Q-217 (1) ARNETT. Am compiling a History of the descendants of VALENTINE ARNETT, who came from Dublin, Ireland. He enlisted in Dorchester County, Maryland, 8 August 1776 and later is found in the Census Report of Salisbury, District of Guilford county, North Carolina. His wife's name was Sarah. She was a Methodist but at least two of her sons were Quaker Ministers.

The Arnetts are of Huguenot descent and the name was originally spelled ARNAULT and pronounced ARNO.

Valentine Arnett or his father are supposed to have been in Napoleons Army. He had either 9 sons or 11 sons and one daughter as follows:

1. Asbury Arnett - Born Dublin, Ireland, Died Howard County, Indiana, also lived in Green County, Ohio.
2. Edward Arnett - Born: between 1780-1790, married Winny Frit Jacobs, 19 April 1815, in Guilford County, North Carolina. Moved to Green County Ohio about 1830 and probably went to Indiana later.
3. Thomas Arnett - Minister in Friends Church in Green Co., Ohio. born between 1790-1800. Married 1st: Mary A. Tappet. Married 2nd: Rachel _____
4. Polly Arnett - The daughter was probably Polly Arnett who married Joseph Cummons, 15 May 1810 in Guilford County, North Carolina.
5. Charles Arnett - Born about 1891 in North Carolina, moved to Green County, Ohio, married 16 Oct 1828 to Susanna Graham.
6. Willis Arnett - Married 1st: in 1821, Elizabeth _____, moved to Wayne County, Indiana. He was a Quaker. Married 2nd, in 1829 Nancy Acott.
7. Jesse Arnett - Minister in Friends Church. Born: 1 June 1796 Stokes County, NC, Died: 13 May 1876 Wayne County, Indiana. Married: Margaret Williams, 10 Sep 1817, in Stokes co., North Carolina
8. John Arnett -(no data given)
9. Valentine Arnett
10. Seth Arnett - of Green County, Ohio, by 1830
11. Alex Arnett - of Green County, Ohio, by 1830
12. David Arnett -

I am not certain that the last three are sons of Valentine Arnett but believe they are. Am anxious to hear from descendants of any of these or any of the Arnett name as I will include any notes on Arnett's in my book, whether descended from Valentine and Sarah Arnett or not.

"I was in New Bern, N.C. and in Raleigh, N. C., several months ago.

Silas White Arnett - died May - June 1806, intestate. Administrators were Frederick Nash and Henry M. Cooke.

Silas Arnett was married twice: Susanna Davis and to Elizabeth Lechmere. I could find no indication of any children.

The birth date of your JESSE ARNETT would fit in with the second marriage which took place in 1793 (marriage bond dated Sept. 23, 1793).

Note that Silas Arnett had two missing brothers: Shelley Arnett and Isaac Arnett, according to the will of the father: Isaac Arnett (NJA 39:15).

"It seems to me that Elizabeth Latchmore would be your ancestress since she was married to SILAS W. ARNETT in 1793, and evidently Susanna Davis, the first wife, died prior to this time, if this is the same SWA - Silas W. Arnett (which I feel sure it is).

"There is no will for Silas W. Arnett but a full inventory and Account of sales and I have had these xeroxed. I think you can gain many clues from these. Also I have some notes to type for you too. SWA died about 1806.

...skipped some of letter which only mentioned cost of documents ...

In 1775, a Capt Johnson came in his oyster boat and was not allowed to unload. James Arnett advised Capt. Johnson to get redress from Johnathon Hampton to sell his oysters.

In 1699 James Arnett was one of the "Associates of the Town."

James Arnett had s son, Isaac Arnett.

Isaac Arnett married Hannah White or Hannah Thurston.

One of their daughters, Hannah, (a sister was Mrs. Shepherd Killock) married Rev. Ropbert Hett Chapman.

