot. Logan possessed great fundamentals that helped him everywhere on the course this season.

Eagle Eye. Conrad Sharpe looks at the subtle breaks in the green before putting his ball at the hole. Conrad's good eye sight and depth perception were key to his great putting abilities.

Bombs Away. Taylor Ingle rips a golf ball straight down the middle of the fairway as his teammates watch on. Taylor has been a key player of RWA's golf program for years and will continue to be a key player next year.

Many teachers come in and out of Richard Winn students' lives. This school year, ten of RWA's beloved teachers depart at the end of this year. While some of the teachers were only first time Eagles, some have given many of their years to Richard Winn, and several have been long-time dedicated members, wearing many different "hats" other than just fulfilling the role of a classroom teacher. Each individual teacher left the halls a little brighter due to their time spent here. Thank you for a job well done! They'll certainly be missed!

Ally Robinson (fifth grade) has been riding dressage since the age of six. Over the past 4 years, Ally has been recognized as the 2010 & 2011 SCDCTA Intro level Junior Champion, 2012 3rd in the training Junior Level as well as the 2012 Reserve Champion in the Junior Dressage Seat Equitation Division. 2013 has been a great year for her and her new horse, Ranja (pictured), as they have qualified for the Regional Championships this fall in Georgia.

Samantha Wilkes (third grade) rides horses with Mrs. D. Betty's riding class. Samantha attends riding camps, takes regular lessons, and has participated in local Christmas parades. Her horse is named Lady.

Anna Grace Martin (second grade) and sister Ainsley Martin (fourth grade) have both been playing the piano for three years. They take lessons from Callie Timms. Anna Grace and Ainsley are pictured here

Mason Adams (fourth grade) races Junior First Class dirt track go carts on the weekends. Last year, he placed third in points for the entire season!

Bryant Carvalho (eighth grade) and his brother Will Carvalho (sixth grade) actively both enjoy participating in extreme winter sports. Bryant prefers to snowboard and has been snowboarding since he was only six years old while Will enjoys skiing and has been skiing since he was four years old. These pictures were taken on the family trip to Park City, Utah.

Logan Robinson (tenth grade) earned the rank of Eagle Scout at the age of 13, his Scoutmaster encouraged him to earn all of the merit badges offered by Boy Scouts of America. Starting with only thirty-five badges, over the course of two and a half years Logan focused and achieved his goal on the 16th of February, 2013.

Perry Anne Robinson (ninth grade) trains in the hunter/jumper discipline at Landrum Stable. Perry Anne has shown horses throughout SC for several years. Her collection of beautiful ribbons and friendships will be those that she will cherish for a life time. Her horse is named Breezy.

Erin Johnson (tenth grade) says rodeoing is a main part of her life. She has been riding horses since she was a little girl, but has taken part in rodeos in the past several years. She competes in barrel racing, pole bending, and even a little bit of goat tying!

Paul Pendergrass, Hunter Gibbons, Emily Brigman, (tenth grade) and Logan Gibbons (twelfth grade) participated in the 5k "Zombie Run" in Charlotte, NC.

Reindeer Games. Kindergarteners enjoy preparing for their Christmas program the most when they finally get to use props. Traditional favorites like "Rudolph" continue to be the easiest ones to choreograph and tweak to add interesting flair.

Do You Like Our Hats? Considering the K-3 and K-4 classroom is decorated with Dr. Seuss murals and coordinating curtains, it seems most appropriate to celebrate the 100th day of school with a hat party. This group's 100th day party spirit radiated throughout the hallways of RWA as they paraded through the halls showing off their hats.

Recess on a rainy day gives Ava Grace and Joseph time to play with trains while staying inside. 2. During story time, Alivia and Mrs. Taylor enjoy a No David storybook.

3. Roman, Ava Grace, Justin, and Ava hug up close for a picture. 4. After finishing their lunch, Roman and Alivia exchange stories on Camo Day. 5. Rees and Ava Grace smile contagiously while playing during free time.

Tune In. Character Day is one of the most spirited days in K5. This group enjoyed dressing up as their favorite hero and sharing their favorite episode or movie part.

Tis the Season. One of the most anticipated times of the year is the annual kindergarten Christmas program. Our students are blessed to have the opportunity to re-enact the story of Christmas on stage in front of their loved ones.

Rockin' 80's. Without a doubt, this group takes careful fashion notes from their parents' glory days. Blast from the Past was another exciting day to reflect Eagle Pride during homecoming week.

Your Other Right. The K3, K4, and K5 students dance the "Hokey Pokey" during the annual square dance. Mrs. Nicholson's patience with such young, enthusiastic dancers should never be underestimated.

Walk the Line. Some of the first graders enjoy a line dance at the annual Square Dance. The class dressed in their country attire to fit in with the rest of the school.

