Alexander Douglass, born 1759. Married Grace Brown of Ballymena, County Antrim, Ireland. Two children born before they set sail: Mary and John. They set sail in 1790. Because of stormy weather, it is said they were unable to land for a month, though near the port. They landed in December of 1790, and settled in the Jackson Creek Community.

Their children: John, born 1789; Mary, born 1788, died 1848; and William, a physician, who married a Miss Mobley.

Rev. Hiram Kennedy Douglass' ancestor was a James Douglass who settled in Tennessee. He believes James was on the same ship as the above Alexander, and perhaps they were related.

Mention is also made in his book of the original James Douglass' residence, son of the original Alexander above; who gave this property to our Thomas Goulding Douglass.

This seems more than a coincidence since the children of "our

It was common during these times to sell their land and buy into a-

The old "Stone Mance Presbyterian Church" is located six mile North of Winnsboro, S.C. on highway 34 (Newberry Highway) and approximately one mile West: or what is known to us at this writing is "behind Lemmon Turner's Store".

Preaching was held in this area at a Robertson home in 1780 until the church was built. The church was disbanded in 1892 for the new church which is now Lebonon Presbyterian Church.

This Stone Mance Cemetery is where the original Alexander Douglass is buried. His wife Grissell (Grace) is buried with him, also his son- Charles Brown Sr. who was the father of Thomas Goulding Douglass. Another son, James, is buried here- the uncle who gave Thomas G. the home place now occupied by Dr. John Douglass. Two children of Charles Brown Douglass are buried here, also Mary, who never married.

In the year 770, Solvathius, King of Scotland, obtained a victory over Donald Bain of the Western Isles, by the assistance of a man unknown to him. After the battle, being desirous to see one who had done him so signal a service, he was pointed out to him with these words: ".SHOLTO DHUGLASS " (behold that swathy man).

One of this family, Sir William Douglas, entered into the service of Charlemagne and was the founder of the family of Douglassi in Tuscany. Sir James de Douglas took the heart of Robert Bruce to the Holy Land, to commerate-what his descendants have ever since born- a crowned heart in their arms. Before 1329 the arms were azure, three mullets argent.

Dear 'Cousin' Douglas,

Are you familiar with the historic role the Douglasses have played in the Anglo-Saxon world? Have you ever wondered why you cannot conform in the currently 'conformist' world?

'Douglas of Dunsdroft' is spoken of in Edinburgh as having "spent a lifetime in the study of the Douglasses". He has discerned a QUALITY that continues in their household thought stemming from the first family of Douglas, which he speaks of as a "thought mould". As a child in Canada he was taught we originate from ONE family. Losing his father shortly after moving from Minnesota, it became his purpose to confirm that fact. He has since been recognized in Scotland and elected a "Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland".

His complete works on the Douglasses will not be ready for some time.* Meantime we can offer you:-

1. A concise booklet "THE EARLY DOUGLASSES and Their Scattered Progeny", an anthology of the Douglas history of 800 years in condensed form. (Historians can find no comparison except the musical Bach family in Germany who left a record of 300 years.) This booklet includes excerpts from the pen of men such as Burns, Scott and the historians Sir William Fraser and Sir Herbert Maxwell. Enclosed therein is a complete Family Chart dating from 1174 A.D. to the present day, taken from Scots Peerage as well as other recent authorities (plus Postage). $ 9.75 -
2. Subsidiary Charts designed to 'fit' into the above and their later generations. Some date back to being a son of "younger sons" shown in the above chart but not considered of importance in their time. $ 1.25 ea.
(a) A special chart of the intermarriages of the Douglasses with the Royal Household of Stewart with their resultant armorial bearings . . $ 2.00 -
3. A small illustrated catalogue of authentic Douglas Crests and Coats of Arms which can be ordered and moderately priced $ 2.00 -

Beginners in genealogy should feel free to write us for assistance in "placement" of their earliest known antecedent. Such request should include as much information as possible; postal address; shire; parish and especially the name of any property at some time in possession of your family. This is known in Scotland as "Territorial Designation" which is as important there as titles are in England.

My dear Douglas,

Your lovely letter of March 5th. reached us here, St. Louis, Mo. at our daughter's school and we make haste to reply. Your use of the word "True" surely places you in the category and in the understanding of what a "true Douglas" really means. From this revelation, we feel very assured you have appreciation of what we have tried to do in drawing together what has been said of us in the passed! We do thank you for that understanding - for we do get "crank" letters from such as whose names were slavie and unpronouncable and who have taken our name without knowledge and certainly without appreciation of what it does represent.

