

Camo Day! Mrs. Berry's entire third grade class participates in Camo Day during this year's Spirit Week. It may appear there are only six students in this picture, but if you look closely there are actually seven.

Sing it! Caitlyn sings joyfully in the Sandlapper music program. Third graders study South Carolina history each year, and it has become a tradition to perform sandlapper songs to support learning.

Reading is Fun! Roman Hawkins smiles after reading a great book! The library has recently become a favorite place for students to study, read, and enjoy the media center.

Hola! The third and fourth grade students learn Spanish from Coach Dickerson during the second semester. It is never too early to learn a foreign language, especially when the teacher makes it fun to learn.

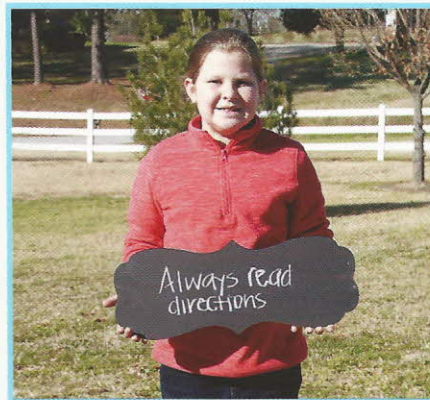

We are Family! Charlie, Mrs. Berry, and Alivia share more than the third grade classroom. These three each have a family connection to the Jonathan Berry family.

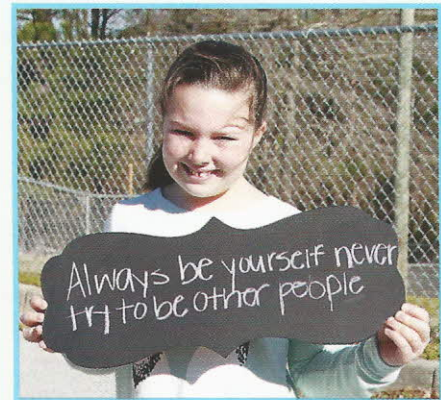

The best advice Mrs. Berry gave me was...