The Reason for the Season. Lily does a wonderful job of playing Mary in the Christmas program. Multiple first graders were instructed to portray popular Christmas figures.

Spreading Christmas Cheer. Jack, Brinson, and Lily join in singing with the second graders during the Christmas program. Their play got the crowd involved and ready for the holidays.

Writing in Style. Drew practices his writing in class. The first graders have shown great improvements throughout the year.

Eagle Friends. Brinson holds a sign one day in the hall before a pep rally. The class took their "class" Edison, to each pep rally in and show their outstanding school.

Birthday Girl. Ella Grace enjoys her birthday with her classmates. She was allowed to wear her birthday hat all day in celebration.

Working Hard. Jack sets a positive role in the classroom while he quietly works. Mrs. Schwartz was consistent with keeping her students busy.

Interactive Teaching. Mrs. Schwartz gets her students involved to make teaching fun. They did many hands on activities and lots of Smart Board exercises to make learning easier and more enjoyable.

A Joyful Noise. The first grade students sing beautifully during their Christmas Program. They worked hard to prepare for the play.

Happily Working. The first grade students, always eager to learn, while doing their class. Throughout the year, the first graders cheerfully completed all the work assigned to them.

Can't See Us. The first grade class poses in their camouflage attire during Homecoming Week. They always have a great time participating in school events.

Huntin' for Answers. Lily and Lawson wait for Mrs. Atkerson to acknowledge them for the answer. The atmosphere within their classroom, even during homecoming week activities such as Camo Day, was respectful of all students' responses.

Listen Up. Mrs. Atkerson explains to her class their assignments and agenda for the day. After many years of teaching, Mrs. Atkerson clearly understands her students' enthusiasm and anxiety for what would be the order of business for the day- especially when there was a deviation from the students' normal routine..

School Day Blues. Morgan and Kitt have absorbed all that they can on the first day of second grade if their facial expressions are any indication. After an exciting and relaxing summer break, it was hard to get back into the routine of school.

Giving Thanks. Anna Grace performs a solo at the Thanksgiving Program. The class' creative costumes, thanks to many parents, added a special element to the program.

Walk for a Cure. Kitt, holding balloon in honor of leukemia, poses for a picture with baseball team at the "Light the Walk." Kitt was one of many in honor of his friend Lily Baggett.

We Gather Together. The second grade class sings about the first Thanksgiving in their Thanksgiving program. The spectacular performance for parents, friends, and students reminded everyone of their many blessings.

Like Father, Like Son. Lawson points out his favorite parts of his biography to his dad. The class wrote rather intriguing autobiographies at the beginning of the year.

O' Christmas Tree. Lily works diligently on her Christmas tree story during Mrs. Atkerson's class. The class always perfected their work before they displayed it on the wall outside their room.

Getting Crafty. Morgan explains the next step in completing their project to a classmate. Second graders looked forward to art and creative times such as these.

Raise Your Voice. Anna Grace and Landon lead their class in the Arbor Day Ceremony. They also planted a tree in the garden near the science building.

The second graders strike a pose during music class on Blast from the Past Day. This class had an extraordinary amount of school spirit and enthusiasm.

Think Fast! During a pep rally, William quickly catches Samantha W. These two partnered up in a fast-paced game of "Chicken in a Hen House."

Working Hard or Hardly Working? Emily diligently completes her class work. The students always worked quietly and efficiently, completing the tasks set before them by Mrs. Berry.

Pretty in Pink! Juliet and Samantha R., with matching shirts and hairstyles, glance up from a worksheet. It was hard to regain focus after a summer of fun.

Book It! The third grade class participates in National Young Readers Week. During this week the students practiced reading out loud.

Recess Days. Marshall and Zack pose for a picture while playing football at recess. Recess is a much anticipated time for lower school students to release their built up energy from sitting in classroom all day.

Blues Bros. Marshall and his brother, Mason, play the piano in the W Factor (talent show). The Gibbons' boys are all very musically talented.

Pitch Perfect. Hailey, Dru, and Mason focus intently on their music. Under the direction of Mrs. Howell, the fourth grade class learned to play pre-recorders and read basic music notes using the Pre-recorder karate curriculum.

Cluck Cluck. During a pep rally, Emma imitates a chicken. Participants of this game were instructed to avoid eggs that had been unknowingly removed from the floor once they had been blindfolded.

Merry Christmas. Below Christmas music program Eagle Chorus members gather for picture with music teacher Mrs. Howell. As you can see, several graders participated in the after school club on Mondays and Tuesdays.

Dance Like No One Is Watching. Marshall and Aryan definitely have some original dance moves. These boys, along with many of their classmates and friends, truly had a momentous time at the Valentine's Day Dance sponsored by the Aerie staff. Everyone enjoyed dancing to all of the current most popular hits.

M Is for Mom. Brandon desperately seeks the most perfect gift for his mom at the Mother's Day Shoppe. The Mother's Day Shoppe, like Santa Shoppe, is a treasured opportunity for students to remember their loved ones in a special way.

