
Advertisements

Man's most precious possession is a good name. He finds his fellow man's confidence in him a reward for his continuing efforts to retain control of this irreplaceable asset.