

Here at Richard Winn Academy, there is absolutely no doubt that each and every student and staff member feel welcomed as a part of the Richard Winn family. However, during this 2013-2014 school year in particular, many changes came into play, such as a turnover of long time faculty members from the previous school year, a new varsity football coach, and a daily enrichment period for middle and high school students, just to name a few. While adjustments brought challenges at times, each member of the RWA family persevered in his or her own way for the better. Therefore, changing it up seemed like a very suitable theme for this year in the fact that some of the old ways gave way to new adaptations. Most importantly, however, no matter how many changes we encounter here at this small private school in Winnsboro, SC, every person finds his or her own way to show eagle pride while . . .

CHANGING IT UP.