Is This Right? Hudson shares his answer with the class. Collaboration was a beneficial study technique as they prepared for tests and quizzes.

One Last Tug. Fifth graders competitively pull their way to victory during the tug-o-war competition on Field Day. They all agreed that they were going to miss being a part of this fun day, as Field Day is organized for students in grades K through 5.

Patiently Waiting. Nate waits his turn to find the needle in the haystack at the Square Dance. The games at the Square Dance are always a success!

Dancing the Night Away. Brooke, and Gracie enjoy games with Mrs. Martin at the Square Dance. Mrs. Martin, along with other adults, had a blast dancing with the students.

First Day Fun. Meredyth and Carson look very thrilled as they sit in Coach Halt's classroom. While the first day is an exciting time, it was still difficult to make the transition into a structured school year from a care free summer.

Total Success! Ally and her partner, Mason Gibbons, show their excitement after winning the pep rally game. Upperclassmen always enjoy interacting with the younger students.

Where's the Camera? A group of fifth graders have fun during the pep rally honoring senior athletes. The fifth grade class always does an excellent job showing their school spirit during each pep rally.

Raising the Flag. With aid from Mrs. Wilkins, Brooke and Ansley raise the flag. Different fifth grade students took turns raising and lowering the flag each day.

Hands Up. Throwing their hands in the air and raising their voices to ear-splitting levels, the fifth grade students try to attract attention so they can be picked for the pep rally game. The ever spirited fifth grade class was notorious for being unbelievably loud during pep rallies and often won the spirit stick for their enthusiasm.

When the Bell Rings. Hannah W. and Emy focus on their math worksheets and aim to complete their assignment before the final sounding bell of the school day. Sixth graders found the momentum to complete their course work and textbook this year despite the challenge of having math at the end of the day when they were most often mentally fatigued from a long school day.

Handy Dandy Calculator. Sixth graders learn how to use their calculators efficiently in math this year and appreciate their newly gained knowledge.

Working Together. A group of sixth graders utilize their break time to create a sign for the Homecoming game and pep rally. As tradition has it, banners adorned the hallways throughout the week and lined the fence on the football field the night of the Homecoming game.

Draw Four. Jennifer and Hannah G. play a game of Uno during their class Christmas party. After this year, the tradition of class parties comes to an end.

Break a Leg. "Fake an Injury" a new theme for Spirit Week. This group of students creates many of their families' friends some of their own assistive devices, braces, bandages, and rock this theme. It's a good thing of the injuries were real because the girls had an afternoon match against Greenwood.

I Need Help! Hannah S. gets assistance on her math class work from Mrs. Martin. This was Mrs. Martin's first year teaching 6th grade math.

Scream and Shout. The sixth graders stand up and yell to compete for the spirit stick. Although the 6th graders enthusiasm was great, and they nearly deafened Mrs. Woodlee, they ended up on the short end of the stick losing to the 5th graders.

Music to My Ears. A couple of sixth graders make more than music passing through the halls as they leave Mrs. Howell's music class. These students enjoyed having music again.

Hippyness. These sixth grade students are more than happy to pose for a quick picture on Decade Day during spirit week. Like most years in the lower school, the sixth grade class dressed up every day and enjoyed spirit week the most compared to any other week during the entire school year.

Yadda, Yadda, Yadda. Peyton diligently listens to Mrs. Taylor on the first day of school. From book and seating assignments to an overview of class expectations, the new school year was mapped out.

Lover's Leap. Kimmy enjoys the games during the pep rally for Senior Night. Playing games during pep rallies helped raise the level of excitement and enthusiasm of the student body.

A New Beginning. Mrs. Taylor shows Cassie the new book that the class will be using throughout the new year. The seventh graders had a major adjustment from the comfort of the lower school to the unknown of upper school life.

Way Back When. Maddie selects a dress reflective of the early 1800's to help represent her history project character Molly Pitcher. The class read clues about their characters' persona for the lower school student body to name the historical figure.

Test Time Blues. Bailey and her classmates try their hardest to focus on a South Carolina history test despite the excitement of Homecoming Week. Although students would have liked to have forgotten about school work during Spirit Week, teachers kept them on track with assignments and tests during the week to keep their pupils grounded.

The End! B, Rebecca, and Webb complete their assignments during 7th period enrichment and spend their last few minutes indulging in a good book. The students benefitted from having study hall during this time on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Elizabethan Style. These ninth graders offer food of the era at their station during the Shakespeare Festival. This new event was part of their literature studies.

You Can't See Me. The ninth grade boys are well rehearsed at pretending to read and enjoy the latest edition of Weekly Reader. Ms. Trammell, a first year teacher at RWA, was no fool when it came to their less than obvious old school tricks.