We have a few copies here and under separate cover we are mailing you the booklet of The Early Douglasses and Their Scattered Progeny. We owe you a refund to balance our accounts which we will delay in refunding for the following reasons - or until we hear from you.

Mailed
Mar 23
from
St. Louis

1. We shall be home in Canada at the end of May.
2. There we have most of our records and many many sub-charts. Meantime we don't know which family your "Alexander" MAY belong to to make an educated guess from which to 'work'. Thus there would be no point in sending you a sub-chart that would not apply.
3. The catalogue of crests and coats of arms were not produced by our printer in a manner satisfactory - but we have added some on the Royal Intermarriages shown as as 2a in our introductory letter.

The fact you refer to your "Alexander" as "escaping from Scotland" suggests he was "for the Prince". In other words, he was in rebellion of 1745. Woops! On second look, he wasn't born until 1758. In any event there are several things you could check out before we can find him in our Scottish Records. What boat did he come on? What port did he embark from? What did he name his eldest son? Did he marry Grissell Brown in Ireland and where there? (Almost all Irish records were burned in 1920 fires but many have been collected from England Australia, Canada etc. and are being arranged in Ireland - sketchy and incomplete but helpful. Have you checked the Library of Congress? It may be they have all the answers I am asking. I have the "Dictionary of Emigrant Scots to America (first issue) but only one Alexdr. and he was from Perthshire; embarked at Leith 9 May 1775; age 52. which was not your man we seek. More are being compiled by a friend of mine in Edinburgh - but it takes time, much time. To explain the questions I ask - in the Scottish tradition his eldest son would be named for the child's paternal grandfather - then we seek the grandfather having pushed back to that one generation - or at worst, a second name to seek out. Too, you should enquire of the S.C. Genealogical Society and the S.C. Historical Society. Did he give his home in the New World a name - or his farm. This could suggest a "place name" a "territorial designation" in his family often carried on as a tradition and indeed, is as important as a title was in England!

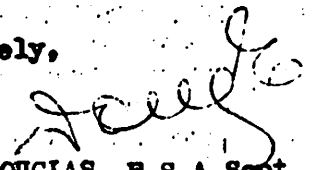

This is probably all I can do from here for you for now - but it is enough to keep you busy completing blank spots needed to pursue the quest. Or perhaps your file already reveals the needed information. The "place" of birth is very important i.e. the parish and shire in which he was born.

I just now checked another S.C. Douglas file to note he had a g.g.gruncle named Alexdr born in 1790 after landing in Wilmington area - so a good idea but the wrong answer for us now. OVER

You ask about the Douglas Foundation. Well, I wouldn't have you think it is BIG like the Ford Foundation. It isn't. It is just starting and has a better tax base where it is now situated. It is intended to be ONLY for the Douglases but Canadian law does not permit of Foundations being limited or restricted, whereas I have no intention of working for anyone else.

As you have noted, we would need further information before we can be of maximum help BUT, if for some reason we do not hear further from you for some unforeseeable reason, we will be sending your refund when school is out and the family home.

Sincerely,

EARL DOUGLAS, F.S.A.Scot.

o my wife prefers to refund now - lest we overlook later - also less bookkeeping.

HERALDIC BLAZON OF THE COAT OF ARMS OF THE DOUGLASS FAMILY

- SHIELD: Argent (Silver) a human heart proper (natural, color; i. e. red) crowned proper upon a chief azure (blue) three mullets (star shaped figures) of the first (silver)
- CREST: Upon a chapeau gules (red) turned ermine a salamander in flames proper (natural color)
- MOTTO: Jamais Arriere ("Never Behind")
- WAR CRY: A Douglass, A Douglass

EXPLANATION OF THE COAT OF ARMS OF
DOUGLASS FAMILY

Silver denotes purity, eloquence, virginity and innocence, while blue symbolizes truth, loyalty, honesty and happiness.

Red is the color of war, danger, courage and love of combat and adventure.

The chief (broad horizontal band across the top) is called an honorable ordinary, which simply means one of the honorable charges most ordinarily used. It is a mark of noble blood and knighthood.

A very interesting incident in history is connected with the red heart with the imperial crown upon the Douglas arms. When King Robert Bruce of Scotland lay dying in 1330 he called to him Lord James Douglass, his chief confident and best friend, although a much younger man. Knowing that the noble Lord was about to set out with all his followers on one of the Crusades to the Holy Land, he requested that, after his death, Lord Douglass take his heart and bury it near as possible to the purported tomb of Christ.