While Rev. Chapman was at the First Presbyterian Church, Isaac Arnett was elected along with 16 others to remain on Sunday to keep Silence and Christian Discipline in the Church. Rev. Chapman served from 1762 - 1782.

Isaac Arnett was an elder in the Church 1774, and a Trustee in 1784.

Anthony Collins - The period was noted for scepticism. He was one of the Apostles of Deism. This had wide circulation and was very popular and fashionable. Men gloried in "Religion of Nature and decried Holy Scriptures, the Church and the Christian. Reason was deified and the Church Detroned. This was in 1735.

Letter dated December 1975, from: Mrs. Joseph A. Fitzsimmons,
1408A Troy Towers, Bloomfield, N. J. 07003

Letter is in response to Worth Arnett's query in newspaper, Newark Star Ledger for info on Lester L. McDowell. Mrs. Fitzsimmons sends an article and mentions Lester's father is Ezra O. McDowell, who is in his 90's and not too alert.

Newark Star Ledger, dated 19 Nov 1975

Lester L. McDowell, Naval Reserve Captain

Service for Lester L. McDowell, 60, of Chatham, a retired naval reserve captain will be held at 1:30 pm tomorrow in the Stanley Congregational Church, Chatham. He died Monday in the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md, on 17 Nov 1975.

Surviving are his wife, Janet; two daughters, Mrs. Heather Thrasher and Miss Sheila; his father, Ezra O.; a brother, H. Woodward; a sister, Mrs. Jane Constantinides, and a granddaughter.

From Mrs. Fitzsimmons on 30 Dec 1975: following article on Hannah Arnett.

HANNAH ARNETT and DESCENDANTS

Hannah White Arnett was a courageous woman of Elizabethtown, New Jersey, who by her faith in God and the American cause, inspired her husband and her neighbors, when they had about decided to give up, to continue their struggle for independence.

Hannah W. Arnett is buried near Old First Church, Elizabeth.

Born: 1732?, died 1823.

She had a daughter, Susan, who married Shepard Kollock.

She had a son, William Arnett, Supt. of Quarantine Station, Staten Island. He died of Yellow Fever in 1824.

Mrs. Helen B. Rice, a direct descendant of Hannah Arnett, became a member of Hannah Arnett Chapter, DAR in 1915.

Eulalie McDowell Cook, (Mrs. H. R. Cook), dau of W. O. McDowell, was accepted by DAR, April 4, 1905, National DAR No. 51408. Was transferred to Hannah Arnett Chapter, Feb. 10, 1921. Resigned Dec. 1931.

Jane Graham Ridley, 3rd gr. granddaughter of Hannah Arnett, and Susan Ridley, in 1930 unveiled a tablet placed by Boudinet Chapter, DAR, to Hannah Arnett on the site of the Arnett Homestead, now the Elizabeth-Carteret Hotel.

In the Red Bank Register (07701) of Jan. 1944, Mrs. Gertrude Hurd Harrison of Little Silver, placed an account of Hannah Arnett dictated by Shepard Kollock, gr grandson of Hannah Arnett, to his youngest daughter, Anna Arnett Kollock, who lived with Mrs. Harrison, a granddaughter of Mr. Kollock. (Per Mrs. Fitzsimmons: I have this and another newspaper record of Hannah Arnett - 3 pages)

The story of Hannah Arnett appeared in Washington Post, July 13, 1890 - 5 pages. (I have this, Mrs. Fitzsimmons). See also IN-Washington, the DAR Story, a pamphlet which contains the story of Hannah Arnett, in connection with the formation of DAR.

Hannah Arnett, A Patriotic Woman of Elizabeth, New Jersey, - by Rev. William Force Whitaker, Elizabeth, New Jersey, - 4 pages. (I have this, Mrs. Fitzsimmons).

Orange Chronicle, 20 Oct 1913 - contains a paragraph on the formation of Hannah Arnett Chapter. (I have this, Mrs. Fitzsimmons.)