Reading, WRITING, 'rithmetic. John tries to remain focused during his writing assignment. He managed to finish despite the camera in his face.

One Thing Left. Following the Baccalaureate service, the Junior Marshals and graduating seniors line up and pose for group pictures. Having the service at St. John's Episcopal Church was a break in tradition, as the smaller setting provided a more intimate ceremony for the small graduating class.

1. Waiting impatiently for the start of the service, Zelick flashes an anxious smile "backstage." 2. Brittany, after receiving a sneak peek of the excitement that graduation holds, exits the church along with her classmates and heads on to the reception. 3. Levi, Sarah Grier, and Mason provide the musical accompaniment for the traditional song, "On Eagles' Wings," for the congregation and graduates to sing. 4. Thanks to the inconvenient weather, Logan, Sidney, Corey, and the rest of the Baccalaureate participants line up and wait to enter the church from the Parish Hall. 5. Joseph, Vicky, Zach, and Sarah listen reverently to the sermon given by Dr. McCants to honor and guide the graduating class. 6. After being accosted by an unfortunate smell, Taylor and Anna Grey cover their mouths and hold back uncomfortable giggles. 7. Codie and Blake get a little emotional when the beginning strands of "Pomp and Circumstance" play, signaling the start of the service. 8. Joseph fills his plate with appetizing food during the reception. 9. Dr. Coleman briefly runs through the service order with the participating pastors and Junior Marshals.

There's no turning 13ack now

Heart of the Eagle. Valedictorian Kristin graciously and excitedly receives the Heart of the Eagle award from Dr. Coleman. Being announced the winner of this award was, according to Kristin, the best part of the entire evening.

Proud Papa. Kristin and her dad hold up a banner declaring her a class of 2013 graduate after the ceremony is over. It is customary that family and friends surround the new alumni at the back of the gym and take pictures and congratulate the graduates.

Is My Hat on Straight? While waiting for the graduation ceremony to begin, C.R., Zelick, and Quintin make sure their caps are on just right before lining up and leaving the "holding room." Prior to the start of graduation, the seniors, junior marshals, and participating faculty members were held in the lower school music room.

We Did It! An excited duo, Sidney and Corey, standing beside a slightly less thrilled Taylor, celebrate after receiving their diplomas. Shortly after this point, the seniors were told to turn their tassels and were announced as official Richard Winn graduates.

After receiving their diplomas, Codie and Ron smile, feeling excited, yet unable to believe their graduation is happening. 2. Pauline, C.R., and Quintin chuckle at a joke made during Logan's salutatorian speech. 3. Nervously awaiting seven o'clock, Ron and Zelick wait "back stage" to begin graduation and get the show on the road. 4. As the younger sister of a 2007 RWA graduate, Blake is able to receive her diploma from her older sister, Blair Waldrep. 5. Logan Gibbons ducks his head in order to close the height difference and to allow Dr. Coleman to place his salutatorian medal around his neck. 6. Brittany and David, a little misty-eyed, get lost in the moment during the senior slide-show. 7. Reid, Sidney, Zelick, and Corey, captains of Team Lily, stand in recognition while a summary of their hard work and dedication to blood cancer awareness is read. 8. Smiling at his own joke, salutatorian Logan reads his clever and humorous poem featuring funny, embarrassing, and occasionally kind words about his fellow classmates. 9. Pauline happily accepts a bouquet of flowers from a family member at the end of graduation. 10. Reid, Kristin, and Taylor laugh at a memory displayed during the slide-show honoring the senior class. After taking the famous "walk across the stage," David shakes Dr. Coleman's hand and gladly collects his diploma. 11. Brittany is caught sharing an emotional moment with her sister, Jessica, a 2011 RWA graduate. 12. Codie, newly named the winner of the Mildred Moore Hite Memorial Scholarship, graciously accepts her award.

One score and two years ago, seven of us started our journey here at Richard Winn. As the years passed, we gained a few, and lost a few. But we were always eager to learn and ready to please. We had a dream, and that was to graduate. And here we are tonight in this moment truly. "living the dream." Before I begin, I want to thank our parents, grandparents, teachers, coaches, of course, our friends for guiding, cajoling, imploring, and sometimes, pushing with all your might to get us to this point. On behalf of my RWA class of 2013, we thank you.

Those of you who know me understand that creativity is not my strong suit, so when I was advised for this speech I should bust a rhyme, it was "old school" that came to mind... So here it goes...

Now this is a story, all about how
Our lives got flipped, turned upside down.
I'd like to take a minute
just sit real tight.
And I'll tell you all about this class here tonight.

There you have it, my rapping debut and retirement, too.
Now I'll continue this tale before you all bail.

Seems only fair to start with first in the class.
Blake Little for whom great things I forecast.
When she's not busy making straight A's,
She's cheering for the Eagles on game days.
She is also a great pianist to boot.
Next year we will find her in some Erskine group.