When Bruce had died Lord Douglass encased his heart in a sealed golden casket and set forth for Palestine. As he and his small army were crossing Southern France, he was told of an impending battle between the Christian French knights and the Moors who were coming up in conquering hords from Spain.

He, with his followers, joined the French knights and in the ensuing battle the Christian forces had begun to give away before the assaults of the enemy.

Seeing this, Douglass hurled the casket into the charging heathern host with the cry, "Follow the heart of Bruce, your King", charged the enemy. His followers turned and advanced with him and thus turned the tide of the losing battle. The heart of Bruce was lost but it had served a Christian and noble purpose and for his great deed Lord Douglass and Douglass sept were granted the heart of Bruce upon their escutcheon, ensigned and identified by the crown of Scotland.

The salamander was a mythological animal which was supposed to live in and off of flames. The idea was brought back to Britian by the returned Crusaders, as the Salamander had arisen in Graeco-Persian mythology and was, until then, known only in the East. Flames in heraldry, as a rule, are representative of war, feuding and fighting; hence the salamander symbolizes a family which is in almost constant state of armed conflict and figuratively "lives off of warfare".

It is said that the motto "Never Behind" or "Never in the Rear" is derived from a reply of the Earl of Douglass to Sir William Wallace just prior to the Battle of Bannochburn. It seems that the men of Clan Douglass had been assigned a place in the rear of the Scottish forces by Wallace. When "The Douglass" learned of this he rode up to Wallace and said: "Sir, the Douglasses shall never be in the rear." Accordingly they were assigned places in the front and almost decimated in the battle which followed.

The mantling or decorative matter around the shield has no especial shape. This is left to the taste and discretion of the artist. The only heraldic rule as to the mantle (also sometimes called a lambrequin) in British arms was that it must be in the livery colors of the shield; i. e. the two metals, furs, or colors first mentioned in the blazon.

The mantle takes its name from a cloak or mantle which the mounted knight wore suspended from his helmet. This was to protect him, encased as he was in metal, from the summer's hot sun rays or the winter's snows which would have fairly cooked or frozen him as the case might be. This mantle would become cut and slashed in combat and the knight was very proud of these rents. He usually had them patched in contrasting colors to make them more noticeable.

THE DOUGLAS FAMILY

There are two theories as to the origin of the name Douglass or Douglas. The first is that the sept is of Celtic origin and the name came from the Gaelic word "Doughlass", meaning "a dark or dour man." The second theory is that the family is of Norman origin, coming to Britian before the Norman conquest and settling in the Scottish Lowlands; according to this theory the name was D'Ouglaz, meaning in the ancient Norman French "of Ouglaz (a place in Normandy)". To this writer there seems no doubt but that the former hypothesis is correct.

The sept is one of the greatest in all Scotland and its history is almost the history of the country.

The family has held the following titles under both Scottish and British Kings:

Earls of Douglas	Earls of Atholl
Dukes of Douglas	Earls of Dumbarton
Marquisses of Queensberry	Earls of Moray
Earls of Mar	Earls of Forfar
Earls of Angus	Earls of Ormond
Dukes of Buccleugh	Viscounts Belhaven
Earls of Morton	Lords Mordingtoun
Earls of Selkirk	Barons Carlyle
Barons Glenbeanie	Dukes of Dover
Barons Roxburg	Barons Douglas of Ambresbury
Barons Kircudbright
Barons Kincardine
Lords of Galloway

and knighthoods too numerous to mention.

Castles and Family Seats of the Clan, Sept and Family were:

Springwood Park	Bridgefoord
Cars	Cavers
Castle Douglas (the greatest) in Scotland)	Gyrn
Glanbernie	Chilston House
Bealfoord	Clifton Hall
Borg	Dalkeith

After the Battle of Culloden, "the '45" (1745) many of the family (which had taken the side of Bonnie Prince Charlie Stuart, the Pretender to the British Throne) had to flee to Ireland for their lives. It was in this way the Irish branch of the family came into being. Some of these after a generation or two migrated to America where they entered through the ports of Philadelphia, Charleston, and Wilmington (North Carolina.) Others fled direct from Scotland to America, entering at an earlier date through the same ports.

The family has intermarried five times into Scottish and English royalty.

Archibald, 6th Earl Douglass, was long in revolt against King James V and captured and kept the king prisoner for three years.

The first written records of the sept are at Douglassdale, Lanarkshire, Scotland, and go back to 1199.

The sept burial ground is at Douglasskirk.

The first Earl of Douglass was created in 1353; He became also the first Earl of Mar.

