History Society to Unveil Markers To Distinguished Sons of Fairfield

The Historical Society will dedicate markers to the memory of two distinguished sons of Fairfield, Dr. James Henry Carlisle and Dr. William Porcher DuBose. Ceremonies will begin at Bethel Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon, June 12, at 4 p.m.

Taking part in the church ceremonies will be Walter W. Lewis, president of the Society, the Rev. H. Lester Kingman, the Rev. John Q. Crumbly, the Rt. Rev. John A. Pinckney, the Rev. Harry R. Mays, Bishop Paul Hardin, Jr., and the Rev. Frank L. Shannon. A program of sacred music will be given by the ARP church choir.

Immediately after these services, the Carlisle marker will be unveiled across the street at the Brice home. Taking part in the unveiling will be Robert M. Carlisle, III, of Spartanburg, and Miss Ellen Wallace Buchanan of Winnsboro, both descendants of the illustrious educator. Dedicatory remarks will be made by B. F. Hornsby, chairman of the Marker Committee.

The marker to the memory of Dr. William Porcher DuBose, eminent divine, will be unveiled by Miss Elizabeth Douglas of Winnsboro. Dedicatory remarks will be made by Dr. John C. Buchanan, Jr.

Following the unveilings, guests are invited to a reception at the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church. An invitation is also extended to everyone to visit the Fairfield County Historical Society Museum, located at Mount Zion Institute.

Many distinguished visitors will be present for the occasion and further details will be carried in subsequent editions of The News and Herald.

Mrs. A. K. Dill of Clinton, is spending sometime with her sisters, Mrs. Eloise Morris and Mrs. Rae S. Hall.