This next one always strives for perfection.
It's Kristin Irby who's up for reflection.
She's kind of heart and shines like a star,
But crashing into that church took it too far.
Though next year ought to be sweet.
When she's part of the Erskine Flying Fleet.

Sidney Edenfield is our very own class clown;
His jokes and his laugh won't let you down.
Sports and women are definitely his forte,
But without milk and cookies he would not be okay.
A "legend" he became at football camp.
Go on now... to Midlands, you champ.

Brittany Yongue who is always lending aid,
Has been with us since the first grade.
She loves all animals big and small.
A veterinarian is what, one day she will be called.
She is a very friendly person to be around.
After this, Tri-County is where she will be found.

Next up, the "handy-man" which is no pun
It's alright, C.R. Caudill told me to say that... for fun.
C.R. is the only one who has been here all 15 years.
If he's not at school; check the farm, he's bound to appear.
If you have any questions about faith, he has the solution,
So P.C. seems to me like the perfect institution.

David Walling is another helpful hand at school.
But to challenge him to a video game takes a fool.
He's just a guy who found his passion,
In defeating bad guys without compassion.
At UAT just keep us in mind,
As you make your mark in game design.

Next is Ron Price who steps up to the plate.
And as a baseball player, he's pretty great.

Although he looks quite small,
In his army truck he's unusually tall.
Ron is a guy whose priorities are right.
And at Lander I know he'll shine bright.

Hard to understand, speaking a language all his own,
It's Quintin Byrum, behind that inaudible tone.

This kid is rather tall and downright lean,
And on this country- he's quite keen.
Soon he will be preparing for combat,
And wearing a Navy uniform- you can bet on that.

Reigning from Chester and a proud southerner,
This girl's accent is like no other.
All her complaints, she doesn't hesitate to tweet,
But don't judge her, she's really quite sweet.
Ms. Codie Revis, a teacher she will be.
After her education at USC.

The last girl of whom I will speak
Is Pauline Craig who is anything but meek.
She works at Sonic all the time.
And she's not afraid to speak her mind.
We all know her as Casper,
And it's a Midland's education she's after.

Alright stop, everybody listen,
Check your pockets, pennies may be missin'
Zelick Levy, though somewhat challenged by height,
On the soccer field, this kid's dynamite.
With his sarcasm you don't know what's true.
But it's to Lander he's headed to.

Now Reid Johnson is a big, tall guy.
The girls go crazy, for his signature butterfly.
He's always got a smile on his face,
And leaves his mark all over the place.
This dude's athletic; at anything he can compete,
So watch out, Limestone, this is the one to beat.

Even though Corey Davis plays three sports,
It's only to Emily he reports.
He's got the best beard in the school.
And can do math like it's cool.
If it's Corey you wish to see.
You'll find him in Columbia at USC.

Taylor Ingle is a mellow guy.
He makes a hole-in-one seem easy as pie.
With John Mayer as his guiding light
His guitar playings are out of sight
One day he will be a millionaire,
Soon after finishing USC Lan-cast..are.

Now for me, you will see
I typically have a type B personality.
To some, I'm quiet, reserved, almost aloof,
But meet me somewhere else, that may not be the truth.

And after tonight, I'm also a poet,
And you all know it.

A scholar with a rapper's heart, I leave you with these words
Sugar Hill Gang:

Sit down, friends, I "wanna" talk to you.
And don't say a word until I'm through.
Now, there's a time to laugh, and a time to cry.
A time to live and a time to die.
A time to break and a time to chill.
To act civilized or act real ill
But whatever "ya" do in your lifetime
I know up is where you'll climb.

I, Quintin Byrum, do bequeath to Logan- the ability to gain weight. To Doughboy- a sloth. To Will- a quarter and a pizza at lunch. To Mac- someone to meet in end of the year detention. To Mr. Clean- someone to call you Mr. Clean. To the smurfs- the ability to get taller. To Snookie- someone to say "sup" when they see you.

I, C.R. Caudill, do bequeath to Chrissy- someone to drive you everywhere. To Mac and Logan Byrum- someone to bring a football for after school. To Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Wilder- someone to build all of the projects. To the dumpster fence- Brian Steed to fix you when you break. To Brian Steed- a dumpster fence to fix. To Logan Robinson- someone with a brain to talk to. To Alex Scott- someone to laugh at when Brian is the only one working on the dumpster fence.

I, Corey Davis, do bequeath to John Coleman- a good season in football and a ride to McDonald's. To Patrick Pope- a good senior year and baseball season. To Joseph Goldin- a new move in basketball. To Blake Pauley- some speed and a partner to throw picks with. To Alex Scott- president and a good season of football. To Hampton Caughman- the ability to not get hurt. To Austin Knox- a prayer before every football game and a home run to right field. To Matt Taylor- my awesome quarterback skills. To Elijah Tucker- the ability to sit back and drive the baseball.