The family has been noted both as a warlike and as a rebellious sept. Douglasses lie buried all over world, killed fighting for Britian.

Twelve heads of the Clan have been beheaded for rebellion against the British crown.

The present chief of the Clan is the 13th Duke of Hamilton, Alfred Douglass Douglass. There is a Clan Douglas Society with headquarters in Glasgow.

The Drysdale Family was also a member of this Clan.

T. J. Douglas, 84, Prepares for 60th Trip to State Fair

As the South Carolina State Fair opened this week for the 81st year, Thomas Jonathan Douglas, the 84-year-old patriarch of the New Hope section of Fairfield county, was preparing to attend for the 60th consecutive year. He has established an attendance record equaled by few, if any, citizens of the Palmetto commonwealth.

"AT 84, HIS 60th TRIP"

T. J. DOUGLAS

Mr. Douglas is pictured here in his wheel-chair as he celebrated his 84th birthday anniversary on September 17th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Douglas. Present for the happy occasion were 108 persons, including five children—H. E., T. J., and J. P. Douglas, Mrs. Irene D. Wilkes, Mrs. Marie D. Roseborough—28 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren. At noon, the birthday cake, bearing 84 candles, was placed on the table, the grandchildren sang "Happy Birthday," and a bountiful dinner was served.

Many friends called during the day to wish "Mr. Tom" many more happy returns.

"At 85, His 61st Trip?"

The children, grandchildren and friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Douglas on Sunday, Sept. 23, to celebrate the 85th birthday anniversary of Thomas J. Douglas. At noon a bountiful lunch was served and present to enjoy this happy occasion were approximately 175 persons.

William L. Rabb, 95-year-old great-uncle of Mr. Douglas, was the oldest, and three-month old Edna Marie Rosborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rosborough, the youngest to wish "Uncle Tom" many happy returns of the day.

MAN ENJOYS HIS 64TH VISIT TO STATE FAIR

Tom J. Douglas, 79-year-old resident of a community near Winnsboro, was snapped, above, as he enjoyed his 64th consecutive visit to the South Carolina State Fair yesterday. All diked out in a red carnival hat with tassels, Mr. Douglas was enthusiastic about the midway, exhibits and the tall ice cream cone he's shown receiving from Mrs. L. P. Truesdale. Although he not as spry as he used to be and has to get around in a wheel chair, Mr. Douglas wouldn't miss a State Fair for anything, and says he plans to come as long as he is able. Wouldn't Miss It

'Mr. Tom' Douglas At 79 Sees 64th Straight Fair

BY TINA CANNON

Life may begin at 40 for some folks, but it begins each year at the South Carolina State Fair for 79-year-old Tom J. Douglas of near Winnsboro. For the septuagenarian has not missed one of the fairs in the past 64 years!

He was only 15 years old when he first began coming to the fair, and he remembers well when the exposition was held up almost in the middle of town on Elmwood avenue.

"Yes, sir, it sure has grown," the old man said, "and it keeps getting better all the time."

Won't Miss A Fair

Mr. Douglas, affectionately called "Mr. Tom" by his hosts of friends, is a retired farmer of a community about seven miles from Winnsboro. His son, A. P. Douglas, brought him to the fair this year.

"Mr. Tom" came for 20 years with a neighbor, and for 20 years before that with another friend. But no matter how he comes, or who brings him to Columbia, he is determined not to miss a single fair as long as he's able to get here.

Although he's somewhat enfeebled by age, Mr. Douglas still gets around in a wheel chair pushed by a boy. But he doesn't mind so much riding in his chair, because he gets to see the fair sitting down, which is something many footsore trampers over the huge grounds would envy.

Descendants In Service

He has 38 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren. Many of his descendants are with the armed forces overseas, and he gets lots of gifts from them, he said. He was displaying a slick watch yesterday, which a great-grandson had sent him from Germany.

Well-known by perennial fair attendants and attendees, Mr. Douglas is greeted on all sides by persons who hasten forward to shake his hand and stop for a friendly word. His wheel chair is usually surrounded by friends with the jocular old man as the center of the repartee.

After viewing the midway, the concessions, exhibits and the Steel building yesterday, Mr. Douglas was asked by a friend to have a snack at one of the stands. "Nope," he shook his head vehemently. "Don't want any. I want some beer!"

T. J. Douglas Dies at Home

Funeral Services for
New Hope Patriarch
Held Friday.

Thomas Jonathan Douglas, 85, died at his home in the New Hope (Douglasville) section of Fairfield county, Wednesday evening, April 30, at 9:15 o'clock. He had been in declining health for a number of years but had managed to get around and keep up his vital interest in life by means of a wheel chair.

