The Herald-Independent

Laura Glenn Douglas was born in Winnsboro, but lived much of her life in Washington, D.C., New York, and abroad. Her life-long ambition was to be an artist and to paint South Carolina and "the South" with vigor and creativeness, "not sentimentalism". It was also her hope that her works would eventually go to a museum. Both of her wishes came true, and her collection, except for a few pieces of art, were donated to the South Carolina Museum. To become a traveling exhibit, her paintings, sketches and other works will be in Winnsboro next spring.

Titled "Red Clay of Winnsboro" the painting uses the technique of a mixture of water and oil. It is on display at the South Carolina National Bank, Columbia, and will be in exhibits. It was painted about 1900.
