

Good to the Last Drop. Kindergartner Maggie McManus carefully pours the water from her cup into classmate/teammate Addi Collins' cup. The object of this relay was to get the most water transferred to the bucket at the end of the line before the other team.

Law & Order. Mrs. Karen Stevens and Walter Thoma, volunteer coordinators, chat with students to make sure Field Day activities are running smoothly. Thanks to their help, along with help from student and parent volunteers and the PTO, Field Day was another successful, fun event!

"Berry" Yoked! Mrs. Debbie Berry is a good sport to take the egg-ting from her sister-in-law's toss. Both Mrs. Berry's third graders and Mrs. Schwartz's first graders loudly cheered them on during the egg toss event, but in the end, Mrs. Schwartz got the best of Mrs. Berry. Look for a rematch between these two next year.

1. Joshua Johns has no trouble clearing the hurdle obstacles. 2. Mrs. W... 4th graders muscle their way to victory. 3. Dylan Albert reaches into the bucket as the Field Day staff and helpers look on. 4. The Tug-o-War is always a popular event as the 4th graders give it all they've got. 5. The fifth graders have fun competing in the class Tug-o-War competition. Using teamwork, the fifth graders defeat their opponents and celebrate their victory. 7. Miller demonstrates some jump rope skills as Ella Grace Harrison assists him as one of the rope turners.