HANNA ARNETT CHAPTER, D. A. R., East Orange, New Jersey.

Chapter No. 36

History of the Chapter Names of the New Jersey State Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, by Mary Wendell Wagner, State Historian.

Published 1957

The Hannah Arnett Chapter was organized by Mrs. ^{FRANK} W. Hopkins on June 24, 1913. The Chapter honors a truly inspired heroine, HANNAH ARNETT, of Elizabeth, New Jersey. Her courage and patriotic words at the propitious moment may well have been a turning point for good in the American Revolution. Hannah Arnett, a frail and gentle woman, was the wife of ISAAC ARNETT. During the early days of the War, affairs of the Colonists were in a sad state. New York was abandoned by them; Washington was in retreat and there were many desertions from the Army. In November 1776, a proclamation was issued from the British Commander stating that full pardon would be granted to all persons who were in arms against the King, if they would disband and not take up arms or encourage others to do so. The offer had been accepted by many at Perth Amboy and other places. The next month a great number of men of Elizabethtown met in the home of Isaac Arnett. The matter was discussed pro and con and after many hours of earnest conversation, a vote was taken. They had resolved to yield to the overtures of General Howe.

It was then that Hannah Arnett, learning of the decision, rushed into the room and with her blue eyes flashing, delivered her ultimatum. She exclaimed, "You have forgotten one thing which England has not, and which we have. That one thing outweighs all England's treasures. That one thing is RIGHT. God is on our side. Every volley of our muskets is but the echo of HIS voice. We are few and poor and weak; but our GOD is mighty. We entered this struggle with pure hearts and prayerful lips. We counted the cost; We should be willing to pay the price even if this is our last heart's blood. Now, because the day is going against us, would you give up and sneak back like cravens to kiss the feet that have trampled upon us? You call yourselves men, Ye sons of those who once gave up home and fortune and fatherland to make for liberty a resting place in the wilderness. Shame upon you for being so cowardly.

"As for me, I will stand with my country. I married a good man and true. Isaac Arnett, we have lived together for twenty years, and I have been faithful. But if you take the protection of the British, you lose your wife. And I, I lose my husband and my home."

The men were greatly moved by this powerful appeal which was made so pathetically. Before they left, they had agreed to stand by their country at all cost. General Washington repeatedly praised the people of Elizabethtown for their bravery and patriotism which was due in no small measure to the courageous little patriot, HANNAH WHITE ARNETT.**

HANNAH ARNETT'S FAITH

Centennial Story

1776 - 1876

The days were at their darkest and the hearts of our grandfathers were weighted down with doubt and despondency. Defeat had followed defeat for the American troops, until the army had become demoralized and discouragement had well-nigh become despair.

Lord Cornwallis after his victory at Fort Lee, had marched his army to Elizabethtown (Dec. 1776) where they were now encamped. On the 30th of November the brothers, Howe, had issued their celebrated proclamation, which offered protection to all who within sixty days should declare themselves peaceable British subjects and bind themselves neither to take up arms against their Sovereign, nor encourage others to do so. It was to discuss the advisability of accepting this offered protection that a group of men had met in one of the large old houses of which Elizabethtown was, at that time, full.

We are apt to think of those old times as days of unmitigated loyalty and courage; of our ancestors as unfaltering heroes, swerving never in the darkest hours from the narrow and thorny path which conscience bade them tread. Yet human nature is human nature in all ages, and if at times the "old fashioned fire" burned low even in manly hearts and profound discouragement palsied for a time the most ardent courage, what are we that we should wonder at or condemn them.

Of this period Dr. Ashbell Green wrote:

"I heard a man of some shrewdness once say that when the British troops over-ran the State of New Jersey, in the closing part of the year 1776, the whole population could have been bought for eighteenpence a head."

The debate was long and grave, some were for accepting the offered terms at once; others hung back a little, but all had at length agreed that it was the only thing to be done. Hope, courage, loyalty, faith, honor, - all seemed swept away upon the great flood of panic which had overspread the land.