Mr. Douglas on 84th Birthday

A lifelong resident of Fairfield, the "Patriarch of New Hope" was born in the Douglas section and had made his home in that community continuously for 85 years. He was the son of Dr. Thomas Goulding Douglas and Charlotte Rabb Douglas, and was the last of four brothers, Dr. J. E. Douglas, Dr. J. W. Douglas and Charles Harrison Douglas having died a number of years ago.

At the age of 19, he was married to Miss Georgia Shedd of Monticello, and to this union were born eight children, two dying in infancy. Mrs. Douglas died several years ago. Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. L. A. Roseborough and Mrs. Robert W. Wilkes, Sr., of Blackstock; four sons, J. P. Douglas, T. J. Douglas, Jr. and J. L. Douglas, all of Winnsboro, and H. E. Douglas, who lived at the old homestead with his father. Also surviving are 45 great-grandchildren and 33 grandchildren.

Mr. Douglas was always interested in public affairs and for many years served on the Fairfield county executive board. Although he had been confined to a wheel chair for eight years, his zest for living remained unabated and in 1951 he established something of a record when he attended the State Fair for the 61st consecutive year.

A tolerant, kindly, friendly man, Mr. Douglas loved children and he was almost always surrounded by some of his numerous young descendants. He had a host of friends in Fairfield and in recent years when he would come to Winnsboro, people crowded around his chair to talk with him. His long invalidism never seemed to depress him nor to dull his interest in life and in other people.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the New Hope Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, of which he was a member, with the pastor, Dr. W. A. Kennedy, officiating. Interment was in the family plot of the church cemetery.

Active pallbearers (his grandsons) were Marion Douglas, Fay Wilkes, Thomas Lee Douglas, Bert Douglas, Leslie Douglas, Thomas E. Wilkes, W. L. Roseborough.

The honorary escort was composed of James Lee Higgins, J. F. Beam, J. S. McKeown, J. C. Lewis, George Hagood, John S. McKeown, S. U. Robinson, H. N. Obear, A. W. Brice, George Swearingen, E. L. DEATH OF MRS. IDA SHEDD OF LONGTOWN, AND LONGTOWN NEWS

MONTICELLO NEWS

Mrs. Ida Shedd departed this life March 30, 1920. She spent almost her entire life near Monticello. Many hearts are saddened by her death.

For us, the loneliness, the pain, the weeping,

For her, sweet peace
And rest forevermore, in God's own keeping,

Where all toils cease.
For us, the flower-decked grave; for her, the gladness

Of Paradise—
That blessed home, where never tears of sadness

For us, the weariness, the care, the aching,

The toil and strife;
For her, the bright and glorious beginning

Of a new life.
For us, the looking forward to the dawning

When we again
Shall see her, in the blessed heavenly morning;

Not racked with pain.
But strong and fair as angels are, all sadness

And sorrow past,
With her own smile, welcoming us to gladness.

And peace at last!

An Obituary

Mr. T. W. Shedd died at his home near Monticello, September 17. He was the son of Joseph and Ida Rabb Shedd, aged thirty-eight years. A devoted wife, four small children, a fond mother and sister survive him. Words can but poorly express what his going away means to them. His presence seemed so necessary. Loving care and every possible attention from friends was lavished upon him, but could not stay relentless death. Oh! death, thou hast all seasons for thine own. Mr. Shedd suffered greatly through an illness of several months, but was remarkably patient and cheerful, knowing the serious nature of his disease, yet he was unafraid, having committed all to Jesus. He had been a member of the Baptist church for several years. His faith grew stronger in affliction and had the assurance that all was well with his soul.

Not now, but in the coming years,
It may be in the better land;
We'll read the meaning of our tears,
And there, sometime, we'll understand.

The Passing of Augustus Bernard Rabb.

Last Wednesday at Winnsboro, S. C., our beloved Brother Augustus Rabb, of Monticello, S. C., left us. News of his death reaches me here in Chicago three days after his burial. Last summer he and I visited the graves of our parents at Long Run Baptist church, and our Brother pointed out the spot where he wanted to be laid at rest. Neither of us thought that so soon he would be laid to rest near the dust of Jonathan Harrison and Nancy Tavilla Rabb, our cherished and noble parents.

Brother Guss was the youngest of ten children; and because he was near-sighted and sensitive and warmly affectionate we always looked on him as the baby in a sense. That is the southern way.

For many months Brother Augustus had been in failing health; he had a long fever; his nerves were badly off; he lost heart about himself. We all tried to help him, wondering much how we could serve him.

