

Walking to Victory. With arms linked, the cheerleaders parade across the field to perform their last halftime routine of the season. The team was closer than ever as they cheered on the football players for one last victory.

Fired Up! Perry Anne Robinson shows her Eagle spirit by standing with her fellow cheerleaders every Friday night. This was her second year as a dedicated member of the squad.

Going for Gold. Madison Spang cheers loudly for the Blue and Gold. Though it was only her first year on the team, she demonstrated serious commitment to the group.

Pink Out. The varsity cheerleaders were one of the many athletic teams to show their support for Breast Cancer Awareness. The girls showed up to the game decked out in pink shirts with pink pom poms for the cause.

The cheerleading team yells loudly for the football team and fans.

Several girls give the rookie cheer "girls" some pointers on the fine art of cheerleading!

Cassie McKeown yells to pump up the crowd.

Cheerleading is about more than hard work and practice. It's also about...

"...everyone being a team and doing things together outside of practice and football games. We bond a lot and build relationships that last through high school."

- Grace Wilder, 11

"...dedication and having the right mind set to accomplish goals."

- Marion Walker Coleman, 11
