

CLASS LAWYERS: Carolyn Beam and Steve Beckham.

POET: Jane Dinkins.

HISTORIANS: Miriam Lyles and David Martin.

CLASS PROPHETS: Tommy Sprott and Glen Taylor.

Last Will And Testament

We, the class of 1963 of Winnsboro High School, being above average in mental ability and strongest of the strong, this twenty-fourth day of nineteen hundred sixty-three, do hereby declare this to be our Last Will and Testament.

To our beloved faculty we give all the amazing knowledge and startling information we have furnished them from time to time in our various examination papers.

We leave all the unfortunate Juniors to the mercy of the faculty, who have been so determined to get us out of school.

To the sophomores we leave our neatness, brains, and cheerfulness, with the hope that they will have as much fun together as we did.

We leave our books (what's left of them) and our eagerness to study to the freshmen. We hope you get better grades for all your work than we did.

To the sub-freshmen we bequeath our good looks and wonderful personality. May you use them to the best of your ability as we have.

Barbara Sikes leaves the Student Body Presidency to Oliver Johnson.

Randy Perry leaves her love for one boy to Sally Martin in hopes Sally does as well as she did.

Larry Cail leaves his ability to out talk Mr. Gladden to Donald Smith and Jennings Crouch.

To Jayne Stevenson, Leola Driggers bequeaths her shortness.

Jeannie Dove leaves the annual and all the fun of working to meet deadlines to Anne Henderson.

Bobby Curlee bequeaths his "perfect" no-detention hall record to Thomas Broome.

Janice Johns leaves her corner at the break to Alex Boulware, and also, Patsy Short.

Esther Jennings and Jenny Cathcart joyously leave the headaches caused from the problems involved with the Senior invitations and caps and gowns to the future secretary and treasurer of the 1964 Senior Class. Good luck! You'll need it.

Jake Stone is given an open invitation to parties by Nick Propst, since he never goes!

Rusha Moseley bequeaths her cheering ability to Vicki Boulware.

Mary Sue Clowney wills her typing eraser to Mary Burley in hopes that she won't erase as many holes in the paper as she did.

Susie Bundrick leaves her athletic ability to Shirley Bennett in hopes that Shirley will fill her shoes.

Louis Fuller, Kenneth McLendon, and Ray Peake leave their quiet reserved manner to David Cooper, Harry Jeter, and Bill Wilkes. Let's hope they take the hint!

Gail Smith and Carolyn Freeman leave their talkativeness to none other than Judy Sims and Judy Wilkes, respectively.

Larry Godwin wills his ability to "make" touchdowns to "Monk" Price. We hope that "Monk" carries the job out better than Larry did.

Judy Martin leaves her car as a means of transporting seniors home every afternoon to Sandy Strange and Johnnie Glisson.

Patsy Mathis bequeaths her back seat in English class to Brenda Rabon.

Billy Haslett bequeaths the center position of the basketball team to Wade Macfie.

Teresa Cole leaves her moody ways to Nancy Blair.