There was one listener, however, of whom the eager disputants were ignorant, one to whose heart their wise reasoning was very far from carrying conviction. Mrs. Arnett, the wife of the host, was in the next room and the sound of the debate reached her where she sat.

She had listened in silence, until, carried away by her feelings, she could bear no more and springing to her feet she pushed open the parlor door and confronted the assembled group.

Can you fancy the scene? A large low room with the dark heavily carved furniture of the period, dimly lighted by the tall wax candles and the wood fires which blazed in the high fireplace. Around the table, the group of men, pallid, gloomy, dejected, disheartened.

In the doorway the figure of the woman in the antique costume with which in those latter days, we have become so familiar. Can you not fancy the proud poise of her head, the indignant light of her blue eyes, the crisp, clear tones of her voice, the majesty and defiance and scorn.

"Can you not tell me?", she said, in the same strangely quiet voice.

"If, after all, God does not let the right perish," - "if America should win in the conflict, after you have thrown yourself upon British clemency, where will you be then?"

"Then", spoke on hesitating voice, "why, then, if it ever could be, we should be ruined. We must leave the country forever. But it is absurd to think of such a thing. The struggle is an utterly hopeless one. We have no men, no money, no arms, no food, and England has everything."

"No," said Mrs. Arnett, "you have forgotten one thing which England has not got, and which we have - one thing which outweighs all England's treasurers and that is: right. God is on our side and every volley from our muskets is an echo of His voice. We are poor and weak and few; but God is fighting for us."

"We entered into this struggle with pure hearts and prayerful lips. We had counted the cost and were willing to pay the price, were it our heart's flood."

"And now, now, because for a time the day is going against us, you would give up all and sneak back, like cravens to kiss the feet that have trampled upon us! And you call yourselves men, the sons of those who gave up home and fortune and Fatherland to make for themselves and for dear liberty a resting place in the wilderness, America."

"Oh, shame upon you cowards!"

Her words had rushed out in a fiery flood which her husband had vainly striven to check. Don't know how Mrs. Arnett looked, but fancy her a little fair woman, with kindly blue eyes and delicate features, a tender and loving little soul, whose scornful, blazing words must have seemed to her amazed hearers like the inspired fury of a pythoness.

"Gentlemen", said good Mr. Arnett, uneasily, "I beg you to excuse this most unseemly interruption to our council. My wife is beside herself, I think. You all know her and know that it is not her wont to meddle with politics, or to brawl and bluster. Tomorrow she will see her folly, but not I pray, your patience."

Already her words had begun to stir the slumbering manhood in the bosoms of those who heard her.

"Take your protection, if you will," she went on. "Proclaim yourselves traitors and cowards, false to your country and your God, but horrible will be the judgement you will bring upon your heads and the heads of those that love you."

"I tell you that England will never conquer. I know it and feel it in every fibre of my heart. Has God led us so far, to desert us now? Will He, who led our fathers across the stormy winter sea, forsake their children who have put their trust in Him?"

"For me, I stay with my country and my hand shall never touch the hand, nor my heart cleave to the heart of him who shames her, my country."

"Isaac Arnett, we have lived together for twenty years and for all of them, I have been a true and loving wife to you."

"But I am the child of God and of my country and if you do this shameful thing, I will never again own you for my husband."

"My dear wife!", cried the husband, "you do not know what you are saying. Leave me, for such a thing as this?"

"For such a thing as this!". What greater cause could there be?" "I married a good man and true, a faithful friend and a loyal Christian gentleman, and it needs no divorce to sever me from a traitor and a coward. If you take your protection (the British), you lose your wife, and I, I lose my husband and my home," said Hannah Arnett.

. . .The words of the little woman went straight to each heart of the Council. Gradually the drooping heads were raised and the eyes grew bright with manliness and resolution. . Before they left the Arnett House that night, they had sworn a solemn oath to stand by the cause they had adopted and the land of their birth, through good and evil, and to spurn the offers of their tyrants and foes as the deadliest insults.

