

The Independent Voice

Blythewood & Fairfield County

Friday, February 1, 2013

Eye of the Beholder -

Courtesy/Blair School of Art

Internationally known artist and Fairfield County native Dru Blair with two examples of work taught in his classes at the Blair School of Art in Blair. At left, a portrait of a model named Tica. At right, a tiger from Blair's wildlife class. Blair will be speaking at Blythewood Artists Guild at 100 McNulty St. in Blythewood on Feb. 11 at 6:30 p.m. To learn more about how the Blair College of Art hopes to transform downtown Winnsboro, see page A2.

With Mill Village shaping up, Council sets sights on next target

James Denton
Editor

FAIRFIELD - Fairfield County is nearing the end of the first phase of enforcing their new

Standing before a map dotted with color-coded push pins, Dan Vismor, the consultant who helped the County put together the new rules, told Council that only 4 percent of the properties violators of the maintenance codes, Vismor said, with investment properties accounting for 17 violations during the first months of enforcement. Vis-