

E

is for Each new day . . . that brings fresh and cherished experiences for every one of us, to store away and later recall as dear memories . . . each day - which Seniors face with mixed emotions, . . . anticipation and excitement that come with visions of the future, . . . and sadness, when each day takes them nearer the day when they must leave these traveled halls and make a life in the world.

N

is for Numerous classes . . . that are the essence of a school . . . where we each should strive to learn more, . . . to develop our minds in order that some knowledge might take root and prepare us for the future . . . so that we may have some inkling of life as it should be lived . . . and we may remember to treat our fellow men as brothers.