I, Sidney Edenfield, do bequeath to John Coleman- my football helmet that has rocked many heads, a great football season, and a ride to Carolina Wings. To Alex Scott- a great football season and my seat on the bus (if it's not still broken). To Blake Pauley- the last Twinkie on the face of this Earth. To Patrick Pope- a big bottle of Gas-X for those long bus rides. To Jason Branham- the ability to catch a fly ball and to pitch a baseball. To Austin Knox- the ability to bunt a home run. To Hampton Caughman- a bubble wrap suit. To Boyce Walters- my inflatable pillow. To Hunter Gibbons- the ability to lay the wood on anyone that comes your way in football. To Gunnar Hensley- the ability to lay some licks in football. To Webb Yongue- my ability to go hard and drive for everything. To Paul Pendergrass- the knowledge to know that your truck is meant for an old man. To Wyatt Adams- the screaming intensity I have on the football field. To Madison Spang- a great junior year and a phone call for whatever you want whenever you want.

I, Logan Gibbons, do bequeath my football helmet to whoever wants it, I don't care. My jersey, however, is only allowed to go to someone that will score a lot of touchdowns. Mason Gibbons, you can have my ability to dunk. Joseph Goldin, you can get dunked by Mason and his new dunking skills. Whoever is the next kicker, you can have my ability to kick it really far. Hunter, I leave you the Volvo. It's all yours. Take it. No, really, I mean it. Logan Byrum, I leave you the coolest name ever. Hannah, I leave you the rest of my basketball skills because we all know you'll never dunk. PS, I left $20 somewhere in the school. I do bequeath to _____ (whoever finds it) $20.

I, Taylor Ingle, do bequeath to Conrad Sharpe- my ability to perform on game day, sixty extra yards off the tee, and my ability to catch fish. To Patrick Pope- my ability to bring in the ducks, my ability to hit wedge shots, and any truck you want. To Rebecca Robertson- all my vine videos, all my advice, and a good guy. To John "Ray" Sandifer- all of my guitar skills. To Nic Stillwell- someone to always give you a hug. To Pookie- someone to always ask "whats up" in the hallway. To Carson Justice- someone to always listen and give advice. To Mrs. Missy Taylor- students to talk about the previous night's ballgame. To Mrs. Wilder- a "lively" group of seniors. To Wyatt Adams- the ability to hit a ball consistently straight through nine holes. To Sarah Grier Thompson- all of my love.

I, Kristin Irby, do bequeath to Vicky Durham- my parking spot to enjoy. To Anna Cooke- my locker. To Chrissy Caudill- delicious caramel apple to enjoy! :) To Casey Self- a new person to mess with. To Josh Ellisor- a new person to say "Sup!" to. To Jessica McCullar- a person to eat lunch with. And to Amanda Mitchell- my love of iPhone cases.

I, Reid Johnson, do bequeath to Hunter Gibbons- someone to beat up on you during football. To Blake Pauley- a snake hunting partner. To Joseph Goldin- a new move and a swat. To Jason Branham- someone to argue with on the court and a hit in the face with a baseball. To Austin Knox- someone to throw a party to, a conversation in the Food Lion parking lot, and a movie to watch at your place. To Gunnar- a good girlfriend. To Rob- a haircut. To John Coleman- a look-a-like brother and someone to spot you money.

I, Zelick Levy, do bequeath to Hannah S.- her boyfriend. To Lauren Faust- arguments in anatomy. To Mrs. Mobley- someone to call her neuron. To Alex Scott (Snookie)- a ride after football. To Carson- a clap when she does dumb stuff. To Anna C.- someone to pick on her and Rocketdog. To Anna C.- someone to push in the hall. To Mason G.- my speed and surprises. To Will R.- someone to mess with you in math. To Mac M.- someone to hang out with all the time and have inside jokes. To Hunter G.- not to be annoying and be cooler. To Jordan- catchphrases. To Chrissy C.- someone to call her a toddler and stop stoo. To B.W.- a new nickname. To Nick S.- someone to call him John. To John C.- a "what up" in the hallway. To Logan B.- oreos. To Eli Moore and Serenity Shirle- someone to read to and to make hundreds on AR tests.