Some of the names of those who met in that secret council were known afterwards to be among those who fought their country's battles most nobly, who died upon the field of honor, or rejoiced with pure hearts when the day of triumph came at last.

The name of the little woman figured on no heroic roll, but was she the less of a heroine?

This story is a true one, and in the Centennial year, when every crumb of information is regard to those old days of struggle and heroism is egerly gathered up, it may not be without interest.

The Blanchard Family of Elizabeth, New Jersey
Contributed by J. Crawford Hartman, Assistant Librarian

1. John (Jean, Jan)¹ Blanchardd, the progenitor of this family, first appears in the Records in Ulster County, New York, when he was a witness, at the Dutch Church in Kingston, Oct 2, 1687, at the baptism of Anna David, caughter of Jan David and Esther Vincent. The oother witness was Anne Valleau. The entry is followed by the notation: "These are French people."
(KgB:528.)

Anne Valleau was possibly connected with the parents, but there is nothing to indicate that she was in any wise related to Blanchard. She was born on the Isle de Re, France, May 7, 1673, daughter of Charles Valleau and his wife, Anne Brigand. She came to America with her father's half-brothers, Esaie and Etienne Valleau, and was married in the French Church, New York, Aug. 24, 1692, to Eli Chardavoine, "de Saujon en-Saintonge." Their first child, Etienne Chardavoine, was baptized in the Dutch Church in Kingstone, Nov. 16, 1694. (Pierre Fauconnier and his Descendants, 1911, pp.225 & 232; KGB:8827)

We do not know when or where John Blanchard was born nor the date of his arrival in the New world. That he was married at this time or shortly after is attested by the second reference to him, again in the Kingston Church records, where on Apr 7, 1689, his own child, Anna Blanchard, was baptized. The witnesses were the parents and Marie Mahoult. Again the record appends: "French Reformed." (KgB:624)

Marie Mahoult, was probably a sister of John Blanchard's wife, Anna Mahoult, and of Etienne Mahoult, both natives of La Rochelle, France. Etienne settled for some years on the island of St. Christopher in the West Indies but later came to Staten Island where he died in 1703. He married Sarah Michel and had a daughter, Marie Mahoult, baptized in the French Church, New York, Apr. 16, 1701. The elder Marie Mahoult was married there, June 16, 1697, to Jean Vergereau, "natif de Benon en Aunis," and among the witnesses was her brother, Etienne. (Baird's Hug. Emig. to Amer.v.I, pp.294 & 302; Hug:var.pag.)

John Blanchard's name appears with about 150 other male inhabitants on a list "of them that have taken The Oath of Allegiance in Ye County of Ulstr, by Ordr of his Excely:ye Governor: ye ffirst Day of Septembr Anno Qe: Domini 1689—" (DHNY:1 - 281.) This act occurred upon the succession of William and Mary to the english throne.

On June 30 1695, he married (2nd) by license, in the Dutch Church, New York, Jeanne Gauthier, young woman of that place. It is stated that he was the widower of Anna Mahoult and a merchant of Newcastle (Delaware.)

She was dau of Jacques Gauthier, member of Huguenot family formerly of St. Blanchard in Province of Languedoc, France.

. . John Blanchard and Jeanne Gauthier had daughter, Jeanne Blanchard, born Jan 20, 1697, soon after which Jeanne Gauthier Blanchard died. Within year, John Blanchard married (3rd) on Oct 27, 1697 to Susanne Rezeau, dau of Rene & Anne Coursier Rezeau of Statten Island.

Rene Rezeau, of the Isle de Re, fled with family after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes to America. Came to New York . . . daughter, Esther, baptised in the Franch Church in Jan. 1689.