Brother Augustus was a member of the Long Run Baptist church; and loved the scene of worship with an intense love. When that church was disbanded he registered his vote against it. About that spot on a hot summer day last May he and I lingered for hours so redolent is the place with choice memories; and saddened that the goodly congregations no longer met in the lovely, vacant house. And long ago I had requested him to see my body laid at rest there when my time should come.

It is no exaggeration in me to say of Augustus Rabb that he was one of the most truthful men I ever knew. I never knew him to deviate from the truth in any word or act. He united with the church when he was about seventeen years of age, under the preaching of Rev. C. G. Bradford. Let me now thank Brother Bradford for this service. Brother Augustus was a true brother, a true son, a true husband and father. He was provident and unselfish.

When he was about 22 he married Miss Estelle McGill; and of this union eight sons and daughters came. These with Estelle and sister mourn the death of a father who was upright and godly and true. Dear Augustus, precious Augustus, true Augustus, a brother beloved, we trust that thou hast reached the full realization of the things partly seen in all thy prayers and in all thy hopes. Thou didst seek and love God. Thou didst honor thy Savior.

His Brother Robert.

Mrs. Rosborough Gives Shower for Mrs. Wallace

Mrs. L. A. Rosborough entertained in honor of her niece, Mrs. Jesse J. Wallace, a recent bride, with a kitchen shower on Wednesday afternoon.

The guests were greeted on the lawn, where seats were arranged under the oaks. When games and contests, carrying out the kitchen motif, had been enjoyed, the lucky winners were Mrs. Earl Stevenson, Mrs. Edd Caudle, Mrs. H. E. Douglas and Mrs. Jim C. Lewis, and all of them presented the prizes to the honor-guest.

After the recreational hour, the guests were invited into the dining room which was most attractive with an arrangement of magnolias, greenery, flanked by lighted tapers in crystal holders centering the dining table. Other arrangements of the predominating colors, with lighted tapers were used elsewhere throughout the room. Delicious chicken salad sandwiches, cookies and punch were served by Misses Mary Ann and Barbara Douglas. Mrs. T. J. Douglas, mother of the guest of honor, also assisted in the dining room.

About thirty-five enjoyed this lovely affair, and Mrs. Wallace was the recipient of many useful and attractive gifts.

Douglas-Rosborough.

Special to The State.

Winnsboro, Sept. 30.—A marriage of unusual interest to a wide circle of friends and relatives was that of Miss Marie Roberta Douglas of Douglass to Louis Rosborough of Avon, which was solemnized Wednesday morning at the Presbyterian manse by the Rev. G. G. Mayes.

The bride was never more beautiful in her going away suit of blue and gray with accessories to match.

Mrs. Rosborough is a young woman of charming personality, who has many friends both in Fairfield and Chester counties, who will be interested in her marriage.

Mr. Rosborough is a progressive and successful farmer of Avon, where he is widely known. The young couple left immediately after the ceremony in their car for a wedding trip to parts unknown. The many friends of these young people wish them all the happiness and good luck possible.

AVON

Our community was deeply saddened and shocked on last Saturday afternoon to learn of the death of little Sammie Douglas, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Douglas, who died of diabetes after two week's illness. Funeral services were held at the home Sabbath afternoon by Rev. W. A. Kennedy, of Blackstock, followed by interment in New Hope cemetery. A large number of friends attended the services. Floral offerings were beautiful. The little mound was covered, bearing evidence of the high respect in which the little lad was held.

Little Sammie was a member of the second grade in the Blackstock school. He was a lad of a bright and sunny disposition, and will be greatly missed in his home, in his school and in his community, which cannot be filled so well by anyone else and only time can ease the sore hearts which ache at his untimely going. The family have the sincere and heart-felt sympathy of his many friends throughout the county.

The Passing of Dr. Thos. G. Douglass.

On the 6th day of June at his home in Fairfield county Dr. Thomas G. Douglass passed away after an illness of some days. At the time of his death he was 71 years of age, and nearly all his life had been spent in Fairfield county. He was born near Jenkinsville; he enjoyed good school advantages, such as country boys of his time had, and graduated in medicine at the Charleston Medical College.

Not long after graduation Dr. Douglass practised medicine with the noted physician, Dr. Thomas Furman, who lived about three miles south of Monticello. The Furmans were a rich family, of the best standing in the state; and Dr. Thomas Furman's reputation as a physician was of the highest order in Fairfield county. And Fairfield county was in those days rich and beautiful. Splendid homes nestled in great clumps of evergreens and flowering bowers. The prevailing type of architecture was colonial--large wooden structures with heavy pillared porches, painted white with green shades.