I, Blake Little, do bequeath to my cheerleading babies- the best of luck, a few more Just Dance parties, a reminder that y'all are the most amazing and beautiful girls in the world, and a huge THANK YOU for putting up with my crazy shenanigans; without y'all, my last season would've been worth nothing. To any and all future cheerleaders at RWA- a sincere hope that cheerleading is everything for you that it was for me. To Anna Grey Waters- my cheerbabies, made up dances from our youth cheer camp days, someone for you to watch UCA videos for countless hours with, a reminder that you are TOTES my best and the most "amaze". To Sarah Coleman- a million and six woohoo's and huh's, AGW to CONSTANTLY remind you of "Oh you bad girl success in the yearbook room next year (hopefully with few distractions), and my cheerbabies as well. To Addie Boston- about eighteen tons of Sour Patch Kids, someone to remind you of how adorable you are, and all the love a "Big Sis" can give. To Meg Cathcart- someone else to call you Megbaby, the ability to make up even more stunts (like your superman/donkey kick) and a reminder that you are amazing. To Chloe Dawkins- a reminder that you are an incredible base, someone to make sure you never forget how precious you are, and someone to push you into becoming a flyer again ;) To Chrissy Caudill- some corn to make you hyper, a new base for you to practice your roundhouse kicks on (haha), and a reminder that you are awesome. To Hannah Silvia- someone to appreciate your sense of humor and someone with which to have witty conversations. To Ally Robinson- a blind make-over and anything and everything purple. To Perry Anne Robinson- better cooking skills than I have and an amazing first season as a cheerleader. To Joseph Goldin and Anna Cooke- talks after church on Wednesday and a "he's unnecessary" comments. To Mason Adams- a new cheerleader to entertain you on Friday nights and a hug. To Austin Knox- someone who will write your yearbook otions for you and "safe travels." To Sarah Grier Thompson- all my best wishes for your yearbook next year. To Hunter Hartley- more hey's in the hallway. To my mom's seventh graders- someone else to interrupt your class every day ;) To Hunter Gibbons- someone else to drive you absolutely insane (just like you do to everyone else). To Blake Pauley- my name. To Levi Davis- someone else to surprise you with their incredibly good taste in music and the best of luck in finding someone who can write Bowling For Soup as accurately as we can. To Mrs. Ladd- editor and business manager that can actually work an elevator, "safe travels," someone who will help you out with Drawdy Park, and hopefully a quieter yearbook staff for next year. To Mrs. Lisa Davis- a new volunteer to readily make random announcements to you and someone to stop by and say hey every day. To Mrs. Wilder- AP students that actually embody "AP spirit" and someone else to stealthily sneak into the teachers' lounge for you. To Coach Copeland- fried chicken, mashed potatoes, and green beans. To Mrs. McDonald- someone to help you when your creativity fails. To Coach A- a poodle in a cheerleading skirt and someone else to scare you out of nowhere. To my mom (aka Ms. Owens)- someone else to leave you notes on your board, jam sessions in the car, and what not. To Rob O'Connor and Gunnar Hensley- bags of candy on football Fridays. And (having saved the best for last), to Zach Bowens- a trip to Zaxby's and a trip to Chick-Fil-A, (blue) icee from Murphy's, candy that I WILL NOT eat, whatever this fourteen course meal requires, a movie marathon that we can't give up on three movies into, and many many road trips to Lake Mead :)

Ron Price, do bequeath to Will R.- a ride to welding. To John Coleman- my varsity baseball jerseys. To Knox- my base running skills. To Elijah- somebody to throw with. To Blake Pauley- a pair of rocket shoes. To Hampton- some "MEEAATT!" To Mrs. McDonald- I give you my corner back. To James Price- my knowledge of all the RWA loop holes.

Codie Revis, do bequeath to Cassie McKeown- a ride to school and a hug in the hall. To Mason Adams- a new girlfriend since Blake graduated. To Brooke Pauley- a hug and someone to approve of your boyfriends (since you always had to approve of mine). To Elijah Tucker- a piece of gum. To Cassie Rae and Chloe- the ability to drive down 321 everyday without getting stopped for speeding. To Lauren- I leave Chester, endless car rides and phone calls, MOVE GET OUT THE WAY, the strip, trips to Hardees looking like death, fishing trips, and so much more that I can't think of right now. To Sarah Grier- car rides, new music, and talks about me. To Zach Bowens- 24, someone to make angry everyday in class, tweets to read out loud, and Blake's heart. So you better not break it. To Sarah Coleman- my business manager skills. To Ricky- a message from a GB, trips to Carolina to come visit me, someone to talk to about anything, a hug every day, and a good guy who treats you like a queen! To Patty P.- someone to pick on and aggravate in yearbook, a hug every day, a back rub, and the job of keeping an eye on David while I'm in Cola. To Austin- safe travels. To Mason- a hug. To Josh E.- a ride home and a high five. To Coach Copeland- mashed potatoes, green beans, and fried chicken. To Mrs. Wilder- a better AP class than ours. To Mrs. Ladd- the patience to deal with these boys in class, safe travels, and someone to fill you in on all the drama of RW. To anyone else I forgot- my apologies and best wishes!

David Walling, do bequeath to Brian- someone else to get their name confused with.

Brittany Yongue, do bequeath to Noah Ward- my locker from senior year and my metal pencil holder. To Jessica McCullarmy parking spot in the senior parking lot that I never got the chance to use and my locker mirror so that she may need only to open her locker to check her appearance. To my brother, Webb Yongue- my good grades. To Chrissy Caudill- an apple to enjoy without braces and my locker shelf to set her books and binders on.

