

WINTER

WINTER means naked trees, less daylight, and colder temperatures, and yes, sometimes even snow in the South. And boy, did we get our share of snow this past winter...not once but twice!

For the students, the two different snowstorms this past WINTER brought enough accumulation for the administration to call off school and allow students downtime to sled, ski, and build snowmen. WINTER means deer and duck seasons for the hunting enthusiasts and lots of camouflage clothing. Winter means studying for exams and ending the first semester of school. It means celebrating Christ's birth and attending or taking part in Christmas programs and services. It means buying, wrapping, giving, and opening presents. It means family time, football bowl games, watching parades on TV, and bringing in the New Year. It means basketball season and two to three games per week, even over the holidays. It means hard work and fun, all at the same time.
