Marian Sewell Ketchin - 1907-1986

"Mehitabel"

To a generation of readers of The News and Herald, she was "Mehitabel", and her weekly columns chronicled the comings and goings of Fairfieldians of all ages. Her writing style, which harkened back to another era, was always gentle, and to Mehitabel everyone was clever, charming, and attractive. Her pen had no poison, her "Chitchat" no bite; she found the "something good in everyone", and remarked upon it.

She was a gentlewoman, warm, witty, and charming, and many were the friends drawn to her from diverse walks of life by her genuine interest in others. Marian Sewell Ketchin had that rare gift of listening and hearing what others had to say.

She was an accomplished musician who shared her talents with those she taught, and at church. In recent years, cataracts hindered her eyesight, but she kept herself abreast of current events, and remained an interesting conversationalist.

Marian Sewell Ketchin leaves a legacy of kindness, warmth, and a deep, abiding interest in the welfare of others. She will be missed.

In Memory of...

The 5:30 morning sky had never been more brilliant with stars as I walked out to get the paper Thursday morning. "This is the day the Lord hath made," my heart sang as I drank in the beauty. "Oh, Father," I whispered reverently, "the heavens declare the glory of God..." and then "...my beautiful Marian can no longer gaze upon this beauty of Your creation, not from this angle, but from her vantage seat in Heaven, the view this morning must be spectacular!"

You see, she had gone Home just the afternoon before. "Thank You, my Father, for this wonderful friend with whom I have shared many happy, delightful moments," my prayer of thanksgiving continued, "and for the many ways her life touched others. Thank You that she knew of my love - I shall not be sending flowers - I gave mine to her, a few here, a few there, along the way. My beautiful Marian was one of the extra treasures of my life, and I thank You for sharing her with us all. Father, help us to remember all the beautiful things about her and not to dwell on the inevitable emptiness that is our as we bow to Your will in taking her back unto Yourself."

There is so much beauty in memories: the radiance of her personality; the bubbling enthusiasm for everything and everyone ("Oooh, Dottie, I love it - I just love it!") - her appreciation of theatre and the arts; her special knack of making one feel that he was the most important person in the world, whether that person were on the highest rung of the social ladder or nowhere near the foot of the ladder ("she's brightened my day many a time with a visit or just a phone call!") - her incomparable style of journalism ("Mehitabel") - above all, the depth of her Christianity.

Music - ah, that vital part of her - and the love of it will continue in the lives of those whom she taught, and of those who were moved by the beauty of her talented performances.

There is so much to remember about her, and at her memorial service, as friends and relatives surrounded her resting place beside her beloved Mac, her minister turned our thoughts in the same direction: "I am remembering," his eulogy began, and he recalled the many facets of her life which were truly beautiful.

Yes, I am remembering Marian Sewell Ketchin. You are, too, aren't you?

Who knows? Perhaps one of those early morning stars was reflecting the very radiance of her earthly sojourn among us, assuring us that her love and influence would go on and on...and on...