13 Year Club - Logan Gibbons, Taylor Ingle, and C.R. Caudill (14 Year Club as well).

12 Year Club - Logan Gibbons, Reid Johnson, Taylor Ingle, C.R. Caudill, Brittany Yongue, and Corey Davis.

Class of 2013

Blake Elizabeth Little

I am so proud of you! You have grown to be such an intelligent, caring, and beautiful young lady. You are truly God's gift to me and anyone who knows you. I know that you will succeed in everything you do in life. I love you so much and always remember that you will forever be my angel.

Love Always and Forever, Momma

of

Codie Elizabeth-Jean Revis

Eighteen years ago God blessed us with a beautiful Christmas angel who brought so much love, joy, and happiness to our family. Today you continue to bless and enrich our lives with your "blonde moments," laughter, and love. We are so proud of the person you have become and all of your accomplishments. Thank you for being an honest and trustworthy daughter who has admirable goals and understands the "higher road."

Thank you for loving us as much as we love you. As you go off to college, we will continue to pray for God's protection, His divine guidance, and abundant blessings upon your life.

Remember to always demonstrate the Fruit of the Spirit: love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, and self control. Most importantly, give God the praise and honor He deserves. As you begin to face new challenges, always know you have our love and support! You have wanted to be a teacher since the first grade, and we have no doubt you will be a wonderful and energetic educator.

May all your dreams come true!
We love you, Mama, Daddy, and Eric.

For I know the plans I have for you declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.

Jeremiah 29:11

Zelick Matthew Levy

Congratulations, Zelick!
We are so proud of you! We love you!

Love, Mom and Dad

Brittany Sharidenne Yongue

Congratulations and best wishes!

We know you will become the best veterinarian ever! Your hard work and caring are what make you very special.

We love you and are so proud of you.
Mom, Dad, and Webb

Ronnie Eugene Price III

Dear Ron,
We have watched you grow from a baby into a respectable, fine young man. We are extremely proud of you and your accomplishments. Always remember to be true to your heart and you will never go wrong. We have so many wonderful memories from the past that we can not wait for new memories to come. Always keep God near and dear to your heart because He will never steer you in the wrong direction.

We love you so much!!!
Mom, Dad, and James

Kristin Louise Irby

Congratulations, Kristin, on your day. It seems to have come so quickly for you. It was only yesterday you entered kindergarten, and now it's hard to believe you are graduating from high school and heading to college. We are so proud of you and your accomplishments. Continue to dream your dream and soon, just like high school graduation, your future will be here as you join the working world.

Love, Mom & Dad

Reid Oliver Cappin Johnson

Congratulations on your many successes-
Always do your best.
We love you!

Daddy, Mama, and Jaycie

David Mark Walling, Jr.

"Some people come into our lives and go quickly. Some stay for awhile and leave footprints on our hearts. And we are never, ever the same."

David, we are so proud of you. You bring joy into our lives. God led you through life and blessed you. Congratulations on your academic achievements and the way you have been helpful and a caring student at RWA.

Love, and lots of it, from
Mom, Kayla, Jimmy, Poppy, Uncle Chris, Hunter, & Uncle Ben

Jonathan Corey O'Neal Davis

Corey –

You have brought us more joy than we can describe, more happiness than we ever imagined!

We are beyond proud of the young man you have grown to be and can't wait to see what is next for you!!

"Do not go where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail...."

We Love You!

Dad, Mom & Ryan

P.S. Go GAMECOCKS!!!

Carroll Robert Caudill

"For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future."

Jeremiah 29:11

We are so proud of you, C.R.!
Congratulations!
Just follow the Lord and He will direct you down the right path.

We love you!
Dad, Mom and Cissy

Carroll Robert Caudill

You were the first boy born in our family. You were cherished from the time you were born, at the terrible 2's to the start of the crazy teens at 13 and will continue to be until you are 95 and over.

I am so proud of you, Buddy.

"I can do everything through Him who gives me strength." Php 4:13

Love you always,
Grandma

Blake Elizabeth Little

We are so proud of you and the young woman you have become.
We know that you will succeed in everything God has in store for you. We love you more than words can express!

Love, Blair and Will

Being

blue n' gold

...is all about being unafraid of individuality. At Richard Winn, it is important to see past the dress code, the guidelines, the sports teams, and the classrooms. Once you become a part of Richard Winn, whether you play a sport, join a club, or simply get through each day, the school colors are forever imprinted in your heart. Blue and gold become a beacon of family and friendship, a reminder of the relationships formed. Once you exit the school doors for the final time, blue and gold will always go with you. One day, each student, teacher, and faculty member connected to Richard Winn Academy will look on these colors and smile. After all, an Eagle never forgets how to