By 1700, John Blanchard . . . moved to Elizabethtown (now Elizabeth), New York, established mercantile business, remained there till his death in April 1730. His Will dated Apr 6 _____, Adinistration was granted to son, John and Andrew Joline.

His wife, Susanne, probably died some years before as she is not mentioned in his will. Mentions grandchildren:

Document: The Name and Family of Arnett or Arnott

Compiled by: The Media Research Bureau
Washington, DC

The name of ARNETT or ARNOTT is in some cases an early corruption of the baptismal name of ARNOLD. In other cases it is believed to be of Saxon or Teutonic origin and to mean "Little Eagle". The Saxon arn or ern means "eagle", while the suffix ending "et" or "ot" signifies "little".

The Scottish family of the name, according to certain historieans, adopted its surname from residence at ARNOT TOWER, in Perthshire, Scotland. Here the name is thought to have been derived from the words "ard" and "onoc" (this could be "cnoc", hard to read. CWA 1987), meaning "high hill".

Found in early times in Scotland, England, Germany, and France, the name is variously spelled: ARNUT, ARNUTT, ARNOT, ARNOTE, ARNAT, ARNATT, ARNIT, ARNET, ARNOTT and ARNETT. Of these, the last two are the forms most often in evidence in modern times, while several of the others occasionally appear.

In England the earliest seats of the family were the Counties of Cambridge and Oxford. While in Scotland the family was early seated in the Counties of Ayr, Perth, Forfar, and Fife. Generally speaking, these lines were of the landed and educated classes.

The earliest known progenitor of the family in Scotland was JOHN de ARNOT, who was living in the year 1105 AD.

The next in this line was MALCOLM de ARNOT, who was living in 1120 AD and was the Father of three sons: Sir Peter Arnot, William Arnot and another who became Abbot of Kelso in 1160.

Also of this family were MICHAEL de ARNOT of the year 1160, and DAVID ARNOT of Fifeshire, in 1206.

As early as the year 1240 MALCOLM de ARNOT was living in Fifeshire, Scotland, and it is thought probable that he was the father of SIR HENRY ARNOT and MICHAEL ARNOT.

Of these, Sir HENRY ARNOT, was father of NICOL ARNOT or ARNET, who served under King Robert Bruce in 1320. While MICHAEL ARNOT may have been the father of that MICHAEL ARNOT who married a sister of Duncan, Earl of Fife.

ALEXANDER ARNOT, probably a brother of the last-mentioned Michael Arnot, was present at the coronation of Edward Baliol in the year 1332.

Early records of the family in Scotland also include those of:

MASTER ANDREW ARNOT, in 1321;

FRIAR ARCHIBALD ARNOT, minister of Scotlandwell, in 1321;

WILLIAM ARNOT, in 1324

MICHAEL ARNOT, Laird of Arnot, in Fife, who was succeeded before 1388 by his son, DAVID ARNOT, who was the father of Sir HENRY ARNOT.

Sir HENRY ARNOT had three sons:

WILLIAM ARNOT

JOHN ARNOT

JAMES ARNOT

Of these, JAMES ARNOT married an heiress of Brocoli, and was the grandfather of JOHN ARNOT, of Colbrandspath, who was the father of WILLIAM ARNOT, who had issue by his wife, Marion Wallace, a son: Sir JOHN ARNOT, of Berswick.

WILLIAM ARNOT, of Arnot, eldest son of Sir HENRY ARNOT, before mentioned, had two sons: RICHARD ARNOT and JOHN ARNOT.

JOHN ARNOT, son of William Arnot, married Marjory, daughter of John Boswell, and had issue by her of twin sons:

JOHN ARNOT and WALTER ARNOT, as well as several daughters: FLORENCE ARNOT, BESSIE ARNOT, & HELEN ARNOT.

Of the sons, WALTER ARNOT, left only female issue, while JOHN ARNOT, Laird of Arnot, married Catherine Melville, daughter of the Laird of Carnbee. To this union was born a daughter named GILES ARNOT and 18 sons including:

JOHN ARNOT, DAVID ARNOT, ROBERT ARNOT, MALCOLM ARNOT & HENRY ARNOT or ARNOTT.