When the war came on Dr. Douglass was practising medicine with Dr. Furman. It was no doubt of incalculable advantage for a young doctor, fresh from college, to be associated with a physician of Dr. Furman's skill and standing.

For a few years after the war Dr. Douglass practised medicine in Chester county, not far from his brother-in-law, Samuel McLarkin, who was himself, or came to be, a physician of unusual skill.

Later, Dr. Douglass came into possession of a bachelor uncle's estate nine miles northwest of Winnsboro, and here for more than thirty years he lived and followed his profession. The Brice community was settled by Scotch-Irish Presbyterians, a people of fine energy and thrift; and this section came to be the richest farming section in Fairfield fifteen or twenty years after the war. This was partly due to the fine quality of the land for cotton growing, partly to the management of a people of fine gifts.

For many years Dr. Douglass was very prosperous in his profession. My own brother, Charles Rabb, who graduated in Charleston, assisted Dr. Douglass for a time in his practice, which reached from the Charlotte railroad on the east to Broad river on the west, from Monticello on the south to the Chester line on the north. My brother often spoke of his association with Dr. Douglass with great pleasure, for besides their being brothers-in-law, they were always warm friends. Later, brother Charles practised by himself in the Feasterville community, where he died in 1894.

Dr. Douglass was called in the most serious cases of fever, meningitis, accident, pneumonia, in consultation with other physicians, or families realizing that loved ones were near death frequently turned wholly to his skill. I may say that Dr. Douglass was a splendid physician.

I desire to call attention to a few points in his life and character, which are worthy of emulation.

He was a great worker. Dr. Douglass seldom, in his active career, rode in a buggy; he was in his saddle day and night at times. He usually rode a fine horse with a good easy gait, and seldom went out of a moderate gait, even in serious illness. He was a nervous man, so nervous at times as to be unable to express his thoughts; but he was always in possession of his powers at the bedside. He did not hurry, but went with the decision of a hard worker. No man can tell what an amount of work Dr. Douglass accomplished in the past forty years. He frequently went to the very limit of his endurance.

He was a student. Dr. Douglass was always ready to put aside the old for the new, if he was persuaded that the new was better. He read much in his profession, and succeeded in a marvelous way in keeping abreast of the times. In company with other doctors, or even with intelligent lay hearers, he was extremely fond of dwelling on new developments in medicine. His was an inquiring mind. He was seldom dogmatic, but kept his mind open to suggestion. I am not aware that he was ever accused of 'getting into ru'

Dr. Douglass was of a hopeful turn. He did not speak of his own trials with freedom. In fact, I do not recall ever hearing him complain of being mistreated, or of being neglected, though I have known him all my life and have been much in his home. He was not a bitter man. He was not severe, but gentle. He was not crusty. I believe that he always tried to be gentle and tender with his patients.

He was social, yet prudent. He never showed malice, so far as I knew. He was patient under annoyances, as a rule. He loved to meet people and converse in their homes. And his coming to take dinner after one of his hard rides was a great treat to his friends. I believe that he was always a welcome guest. I record it with great pleasure, that Dr. Douglass was a very prudent man in his habits; he was prudent in speech and in bearing. And it is worth saying, that throughout a long professional career of more than forty years no slander was ever attached to his name.

My sister Charlotte was ever a great helper to her husband, Dr. Douglass. She has been a brave and strong wife to the man of whom I have written. Being a woman of splendid gifts she always sought to be of help in furthering her husband's interests.

At New Hope church, upper Fairfield, the body of Thomas G. Douglass was laid to rest June 7th. His was a long and blessed ministry of healing. When a young man he avowed his faith in the living Christ, and now he rests from his labor. He leaves a good name, and we who knew him indulge the strong hope that the passing from this world to the unseen world was no disappointment to him. His memory is sweet, for his work was well done. Robert Morris Rabb.

Editor The News and Herald:

I desire to add something to the brief but appreciative notice of the death of Dr. Thomas G. Douglass, which appeared in a recent issue of your paper. He died on the 6th day of June, 1906, within a quarter of a mile of the place where he was born on the 12th day of August, 1835, his birthplace being now owned by his son, Charles H. Douglass. There he passed the first eight years of his life, and in 1844 removed with his parents to the place now owned by his brother, Charles B. Douglass, near Jenkinsville, S. C.