Of the last mentioned brothers, JOHN ARNOT married Euphemia Scott, daughter of the Laird of Balweary, and had issue by her of WALTER ARNOT, DAVID ARNOT, JAMES ARNOT, and another son who was the progenitor of the ARNOTS of Pitmeddan.

WALTER ARNOT, eldest son and successor of JOHN AND EUPHEMIA ARNOT, built the South Tower of the Place of ARNOT in the year 1520. Sometime before 1508 he married Elizabeth Duddingstone, daughter of the Laird of Sanford. Their sons were DAVID ARNOT, ARCHIBALD ARNOT & GEORGE ARNOT. Of these, DAVID ARNOT married Janet Bruce, daughter of the Laird of Earlishall, and was the father by her of seven children:

DAVID ARNOT, ANDREW ARNOT, WALTER ANOT, ROBERT ARNOT, JANET ARNOT, ELIZABETH ARNOT AND HELEN ARNOT.

DAVID ARNOT, eldest of the sones, married Catherine Forrester, who gave him three sons: DAVID ARNOT, WALTER ARNOT, AND GOERGE ARNOT, of whom the first died unmarried and was succeeded by the second son, WALTER ARNOT. This WALTER ARNOT left issue by his wife, Mary, (daughter of Sir James Balfour) of JAMES ARNOT, MICHAEL ARNOT, WALTER ARNOT, and others. Of these, JAMES ARNOT, died without issue and was succeeded by his next younger brother, who was created a Baronet by King Charles I in 1629. Sir MICHAEL ARNOT married Ann Broun, by whom he had, among other children, a son named CHARLES ARNOT.

ROBERT ARNOTT, the third son of the before-mentioned JOHN & CATHERINE (nee Melville) ARNOTT, of Fifeshire, acquired the lands of Woodmylne, Scotland, about the year 1509. By his wife, Janet Balvaird, he was the father of two sons, ROBERT ARNOTT & PETER ARNOTT. Of these, PETER ARNOTT was the progenitor of the family of the name at Balcormo, Scotland; while ROBERT ARNOTT, left issue at Woodmylne, Scotland, by his wife, Elizabeth Balcomy: JOHN ARNOTT, ANDREW ARNOTT & ELIZABETH ARNOTT.

JOHN ARNOTT, the elder of the two sons of ROBERT ARNOTT, died before his father, leaving a son named JOHN ARNOTT, who married Christian Fairnie, daughter of Andrew Fairnie, of that ilk, and had issue by her of a son named: JOHN ARNOTT.

Another branch of the family in Scotland was represented in 1417 by JOHN de ARNOT, of Lochrig, County Ayr. He is believed to have been the father of EDWARD ARNOT, the father of ANDREW ARNOT, who was succeeded by HENRY ARNOTT, father of another ANDREW ARNOTT.

The last was the father of ROBERT ARNOT, of Lochrig, who was the father of a son named ANDREW ARNOT, who married Elizabeth Crawford and had issue by her of two sons: ANDREW ARNOT & DAVID ARNOT. Of these, ANDREW ARNOT had a son named ALEXANDER ARNOT, who married Janet Ross and died about 1623, leaving three children:

ALEXANDER ARNOT, JOHN ARNOT & ELIZABETH ARNOT.

ALEXANDER ARNOT, the elder of the last-mentioned brothers, married Jean Sempill about 1639 and left issue by her of at least one son, also named ALEXANDER ARNOT, who married JANE ARNOT, of the elder Fifeshire line.

To this union were born: ALEXANDER ARNOT, JAMES ARNOT & ANNA ARNOT.

The earliest definite records of the name in England are those of: LECIA ARNET, MILISENT ARNET, & JOHN ARNET, who wereliving in the County of Cambridge about the year 1273; and "ARNET le MERCER", of Oxfordshire, in the same year. Under a later date record is to be found in London of CHARLES ARNETT, who married Mary Newton.

Families of the name did not come to America until comparatively recent times. Probably the first line to be established here was that settled in Virginia about the middle of the eighteenth Century.

The records of the family in the South are not complete, but mention has been found of JAMES ARNOTT, of County Norfolk, Va., whose daughter ELIZABETH ARNOTT was married in 1771 to William Donaldson.

The widow, MARY ARNOTT, of Norfolk, Va., who was married in 1771 to John Shaw;

WILLIAM ARNETT, who was granted about four hundred acres of land in Jefferson, Kentucky in 1781;

JOHN ARNETT, ROBERT ARNETT, PETER ARNETT, & DR. WILLIAM ARNETT (sometimes Arnett was given as Arnot), who settled in Screven County, Georgia, about the year 1788.

BERNARD ARNOTT, who was living in Albemarle county, Va., prior to the year 1789;

ZACHARIAH ARNETT, of Virginia, who was the father before the end of the 18th Century of a son named JAMES ARNETT, who removed to Bourbon County, Ky., before the year 1825;

SAMUEL ARNETT, of Bourbon County, Ky., before 1815, who may have been another son of the before-mentioned ZACHARIAH ARNETT of Virginia;

And the Reverend WILLIAM ARNETT, who died in Arkansas in 1822.

JOHN ARNOT, a native of Perthshire, Scotland, came to America about 1801, bringing with him his wife and several children. He settled near Albany, N. Y.

His son, JOHN ARNOT, JR., of Elmira, N.Y. was born in Scotland in 1793 and married Harriet Tuttle in 1823. The children of the younger JOHN ARNOT were: MARIANNE TUTTLE, AMELIA COVELL, STEPHEN TUTTLE, JOHN ARNOTT JR., MATTHIAS HALLENBACK, MARY FRANCES, AND PETER, of whom the last died young.

A level-headed race, the ARNETT'S & ARNOTT'S of America have been known for their industry, sound judgement, and thrift. They have in many cases achieved success in business and the professions.

Bearers of the name who served with the Revolutionary forces in the 18th Century, some of whom were probably original immigrants from the British Isles, include:

HENRY ARNAT (or Arnot), of Virginia
WILLIAM ARNETT, of Virginia
DAVID ARNETT, of Kentucky
JAMES ARNET, THOMAS ARNET, & WILLIAM ARNET (or Arnett), of Pennsylvania
JACOB ARNETT, JAMES ARNETT, & THOMAS ARNETT, (sometimes Arnutt), of Pennsylvania
SAMUEL ARNET, of New Jersey
Cornelius arnett, OF NEW YORK
Lieutenant ABRAHAM ARNOT, of New York

John, David, Henry, Michael, William, James, Robert, Andrew, Walter, Alexander, Charles, and George are some of the christian names preferred by the family for its male progeny.

Among those of the name who have been prominent in America in comparatively recent years were:

ROBERT S. ARNETT, (born 1816), of California, farmer and teacher.
NATHANIER DUBOIS ARNOT, (19th Century), of California, Superior Judge.
H. J. ARNETT, born 1848, of Georgia, preacher.
CAREY GEORGE ARNETT, latter 19th Century & early 20th Century, American Insurance President.
TREVOR ARNETT, born 1870, of England; Michigan, Ill., and New York, economist and author.
JOHN EDWARD ARNETT, born 1873, of Arkansas, farmer.
VERNAL GLENN ARNETTE, born 1885, of South Carolina, merchant.

The coat of arms of the British family of Arnett or Arnott is described in heraldic terms as follows:

(Burke, Encyclopaedia of Heraldry, 1844):

Arms: Gyronny of eight, sable and or, on a chief argent, a galley, the sails furled sable, flags gules.

Crest: On a tower proper, a flag displayed azure.