He received his early education in the neighborhood schools, principally in the academy, near Shiloh church, and afterwards he received a higher course of mental training and instruction in the Presbyterian High School at Greenwood, S. C., which was established by "the Greenwood Association of Abbeville district," a corporation chartered in 1835 by the legislature of this State for the promotion of education.

He received his medical education in the Medical College of South Carolina, in Charleston, where he graduated in March, 1860. He practised his profession at Long Run, S. C., until, in 1861, inspired by the patriotic feeling which then actuated the young men of the State, he joined Company C of the 6th Regiment of South Carolina Cavalry, and served as a private until he became a surgeon in the Confederate service, and he served faithfully in this capacity until the close of the War Between the States.

After the war he practised medicine successfully in copartnership with Dr. Samuel B. McLurkin at Halsellville, in Chester county, for about three and a half years, their extensive practise also including a considerable section of Fairfield county.

In the latter part of 1868, he removed to the place where he died, and continued in the active and successful practise of medicine, inspiring confidence in his skill and affection in the hearts of his numerous patients and patrons. About two years ago, on account of his failing health it became necessary for him to give up, to a certain extent, the active practise of his profession, and to leave the principal part of the work of attending to professional calls and administering to the relief of sick patients to the skill and active energy of his son, Dr. J. H. Douglass, who for many years has been associated with him in the practise of medicine.

His father was Charles Douglass, who died in 1851, when the subject of this sketch, his eldest son, was sixteen years old. His mother was Sarah Crosby, who survived her husband many years. Three sisters predeceased him, and one brother, David S. Douglass, who was a member of Co. F, 12th S. C. V., and died from wounds received in the battle of Gaines' Mill on the 27th day of June, 1862.

He was buried in the cemetery of New Hope church, of which church he was a member for many years; and many, whose hearts had been drawn to him as their beloved physician, came long distances to pay their last sad tribute to his memory.

He left surviving him his widow, Mrs. Lottie Douglass, a daughter of Mr. Jonathan Rabb, deceased, and four sons, Dr. J. E. Douglass, T. J. Douglass, Chas. H. Douglass and Dr. J. W. Douglass, and one brother, Charles B. Douglass, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary A. Chappell and Mrs. Martha McMeekin, wife of Mr. Joseph McMeekin.

"Ye sorrow not, even as others who who have no hope."

The pains of death are past;
Labor and sorrow cease,
And life's long warfare closed at last,
His soul is found in peace."

REV. ROBERT MORRIS RABB.

On Feb. 14th, we tenderly laid to rest the earthly remains of Rev. Robert Morris Rabb, in the Little River cemetery.

The subject of this sketch was born and reared at Monticello. In early life he decided to devote his life to the ministry. Desiring the very best preparation possible, he spent long years of study getting ready for his work. After leaving the academy at Monticello he graduated at Furman University. From this institution he went to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., graduating from this school under Doctors Boyce, Broadus, Manly and Whitsitt; he later graduated from Rochester Theological Seminary under that master theologian, Dr. A. H. Strong; three years later he graduated at the University of Chicago.

It is an axiom in regard to all enterprises that the measure of one's preparation, in a degree, determines the measure of their success. Judging by this Mr. Rabb had the preparation. He was asked one day by a friend why he spent nine years in theological schools. His answer was, "I am to teach the people the Scriptures and I must know what and how to teach."

He chose to make of himself an accomplished theologian, linguist and writer. He considered no toil too great in the performance of these tasks.

After finishing his education he served as pastor in Kentucky, Virginia, New York, New Jersey, Illinois and Oregon, turning from the work of a pastor to that of a missionary. He labored in all the above mentioned States, adding on California.

His desire was to reach the most crying needs and the greatest destitution. He went upon field after field of this kind, often without money and without price. In these destitute sections he actually founded and built seven churches. While doing all this he, with the result of his labor, has assisted seven young men to prepare for the ministry.

Marvelbus, is it not? That all this preparation and this tremendous amount of work accomplished was crowded into the brief space of fifty-five years.

Mr. Rabb was an uncompromising foe of higher criticism, believing and preaching the plenary inspiration of the Scriptures.

He was never a servant of public opinion; and was neither ashamed nor afraid to begin at the bottom round of the ladder. He never put himself in the hands of other men, and was never affected by popularity.

He suffered intensely for months, but died at the post of duty.

He leaves to mourn his untimely death, two sisters and two brothers; viz: Mrs. Lizzie Hamiter and Mrs. Ida Shedd, of Monticello; T. J. Rabb of Rock Hill and William Rabb of Texas; besides a large family connection and a host of friends.

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

J. P. Isenhower.
